Police Claim Major Break In Dope Flow

State and local law enforcement officers followed a months-long narcotics investigation with the arrest last night of a 19-year-old Corte Madera youth, said by them to be a major supplier of marijuana in Marin.

Booked at Marin County Jail, with bail set at $2,750, was Joseph Centanni, a glass working artist living at 205 Corte Madera Avenue.

Centanni was arrested at a Corte Madera gas station by State Narcotics Agent Jesse Foster, who had made an appointment to meet Centanni there and purchase marijuana.

With Foster at the stake-out of the service station were Novato Police Sgt. Otto Haiungs, Corte Madera Police Inspector Harold Hockett and Asst. Dist. Atty. Gary Thomas, all of whose departments had cooperated in the long investigation.

Haiungs, who described Centanni as "a major supplier of marijuana in the area," said the investigation could spread to other Marin cities as well. He said that more than 50 teenagers in Novato alone had been found to be users or sellers of the weed during the investigation.

The investigation began in Novato last September, Haiungs said, when police heard rumors that young people, 14 to 19 years old, were using marijuana.

Centanni, Haiungs said, lived in Novato then.

Haiungs reported that undercover agent Foster subsequently made several purchases of marijuana from Centanni, the largest buy being one kilogram (2.2 pounds), worth $150 to $250.

When Centanni was arrested at last night's rendezvous he had no marijuana in his possession, but was booked for previous sales to Foster.

Haiungs today said a warrant will be sought for another known supplier, an adult.

Crude Gun Gone Over For Clues

The crude but deadly zip gun which killed San Quentin convict Ronald Thomas Roberts yesterday morning may yield clues to which of 370 inmates of Roberts' cell block is the killer.

Prison officials, who found the gun yesterday in a plumbing alleyway behind the tier of cells, plan a microscopic investigation of the weapon for signs of where in this prison it was made, said Associate Warden James W. L. Park.

The gun was fashioned from a five-inch length of pipe, sealed

CRASHED CAR ABANDONED BY DRIVER

Every driver has felt that way about his car sooner or later. Whoever was behind the wheel of this 1957 station wagon was no exception. After it had crashed in the 400 block of Irwin Street, San Rafael, last night, the driver got out and walked away in disgust. Patrolman Donald Rose found the battered car while on routine patrol today and set out to find the mysterious driver. The crash had demolished a stop sign and a street parking sign.

Americans Chase Red Units From Hideouts

SAIGON (UPI) — American troops plunged deeper into the huge Communist sanctuary in War Zone C today, ripping apart abandoned base camps and seizing food and arms caches. They met little resistance and killed 30 Viet Cong who chose not to flee.

In air action, U.S. spokesmen today said three American planes were lost over South Vietnam yesterday. Six American airmen were killed, five when their helicopter crashed near Saigon.

B-52s today made three raids on suspected Viet Cong troop concentrations in South Vietnam. Yesterday, U.S. fighter-bombers battered two power plants in North Vietnam in the first blow against the Communists' electric supply in more than five months.

The Americans' largest sweep of the war, called Operation Junction City, was harassed by Communist mines, booby traps and sniper fire. There was little sustained opposition.

U.S. officials began to worry that the large guerrilla units that have operated in the heavily jungled area for years may have safely slipped across the border into neutral Cambodia.

A military spokesman said there was new evidence the thick foliage about 70 miles northwest of Saigon housed the headquarters of the Communists' Central Office for South Vietnam (COSVN) which directs guerrilla activities throughout the nation.

The spokesman said captured documents reported the recent presence of the Viet Cong's 272nd Regiment, the unit which

A Swindler's Old Dodge Works Again

A con man swindled a Larkspur woman out of $206 yesterday on the pretext of fixing her roof, according to Larkspur police.

Mrs. Pansy P. Phillips of 250 Hawthorne Avenue told police a man went to her house about 11:30 a.m. and said he was the son of the man who had originally built the chimney of her home and that he had just noticed some loose bricks and had fixed them.

He told her he had also noticed some curled shingles which should be fixed, and said he would do the job for "$12 or $15," she told police.

She said he sprayed about three-fourths of the roof with some dark substance, which took 15 to 20 minutes, then asked her to give him two checks, $106 for materials and $100 for labor. He said the job had taken much more material than he had expected.

She gave him two checks.

LAW FROWNS ON HOT-AIR BALLOON TRY

Three boys in the Bel Aire section of Tiburon didn't know it, but they were breaking the law Wednesday night when they launched plastic balloons illuminated by candles and borne aloft by the heated air inside.

The "candleloons" are in violation of Section 12503 of the State Health and Safety Code, San Rafael Fire Marshal Kenneth Mazza told the Independent-Journal today, after spotting photos of the launchnig in yesterday's paper.

County Juvenile Inspector Harvey Teague confirmed it and said the code provides a $500 to $1,000 fine and/or a year in the county jail for launching "fire balloons of any type which have burning material of any kind attached thereto."

Bishop Smooths Academy Furor

Sees Any Changes As Slow

There are no plans to change either the structure or present operation of the San Rafael Military Academy, the Right Rev. C. Kilmer Myers, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of California said today.

"Whatever changes to come about at the academy will be the result of thoughtful consideration and decision by the trustees and diocese," he said.

The statement was issued after a week of disruptions at the school sparked when cadets turned in their insignia of rank and ripped off their stripes. Later, 16 of the officers were suspended for a period.

The cadets said they were in rebellion against the rank system and felt too much stress was being placed on the military side of the school. Some called for changing the academy to an Episcopalian prep school with more emphasis on religion.

Thursday, Richard Work, a founder and member of the Northern California Chapter of the Episcopalian Peace Fellowship, said his group had made demilitarization at the academy

Dry Spell Ends After A Month

The first measurable rain for a month fell on Marin County last night and more may be ahead before storm clouds leave the area tomorrow, says the U.S. Weather Bureau.

It began yesterday afternoon but intensified last night dumping less than an inch on the county.

One of the heaviest downpours was in San Rafael where .8 of an inch fell in the 24 hours up to noon today. Other figures included .67 in Tamalpais Valley, .65 in Sausalito, .49 in Novato, .4 in Fairfax and .36 in Woodacre.

DORHAM F. TALBOT JR.
Gas chamber date off

Gas Chamber Date Stayed By Douglas

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Dorman Fred Talbot Jr., scheduled to die in the gas chamber Wednesday, has been granted a stay of execution by Justice William O. Douglas.

The stay was granted yesterday on an appeal from a refusal of the California Supreme Court Feb. 7 to issue a writ of habeas corpus, according to Deputy State Att. Gen. Edward O'Brien. It is good until the U.S. Supreme Court decides on Talbot's appeal.

The disclosure came as O'Brien was in the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals here to argue for a stay of execution.

Talbot, 26, was convicted in July, 1965, of the bludgeoning-stabbing of a sailor, Michael Bartholomew, 20, in Ventura county. The last execution in San Quentin was in 1963.

Talbot said there was an error by the trial court in instructing the jury. He contended he was in an epilectic stage at the time of the murder and therefore could not have committed it was malice aforethought.

In Los Angeles, attorney A.L. Wirin of the American Civl Liberties Union filed a petition the state Supreme Court earlier yesterday for a writ of habeas.

Garrison Confident He's Right

COMBINED AP & UPI

NEW ORLEANS, La. — Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison says death is the only escape for those he believes plotted to assassinate President John F. Kennedy.

"The only way they are going to get away from us," Garrison said yesterday, "is to kill themselves."

Garrison's statement to newsmen apparently was a reference to the death of David W. Ferrie, a man Garrison tagged as a prime witness in his controversial probe.

The district attorney seemed undaunted by evidence reported by the coroner, Dr. Nicholas Chetta, who said the chemical analysis of Ferrie's body showed "no evidence whatsoever of suicide or murder."

Moreover, Garrison claimed his staff solved the assassination case weeks ago.

"I wouldn't say this if we didn't have evidence beyond the shadow of a doubt," he added. "We know the key individuals, the cities involved and how it was done."

That was the first time the word "solved" had been used by Garrison.

But he said this did not mean arrests were imminent, that he merely used a different word to state what he had said earlier: Arrests will be made and convictions obtained.

Arrests might be months away, said Garrison, adding in the exaggerated style he has

Modern mothers were blamed by a doctor last night for inadvertently starting their daughters down the road to sexual promiscuity.

"With lipstick at 10, and forcing their daughters into steady dating in junior high," mothers "have a devasting effect on teen-age girls," Capt. James Semmes, an obstetrician at Oak Knoll Naval Hospital in Oakland, told a record turnout of the Marin County School Boards Association at Dominic's Restaurant in San Rafael.

Fathers did not escape uncensured, either.

Boys and girls, he said, "are confused by the double standard—what we do, we don't want the kids to do. . . .

"Our youth are facing an adult-created sexual revolution without moral standards that will help them to compete in it."

Captain Semmes described the program of sex and family life education in the schools sponsored by the American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology—which he largely developed. Its aim, he said, is to provide sex education while reinforcing moral standards.

Children should be taught about the differences between the sexes so "they will respect one another—this is basically what we're talking about," he said, again:

"The basic attitudes we seek to develop are those of respect and responsibility. . . .

"Students must be taught a moral code of humanity itself."

This, he said, requires a team effort which includes educators, physicians, clergy, lawyers, bankers, marriage counselors, and parents. All are involved in the program.

The teacher is the most important, he stressed; therefore teachers need thorough grounding in the program before attempting to teach it.

Captain Semmes outlined the material taught each age from kindergarten through high school. "We don't talk so much about sex," he said; but in its entirety the program includes thorough instruction in sexual differences, the reproductive process, prenatal care, dangers of sexual promiscuity and of the things that may lead to it (including narcotics and LSD), etc.

It is being tried in schools in Oakland, Hayward and San Leandro, among others. It is working, said Captain Semmes.

Lawrence Goldberg, Kentfield School District trustee, was program chairman.

Spain To Ease Rules

MADRID (AP) — Spain's 30,000 Protestants, Jews and other minorities will be given rights equal to Roman Catholics to practice their faiths under a long-awaited draft law which came a step closer to final approval today.

The draft was endorsed by Gen. Francisco Franco's National Cabinet last night, but must be passed by the Cortes and the Special Commission on Organic Laws before it is put into effect. Passage is expected by fall.

The law also would allow any Spaniard to hold public office, except that of chief of state. Current law requires that officeholders be Roman Catholics.

Police said there was some pushing and shoving but officers did not have to take any action.

New Air Force Cadets Scandal

AIR FORCE ACADEWY, Colo. (AP)—The head of a student committee investigating the second wave of classroom cheating in two years at the Air Force Academy says he is stunned by the latest honor code violations.

Commenting on the disclosure yesterday that 24 cadets had resigned and 24 others were being investigated by the student committee which enforces the honor code, Cadet Lt. Col. Joseph J. Kruzel said:

"I am stunned. But all the cadets involved were well aware of the honor code. They knew what they were doing."

Lt. Gen. Thomas S. Moorman, academy superintendent, said that some of the 24 candidates who resigned in the current case were varsity athletes, but he declined to say how many. Some athletes also are among those under investigation.

In the cheating scandal two years ago, 109 cadets, including 29 football players, resigned. They were directly involved or were beneficiaries in the theft and sale of examination papers.

The latest resignations, officials said, involved the practice of some cadets discussing the content of examinations with others scheduled to take the same examination later the same day.

The 2,965 cadets at the 12-year-old academy function under an honor code that states, "We do not lie, steal or cheat nor tolerate among us anyone who does."

Judge Studies Censorship Suit

PEORIA, Ill. (UPI)—The judge in the Richard Speck murder trial, apparently angered by a suit charging him with violation of constitutional rights, secluded himself in his suburban Chicago home this weekend to prepare an answer to the charges, sparked by his restrictions on news coverage of the trial.

The Illinois Supreme Court yesterday ordered Circuit Court Judge Herbert C. Paschen to file a reply by next Tuesday to the charges filed by the Chicago Tribune and other newspapers.

However, Paschen said he had no intention of interrupting the trial of Speck, charged with the murder of eight nurses in their Chicago South Side dormitory last July 14.

"I'm not going to interrupt court. I've got a case to try. The hell with 'em," Paschen answered when asked if the proceedings of the trial would be hampered.

The Tribune's suit said the limitations and media coverage of the trial constituted "judicial censorship and prior restraints upon freedom of speech."

The recess until Monday morning marked the end of the first week of a snail's pace jury selection. Only three jurors had been selected by week's end and those were only tentative.

Court Landmark Figure Guilty

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Ernesto Miranda, 27, whose conviction of rape and kidnap were overruled by the U.S. Supreme Court in a landmark decision, was convicted yesterday of the same charges.

Miranda

Miranda had been charged with kidnaping an 18-year-old Phoenix girl, taking her to a desert area, and raping her in 1963.

He confessed to the crimes and was sentenced to 20 to 25 years in the Arizona State Prison. The high court overruled the sentence on June 13, 1966 because Miranda had not been told of his constitutional rights to remain silent or ask for an attorney.

Superior Court Judge Laurance Wren termed the second trial "a game of constitutional chess," after the final arguments. Wren spent most of his time deciding legal arguments.

Composer Franz Waxman Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Composer-conductor Franz Waxman, winner of two Oscars, has died of Cancer at 60.

Waxman died yesterday at Mt. Sinai Hospital.

A native of Koenigshutte, Germany, he composed an opera and works for piano, violin and orchestra. He founded the Los Angeles Music Festival.

He led orchestras in the United States, Europe and the Soviet Union and wrote scores for more than 200 movies.

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Former Orange County Public Administrator Louis T. Vanscourt, 45, has pleaded guilty to two counts of embezzling funds while in office.

Vanscourt, who had been granted a change of venue, saying he could not receive a fair trial in Orange County, pleaded guilty yesterday in Superior Court here.

He was accused of taking more than $14,000 from estates placed under his supervision Oct. 30. He was later arrested in Hawaii.

MONAHANS, Tex. (UPI) — Police charged a man yesterday with stealing a portable television set from a Monahans home. The suspect's name was Dick Tracy.

Israeli Nuclear Test Reported

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli scientists trained in the United States exploded an underground atomic device in the Negev desert late last year, the newspaper Al Hayat said today.

The newspaper said the blast occurred in a chamber 2,600 feet underground. It said radioactivity more than double normal levels in the Mediterranean and Red Seas was noted last Oct. 3 by three American scientists and a German.

Al Hayat quoted unidentified scientific sources as saying the increased radioactivity in the seas could not have been caused by normal atmospheric radiation. It said Israel's atomic program has cost $216 million so far.

Maybe He Should Give Up Smoking

DALLAS (UPI) —A motorist driving through Dallas Friday night dropped his lighted cigarette on the floor. He leaned over to pick it up and then his troubles began.

Officers said the car then jumped a curb, hit a utility pole setting it and the car on fire, hit a low brick wall around an apartment house, went through it and stopped.

The motorist lost a tooth and got a bloody nose. His car was destroyed and there was a short power failure in the area.

The motorist never did find his lighted cigarette.

Youth Believes What Sign Says

NEW BRITAIN, Conn. (UPI) —A restaurateur clammed up on clams yesterday when a 17-year-old customer approached his sixth helping at an "all you can eat for 99 cents" establishment.

Refused his sixth helping, the youth pointed to the advertisement sign in the window and, when that produced no more clams, he called a policeman.

The patrolman turned out to be a master of diplomacy. At his suggestion, the youth downed just one more helping of clams and then went on his way.

ABAG Decisions Draw Attacks From Participating Governments

BERKELEY (AP) — The proposed new regional government of the Association of Bay Area Governments would be run by an appointed 34-member executive committee. And it would have broad powers of condemnation over both private and publicly owned land.

ABAG General Assembly for the nine counties voted yesterday for such procedures—subject to legislative approval setting up the regional government.

As a result of these key votes, Daly City's Vice Mayor Francis P. Pacelli said his peninsula city would refuse to pay dues and would withdraw from ABAG.

"We want a say in this thing and we don't think we're getting it."

Vallejo Councilman David J. Lamoree said he would work against the proposed new regional authority.

Under the proposal, mayors, city coucnilmen and county supervisors would appoint the executive committee members as ABAG's governing body. Opponents sought to have the members elected.

The proposed government would be able to levy a tax of one cent per $100 assessed valuation, bringing in $1 million a year.

ABAG's delegates approved a 1967-68 budget of $133,256. The one for the current year is $228,506.

Robert G. Miller, vice mayor of San Jose, who acted as chairman at the meeting, said it might be necessary later to seek supplemental appropriations.

Gandhi's Party Hurt In Indian Elections

NEW DELHI (UPI)—The Congress Party which has dominated India for two decades today faced possible loss of its parliamentary majority through unprecedented election reverses.

Mounting returns from the seven-day elections also showed left-and right-wing opposition parties had cut deep into Congress Party control of India's 16 states.

Latest tabulations revealed that the party had failed to gain an absolute majority in premier Indira Gandhi's home state of Uttar Pradesh despite her own landslide victory.

Uttar Pradesh thus was seventh state in which the governing party failed to muster an over-all majority. Before the voting, the party controlled all 16 states.

In four of the seven states—West Bengal, Orissa, Madras and Kerala—the Congress Party will go into opposition. In the other three, it will rule in coalition with other parties.

The setback in Uttar Pradesh heightened speculation that the party would fail to regain a majority in the lower house of parliament.

The party of the late Mohandas G. Gandhi and Jawaharlal Nehru remained 66 seats short of the 261 it needed for a majority in the 521-seat lower house of parliament as vote tallying in the seven-day nationwide poll neared completion.

Only 150 of the 521 seats were still in doubt. Most were in the states of Madras, Uttar Pradesh, Bihar and Orissa, where opposition parties have recorded their most surprising gains.

Monagan Drafts Counter Bill To Unruh Proposal

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Assembly Republican leader Robert T. Monagan will offer a GOP alternative to Speaker Jesse M. Unruh's plan to remove all ex-officio members of the University of California Board of Regents.

Monaghan's proposal would remove five of the eight ex-officio regents, including Unruh.

But it would leave Gov. Ronald Reagan, Lt. Gov. Robert H. Finch and Dr. Max Rafferty, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, on the board. All three are Republicans.

Monagan said he was "attempting to bring about a proper balance within the board by restricting these ex-officio members to the state-wide elected officials.

When Unruh introduced his plan he said it was designed to remove a "glaring structural defect" on the board which had given rise to suspicion that partisan political maneuvering played a part in deliberations of the 24 regents.

Suspect Hears Trio Of Charges

Freddie Louis Hunter, 20, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on two felony counts of attempted burglary of apartments and a third count of burglary of a locked car.

Plea entries were scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Monday.

Hunter, a transient already on three years probation for auto theft, was arrested by Sausalito police and sheriff's officers Thursday evening after allegedly attempting to break into two Eden Roc Apartments at Waldo Point.

He also broke a window of the locked car of Isabel Swinden, of the apartments, taking Blue Chip stamps from the glove compartment, according to the complaint.

Judge Hadden W. Roth declined Hunter's request to be released without bail. He remained in county jail yesterday evening in lieu of $4,400 bail.

Assessment Probe Finds $9.78 Million

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Assessor Joseph E. Tinney reported yesterday that his inquiry into unpaid personal property taxes has uncovered $9.78 million which the county never got.

He made the report to Judge A.F. Bray who ordered the investigation last year of 901 firms' books in the wake of disclosures made before and during the trial of former Assessor Russell L. Wolden on bribery charges.

Ramparts Denies Tie With Reds

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The assistant publisher of Ramparts magazine says the publication has "no ties whatsoever" with the International Union of Students, a Communist group headquartered in Prague.

Jim Colaianni said yesterday the magazine had received no funds from Communist agencies, has no Communist ties and does not contemplate accepting Communist money.

His comments were in reply to questions about Ramparts' possible ties with the Communist student organization. A Washington columnist reported Ramparts was being questioned in "high level circles" in the capital.

The questions apparently came up in connection with last week's disclosure of ties between the Central Intelligence Agency and the National Student Association. The NSA strongly opposes the International Union of Students and supports its non-Communist rival, the International Student Conference.

Colaianni said the magazine had lost $1.2 million in its five years of existence but there was no concern with "problems of survival" despite the deficits. He named three sole investors.

Anti-War Strike Hinted Nationwide

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A massive student strike, intended to paralyze colleges and universities across the nation, has been planned for the week of April 8-15, the editor of the UCLA student newspaper said today.

But whether the protest against the war in Vietnam will actually take place remains a matter of conjecture, Neil Reichline, 20, editor of the Daily Bruin, reported.

Reichline, a senior at the University of California at Los Angeles, attended the national student peace strike conference in Chicago Dec. 28-29. He said he was "disappointed in the conference" and was "not satisfied that a strike against the war in Vietnam is appropriate student action."

Reichline said that more than 300 students and faculty members attended the conference which he described as "stormy and highly charged."

The group's final decision, he said, was "that campus leaders of the various groups do what they felt was appropriate at their college or university during the week in April scheduled for protest."

The student newspaper has not decided what its stand will be on the matter, Reichline said.

"I didn't feel then, and I am uncertain now, that there will be any strike, classroom walkouts or massive demonstrations on the UCLA campus during early April because of this conference," he said.

PLOT

adopted in daily exchanges with newsmen, "It might be 30 years."

The investigation was made public when a New Orleans newspaper obtained — from public records — a list of agents, trips they made, and the money spent in seeking clues.

Garrison now is armed with a private war chest to pursue his investigation into the assassination of President Kennedy.

The investigation fund was revealed yesterday after a group of businessmen met with Garrison and the formation of a unit called "Truth or Consequences" was announced.

The organization's funds will apparently allow Garrison to keep his probe going without keeping a public record of the money spent on it.

Garrison said Ferrie, a bizarre loner who wore a wig and false eyebrows, was a key figure in the case. The district attorney said Ferrie's death would delay his investigation but not halt it.

Garrison said his office has an investigation timetable, "but if I tell you what it is, the man we have down the line may kill himself, to be blunt about it."

Reactions to Garrison's investigation generally were skeptical around the country.

Texas Gov. John Connally, wounded by the gunfire in Dallas, doubted it would bring up any new evidence.

Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., House Democratic whip and a member of the Warren Commission, indicated he was satisfied with the results of the commission investigation, but would welcome any significant development uncovered by Garrison or anyone else.

SCHOOL

This was confirmed by the Rev. John D. Riley, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael and one-time trustee of the academy.

Bishop Myers said today changes advocated by Rev. Riley and others "represent a personal point of view and should be regarded as such . . . the school is a diocesan institution, not a parish operation."

He said the academy's operation depended on the decisions of trustees and the diocese and not by individual churchmen or organizations.

"At the time the Episcopal Church acquired the academy as a gift, it was with certain understandings as to the preservation of its nature . . .

"We have no thought of repudiating those understandings, and whatever changes may come about will be the result of thoughtful consideration and decision by the trustees and diocese. As far as I know, no such changes are being contenplated, including a change of name."

made out to "George Meyer." He had cashed both of them at Wells Fargo Bank in San Anselmo by 2 p.m., when she became suspicious and called police.

She described him as 30 to 35 years old, of average build, with dark brown hair and a slight Scotch accent, and wearing neat work clothes. He was driving a white pickup truck, she said.

Her report was the third similar swindle in Marin County within recent weeks.

Troop 55 Scouts will take their annual snow trip March 3-5 to a ski lodge lent the troop for the event.

Pentagon Stands Pat On Bombing

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Johnson administration is reemphasizing there will be no halt to the bombing of North Vietnam until Hanoi offers "an appropriate de-escalation of military action" in return.

The Defense Department yesterday summarily rejected the latest suggestion that a "permanent and unconditional" end to the bombing in North Vietnam should be ordered as a preliminary to peace talks.

At the same time, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, special adviser to President Johnson on military and diplomatic affairs, said it would be "a great mistake" for the United States to halt the bombing in return simply for a promise by Hanoi to enter discussions.

Taylor said the United States must continue, and possibly increase, its bombing of North Vietnam to force an early settlement of the conflict.

The Pentagon's statement affirming the United States intention to continue bombing North Vietnam came in response to remarks made in Paris by Prince Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia.

Sihanouk said he had been authorized to state that the only condition laid down by Hanoi for talks with the United States was a permanent and unconditional end to the bombing.

The Defense Department said Sihanouk's statement "again demonstrates a clear absence of realism.

"Communists once again are proposing that war material sent south to be used against the people of South Vietnam, the United States fighting men and our allies should be moved painlessly," the Pentagon said.

"This country will not stop the bombing and further endanger the lives of those who resist aggression unless something is offered in return."

The Pentagon added the United States "will stop the bombing in return for an appropriate de-escalation of military action by the North Vietnamese."

usually protects COSVN headquarters.

Besides being a tactical military center, COSVN is the administrative and financial nucleus for all Viet Cong operations. It is also a key supply facility for war goods smuggled down through Laos and Cambodia via the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

Numerous contacts with small guerrilla forces trying to stem the sweep by nearly 50,000 American soldiers were reported. One battalion of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division tangled with an estimated company of guerrillas in the western sector of the huge operation hugging the Cambodian border.

The massive assault in War Zone C rolled on in the wake of artillery shelling of the north, and Washington reports naval batteries would soon start bombarding enemy installations farther up the North Vietnamese coast.

'Madame Lola' Hears Charges; Plea Date Set

Madame Lola, alias Lola Adams, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of fortune-telling yesterday following her arrest in Kentfield by Sheriff's Inspector Guido Battaglia.

Judge Hadden W. Roth scheduled plea entry for 1:30 p.m. Monday, then released Mrs. Adams, 32, who also goes by the name, Maria Madonna Williams, without bail.

The defendant allegedly told the fortune of Inspector Battaglia, who did not identify himself, for $10 at her home, 925 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield, last Jan. 5.

Happy New Year In Chinatown

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The largest Chinese community in the United States will celebrate the New Year of the Ram tonight with the annual San Francisco Chinese New Year Parade.

The colorful march will start near the foot of Market Street, the city's main thoroughfare, and finish in Chinatown.

A total of 260 units will participate, led by a Rambouillet ram and ending with a sacred dragon borne on the shoulders of 160 men alternating as teams.

GUN

at one end. A piece of metal rod was used for a bullet, and phosphorus scrapings from hundreds of matchheads were used for gunpowder, Park said.

The gunman apparently shot Roberts, then walked on to the end of the cell tier and threw the gun some 50 or 60 feet into the plumbing alleyway. Roberts' body was found at approximately 9 a.m.

Prison officials are interrogating prisoners in an attempt to determine who had access to the walkway outside Roberts' cell yesterday morning, Park said. Some prisoners are released at 5:30 a.m. to go to mess hall jobs. Others are released in groups starting at 6:30 a.m.

Roberts, a convicted car thief from Los Angeles, was serving a six months to five years sentence. He was due for parole May 1, and his five-year term would have ended October 9.

The killing may have been an "execution" by another prisoner. Roberts had a reputation as a troublemaker and brawler, and had been in several fights during his prison terms, Parks said. Roberts was transferred to San Quentin last March 11 after serving the first part of his term at the Central Training Facility at Soledad. He worked in the cotton textile mill at San Quentin.

Kuchel Calls For Major Water Plan

POMONA (AP)— U. S. Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., says a new water research facility for California is needed to help avert a water crisis which "is stalking the Pacific Southwest."

Kuchel spoke today at the dedication of Pomona plant additions for distributing renovated waste water to public and private agencies at a cost of $7 an acre-foot. The lowest-priced fresh water is $31 a foot.

The plant supplements existing facilities of the sanitation districts of Los Angeles County. Water renovation, Kuchel said, will play a vital role in the future of the state by supplying an added 400,000 acre-feet a year.

"Only planning in the sixties and seventies will prevent California of the next century . . . from being unfit for human habitation" as state population, now near 20 million, reaches 50 million in the next three decaces, the senator said.

Pomona, Claremont and La Verne have been cooperating in waste water conservation since 1922. The plant addition dedicated by Kuchel will double present renovation capacity to 8 million gallons daily for irrigation, experimentation and fire-fighting.

Kuchel spoke on the campus of Cal Poly-Pomona, which is under contract to the city as first user of the plant's renovated water.

The senator said he has recommended a federal research facility for California to the secretary of the interior and it has been authorized under the Federal Water Pollution Control Act. He promised to work for final acquisition of the plant.

"California's unique . . . problems in pollution control," he said, "cannot be adequately resolved by any of the existing water pollution control laboratories."

The bill "contemplates studies of long distance transportation of water into the Colorado River from as far away as the Yukon or as near as the waters of Northern California," he said.

Included in long-range water supply plans for California, said Kuchel, is desalting sea water on a man-made island where the Metropolitan Water District will produce 150 million gallons of fresh water daily under a joint electric power generation program with Southern California Edison Co.

At Pomona the water renovation plant ultimately will produce enough pure water yearly to fill the domestic needs of 45,000 people. However, initially the plant's output will be for agricultural and industrial consumption, he added.

Car Hits Divider, Three Injured

Three Petaluma residents were treated for minor injuries after an accident on Highway 101 near the Greenbrae bridge at 11:45 last night, when a car, driven by Sheldon Monchick, 33, hit the center divider rail, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Monchick and his wife, Betty, 35, were treated at Marin General Hospital and transferred to Kaiser Hospital at Terra Linda for further treatment. Monchick was released after treatment there for face cuts, and Mrs. Monchick was admitted for observation. She complained of chest pain and had bruises.

Another passenger, Robert Alexander, 23, was treated for knee and foot bruises at Marin General and released.

Check Forgery Charge Admitted

Raymond Edward Brooks, 19, of Redwood Valley, Mendocino County, pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to felony forgery of a $60 check.

His case was certified to Marin Superior Court for judgment.

Brooks, originally charged with possessing a check with intent to defraud another person, forged the check Nov. 1 in San Rafael with intent to defraud Sophie J. Powell of Corte Madera.

Road Woes Result In Suit Against County

Elmer Asbell of 30 Bret Harte Road, San Rafael, has filed a claim for $120,000 against the county for damages allegedly resulting from a faulty access road to his property.

He says the road was designed either by the county or by the San Rafael Sanitation District. It forced him to construct a bulkhead to keep his home from being undermined, he charged.

BRIDGET GORMAN

Bridget Gorman, who died Tuesday at Nazareth House, San Rafael, at the age of 86, was incorrectly described in yesterday's obituary story as a sister of St. Joseph of Corondelet.

Miss Gorman had been for four years a resident of Nazareth House, in whose chapel the funeral was held Thursday, but was not a member of St. Joseph of Corondelet.

The Independent-Journal apologizes for any embarrassment the error may have caused her nephew and three nieces, by whom she is survived.

Radio-Control Bandits Kidnap Grocer, Family

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Four gunmen working with walkie-talkie radios to coordinate their efforts robbed a Safeway showplace supermarket in the San Francisco Marina last night after kidnaping the manager and his family.

Their carefully-planned and executed holdup netted only about $1,000. The big money was in a special steel vault that could be opened only by Brinks.

The robbery team of four men —three of whom pulled the kidnaping and robbery while the fourth kept in constant communication by radio from the getaway car — kidnaped the Safeway manager, Jack Coley, about 9:15 p.m. when he returned from the store to his Sunset District home.

He had just closed the store, leaving 12 clerks to stock shelves for weekend trade.

They ordered Coley, his wife Zara and their 22-year-old daughter Jackie, "Do as you're told and you won't get hurt."

The employees and Coley's wife and daughter were berded into a rear stock room and then Coley was forced to open the safe and hand over the money.

The robbers talked about putting the Coleys and the clerks — 15 persons in all — in a big freezer room, but didn't. Instead, they shoved them into a produce room and warned them not to leave for five minutes.

Then the three gunman walked out and presumably were picked up by the fourth man in the getaway car.

Youths Held As Suspects In Robberies

Two Marin City youths, alleged to have been involved in armed robberies in the area, were arrested by Sheriff's officers in Marin City last night.

Loverd Howard, 18, of 99 Cole Drive, was booked into Marin County Jail on charges he robbed Richard Lomax and Nanya Baker of $85 at gunpoint Feb. 11.

Also arrested last night and turned over to juvenile authorities was a 15-year-old youth officers said was with Howard at the time.

The 15-year-old was also said to have been involved in the armed robbery of the Community Store at 371 Shoreline Highway, Tamalpais Valley when $230 was snatched from the cash register Feb. 17.

According to the sheriff's office, the 15-year-old's crime partner in the Feb. 17 robbery was Steve Howard of 235 Drake Avenue who was booked into jail Thursday. The two Howards are not related.

Last night's arrests followed investigation by Sheriff's Lt. Ellis Seibert and Inspector Arthur Menjou.

Yesterday Steve Howard was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on a felony charge of armed robbery for the Community Store holdup and also on a misdemeanor charge of illegal possession of a pistol.

Judge Hadden W. Roth scheduled plea entries for 1:30 p.m. Monday, but refused Howard's request for reducing the $5,500 bail.

Howard was arrested Thursday by Mill Valley police after being questioned about an attempted burglary. Officers said he matched a composite drawing of one of two robbers who took $230 at gunpoint from Community Store, 371 Shoreline Highway.

Howard had the concealed gun, a .22 caliber derringer, and a mask similar to those worn by the two holdup men, in his car when arrested Thursday, officers said.

Bolinas Group Endorses Bonds

The majority of directors of Bolinas Community Inc. present at last night's meeting voted to endorse the Bolinas-Stinson School District $275,000 bond measure, David J. Tirrell, secretary, reported today.

School district trustee Arthur E. Carpenter described the building program to be financed by the bond issue which will be voted upon March 21.

Representatives of the Beach Property Owners Association asked for support of their request for more police protection locally. They said they proposed a resident Sheriff's deputy and than an officer of the California Highway Patrol be stationed in the area.

Faces Check Charge

San Rafael Fire Flares Up Again

San Rafael firemen were called last night to douse the still smouldering ruins of the converted mansion destroyed by a general-alarm fire early Thursday.

The flare-up, reported at 9:55 p.m., was quickly extinguished.

Thursday's fire in the four-story mansion at 1364 Grand Avenue remains under investigation. Fire Chief Vance Trivett has termed it an incendiary blaze, but does not know whether it was deliberately or accidentally set.

Police Scuffle Charge Heard

Larry A. Vivier, 29, of 78 Novato Street, San Rafael, appeared in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on a misdemeanor complaint of drunken driving with a prior conviction, and battery on a police officer.

Formal arraignment was continued by Judge Hadden W. Roth until 1:30 p.m. Friday.

Vivier, halted by San Rafael Patrolman Terry Lucchesi on Third Street early yesterday, allegedly punched Lucchesi and ripped his clothing. Officers said Vivier suffered a broken nose in the scuffle. Lucchesi suffered a cut eye and lip.

Vallejoan Injured Near County Line

Leo Cook, 31, of Vallejo suffered cuts and bruises to both legs today when the car he was driving skidded off the road and turned over on Highway 37 near the Sonoma County line, California Highway Patrol reported.

Boston Strangler's Brothers Arrested

BOSTON (AP)—Two brothers of Albert DeSalvo, 35, self-styled Boston strangler, were arrested today as accessories in their brothers' escape yesterday from a mental hospital.

Richard DeSalvo, 32, and his brother, Joseph, were accused by Massachusetts authorities of aiding in Albert's escape.

They were due for arraignment later today.

Circumstances of the brothers' arrests were not immediately available. Richard lives in the Boston suburb of Chelsea and Joseph in the adjoining suburb of Everett.

The arrests were disclosed as a nationwide hunt was on for Albert DeSalvo. There was a belief by Massachusetts officials that he is armed and hitchhiking toward Williamsburg, Ontario.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Donald Conn, coordinator of the search, said, "For the first time we are not throwing darts at a dart board. Now we have a direction."

Canadian police said all Ontario border points and custom offices have been placed on alert for DeSalvo.

State police in Boston said they believed DeSalvo had a .32 caliber pistol and about $130 in cash.

State police declined to give the source of their information, but Conn said the surrender last night of two men who escaped with DeSalvo was "a factor in narrowing the search."

The far flung resources of the FBI joined in the search. The FBI obtained a warrant charging DeSalvo with unlawful flight to avoid imprisonment for rape and suggested that $100,000 bail be asked on his capture.

Fred E. Erickson, 40, Brockton, and George W. Harrison, 33, Westford, who escaped with DeSalvo, said they drove to Boston where they parted with DeSalvo early in the morning.

DeSalvo never has been indicted in the deaths of 13 Greater Boston women between June 1962, and January 1964, which were ascribed to the Boston strangler, but has said a number of times he committed the crimes.

He was sentenced to life imprisonment last month after a trial in Cambridge on charges of rape and indecent assaults on four women in suburban Boston homes in 1964.

Heart Fund Drive Climax Tomorrow

The climax to Marin's month-long Heart Fund drive comes tomorrow when an estimated 3,000 volunteers collect door-to-door.

Residents not at home will be left envelopes to mail donations, according to Mrs. Donna Hart, chairman of "Heart Sunday."

Funds collected will be added to the amount received already this month, and the total will help expand research, education and community service programs of the Marin County Heart Association.

Tomorrow's collection will be tabulated at Crocker-Citizens National Bank, San Rafael, and Bank of Marin, Novato.

The Heart Fund Drive officially ends Tuesday.

California predicts its population will be 35 million in 1990 and 54 million 2020.

Scientists estimate that it would take all the rivers of the world 230 days to fill the lake-bed of Lake Baikal in Eastern Siberia, the world's largest freshwater lake.

Add Your Favorite Sleeves On A Sleeveless Dress Pattern

By EUNICE FARMER

I would appreciate information on how to make a sleeve pattern to be used when making a dress or blouse that only shows a sleeveless version.—MRS. M. I. L.

DEAR MRS. M. I. L.,

You must use another pattern with the type sleeve you wish. Also, use the front and back pattern to cut the armhole correctly.

Place the two patterns over each other, matching the shoulder seam and the center front or center back. Cut the armhole exactly the same as the pattern that you are using for the sleeves. It works beautifully!

Mrs. Frances Fenton of Columbia, Mo., is this week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner.

I am tall, and every dress that I have bought recently has had to be faced. Several of them are knit and I use matching cotton lace, about 2 inches wide, to face them. It allows a little give with the knitted material.

DEAR EUNICE:

My latest pattern shows a contour waistband instead of a straight one. What is the advantage to this, and can I use this waistband on any skirt pattern? — MRS. C.C.

DEAR MRS. C. S.,

The skirt pattern itself has been shaped, high in front and lower in back to fit the contour waistband. Many women prefer this because it conforms more to the figure. You cannot use this waistband on any skirt unless it has been shaped accordingly.

DEAR EUNICE:

I marked and basted some white material with red thread that was left over in my thread box. When I pulled out my basting threads, there were red marks on my dress. How can I get these out? —MRS. R.E.H.

DEAR MRS. R. E. H.,

Red thread is the one color you should never use on another color fabric because the dye simply doesn't set well. There is always a chance it will bleed or rub off.

Take your dress to your dry cleaners and see if he can remove them. Often cleaning a dress will either eliminate or fade these marks so they won't be noticeable. I hope all of you will remember that red thread is for stitching red fabric only.

Retail Prices To Rise On Food Dollar

NEW YORK (AP)—Remember last year, when bacon was $1.19 a pound?

It is now 48 cents at a supermarket in Lake Oswego, Ore., for example, and 79 cents at a New York area supermarket chain.

The nation's homemakers are finding larger supplies of pork, beef, lamb, poultry and eggs this winter—and at lower prices than a year ago.

The Agriculture Department predicts retail prices will rise 1 to 2 cents on every food dollar this year.

NOW BEEF output is approaching record levels, and pork marketings are running ahead of a year ago. Growers are raising more chickens and turkeys and egg production has soared so high that eggs are selling for 5 to 10 cents a dozen less than a year ago.

Citrus prices have tumbled with the huge orange crop in Florida and the heavy harvest of navel oranges in California.

Most fresh vegetable prices are lower than a year ago when a freeze in Florida cut supplies.

POTATO prices generally are higher—a freeze again, in Idaho late last fall. But there are big supplies—and frequent specials—on frozen french fries.

Shoppers generally can expect to find more canned and frozen fruit juices but less dried fruit than a year ago. Supplies of canned and frozen vegetables are about the same, but prices may edge up because of processing costs.

There are bigger stocks than a year ago of frozen applies, blackberries, blueberries, boysenberries, strawberries, asparagus, broccoli, brussels sprouts, carrots, cron, baby limas and spinach.

But supplies are smaller of frozen apricots, cherries, grapes, peaches and peas.

Planned Parenthood Group Honors Three

Two outstanding volunteers and the first woman physician to administer birth control services in Marin were honored at the annual fund drive kick-off party of the Planned Parenthood Association of Marin.

Charna Perry, M.D., who offered contraceptive services at her offices in 1935, was given a certificate of recognition by the Marin board of Planned Parenthood for her "foresight and unique sense of dedication to the philosophy of family planning."

Also honored were Mrs. Lawrence Cahn, of San Rafael, outstanding desk volunteer, and Mrs. Fred Dickson Jr. of Kentfield, outstanding nurse volunteer.

The association, celebrating its 31st year in Marin County, has a goal of $28,000 to further its medical clinic and education program this year.

A Letter

To: Mr. & Mrs. Marin
From: Rollen Star Corporation of America

We are a highly respected Burlingame, California scientific, research, development and marketing organization. After years of research work. Now tested and proven. We have an amazing space age break-through in the ultrasonic transmission of musical sound.

This amazing break-through is a direct descendant of the high frequency surface amplification sonar systems used by our nuclear submarine for the purpose of locating the enemy.

Our scientists have taken this space age wonder and transformed it into a transmitting system whereby hi-fi stereo music can he transmitted and will emit from any object that is a suitable sounding board without the benefit of visible wires or speakers in your home, place of business or recreation center. You can have beautiful stereo coming from your entire ceiling or walls, your furniture, patio furniture, plate glass windows or even your bathtub. (Girls, take note, you can take a bubble bath with Frankie's voice singing through the bubbles.) (Boys, take note, Barbra Streisand's voice in the shower, too.)

Our research department's personnel will be phoning you in an effort to determine the public's preference in musical transmissions for homes and businesses and our technicians will be giving in-the-home and business demonstrations and asking questions as to your musical transmissions and musical desires.

This product is only available through our research department and not for sale in regular retail outlets.

Our desire is to further our consumer research by placing 100 installations in homes or businesses in Marin County.

These 100 installations will be placed on an advertising and near cost basis of our product. With a small down payment and a small monthly payment to interested music lovers.

This system can be installed with your existing hi-fi stereo record player, radio combination, or placed in your home with our new tape player stereo amplifier system.

This is so amazing it is called Mystery Music. For the first ten demonstration appointments each day, a free surprise gift will be given to the lucky caller—

ART REVIEW

Nowell's Geoetric Variations

By LAURA DAVENDORF

One of the most difficult art forms to explain is that stripped-down, hard-edged geometry represented by Neville R. Nowell's work showing through March 17 at the Lucien Labaudt Gallery in San Francisco.

There it is, painted flat and often as starkly designed as a single outlined rectangle within a square. Yet even with such a sparse format, the Terra Linda artist manages to get a variety, meaning and mood often missing in more representational work.

It's even harder to do, than to explain. In this kind of painting there are no excuses. There are no distractions from the weak spots by texture or subject matter. It's just right or it isn't and the key to rightness is choice of color and design.

Nowell is more often right than not and the simpler he gets, the more powerful his work becomes. He includes some complex structures, maze-like weavings of lines and shapes on huge flat colored planes. He resolves these designs nicely enough, often getting a deep sense of space and motion with an overlay of lines and jarring use of color.

But it is through complete simplification that Nowell challenges his nerve and talent. In a series comprised solely of telescoping rectangles he stretches economy of choice into a gamut of mood.

One—a blue, red, lavender and yellow canvas just dares you with its self-assurance and sophistication. Another, a dazzling combination of orange, lavender and ochre blinds the eye with light while a third, a sienna-edged shape of grey, broods mysteriously in a field of black.

Basically, these three paintings are the same. Through color and design alone Nowell makes them vibrate, float, recede and blare. How he attempts all this within such a simple framework is the part that makes his work worth studying. That he gets away with it is the part that is exciting.

UNDERGROUND MOVIE MAKER

San Anselmo Family Seeking New Dimensions With Camera

By JOHN F. KEARNEY

There is a world of difference between the films of Larry Jordan, working from his upstairs studio in San Anselmo, and those of the conventional commercial cinema.

The tall, serious 32-year-old Harvard man believes that movies can and should be an art form involved in experience.

A camera is not merely a machine to record a screenplay but a central pivot around which moods and feelings find expression, senses scraped bare and thoughts unveiled.

Width, height and surface are not enough. To Jordan, and others of the new breed of experimental film-makers, the search is on for depth — the fourth dimension.

LONG EXPERIENCE

Twelve years and 30 films after he started, Jordan says things are beginning to move his way. "I feel that more of the people who are seeing my work are accepting it," he said.

It happened with the completion of what he calls his major flim so far "The Old House, Passing," scheduled for showing at the seventh Ann Arbor Film Festival in Michigan next month.

The film was given a preview last week at the home of architect Joseph F. Drosihn in Ross where part of it was made. "It was well received," said Jordan, "and we feel much of what we wanted to express came over."

A GHOST STORY

Described as a ghost story, "Old House, Passing" runs for 45 minutes, has no dialogue and took 18 months to make. He estimated it cost about $2,000 "and a great deal of time."

Still, at least one person at the preview who was looking for basic film structure came away confused.

"There was one girl there with acting background who could not accept the absence of conventional peaks in the story.

"Although it has a story line, there is also a juxtapositioning of time zones," he said. "One moment we see an old woman; the next moment the same woman is much younger playing parallel action."

While admitting moviegoers in general may not yet be ready to accept the films of avant-garde film-makers without question, Jordan said the number of people finding satisfaction in them is growing.

NOW, COOPERATION

To cope with this growth, the underground is becoming organized. Jordan has joined with 30 others in a film-making cooperative and is a director of Canyon Cinema, a Berkeley group for years foremost in encouraging independent production and now entering the field of distribution.

"At the moment there are four theaters in San Francisco equipped to project 16-millimeter art films," he said. "There are people who are smelling money in independent films and the demand has to be met."

Which is all to the good, for Jordan said there was nothing he would like better than financial security "so I could be free enough to make the kind of films I like to make."

OTHER JOBS

Since moving into his home at 15 Allyn Avenue, San Anselmo, four years ago, he has worked as a post office clerk and carpenter to give himself that security. His wife, Patricia, is a still photographer. They have a 6-year-old daughter, Lorna.

He has done several animated shorts and industrial films for "bread and butter." But it is in experimental films that Jordan feels his future lies.

He was in high school in Denver when his interests turned to the drama group. He also did a little writing.

Influenced greatly by the filmed symbolism of Jean Cocteau, he joined the school film group, concentrating on directing and writing. Ultimately he thinks he could produce a 45-minute 35-mm art film using a four-man production team.

Immediately ahead is a fairy story. He sees it not as a modern or period fairy tale, but something in which each person acts out a projection of his inner self under the influence of beings in the visionary world.

"It is very much in our thoughts at the moment," said Patricia Jordan.

Elizabeth, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Raymond M. Brown of Reno, Nev., received a bronze medallion and check.

'Overkill And Megalove' Tackles Diatribe On Atom Age's Apathy

By KARL BARRON

Festival Theater has a reputation for being unafraid in its approach to unusual themes and production methods, so it is no surprise to find it producing a furious diatribe by Norman Corwin on the insanity of today's apathy about The Bomb.

"Overkill And Megalove," billed as "a new collage for the stage," is a sensitive, highly intelligent study of what we are doing and where we are allowing ourselves to be led or pushed —not just in Vietnam—but in the over-all philosophy of human values.

The definition of "overkill" we all know. Corwin defines "megalove" as a "flood tide" of loving and mating, happening at every moment all over the world.

MEANINGFUL ANSWERS?

Although Corwin offers solutions for apathy at the play's end, one wonders whether they mean anything in the light of press reports that two respected members of Congress are arguing over the cost of killing a Viet Cong—does it cost $300,000 or $350,000?

Unquestionably, director Robert Adler's sensitive efforts to transform Corwin's script into a play, rather than a powerful documentary written for the ear alone, should be seen.

It will play in San Anselmo Fridays and Saturdays at 8:30 p.m. and Sundays at 7:30 p.m. through April 2.

It is set in the form of a university faculty making a pitch to the public for the excellence of its courses, and hinting that some tax-deductible endowments would be appreciated.

The "courses" range from Entomology 14, in which Professor William Catanese and Librarian Owen Orser discourse with dramatic fury on the fact that insects are the only creatures that can escape radiation, to lovely Dorothy Derosiers posing with branches in her hand as a tree, while Registrar Raymond Walsh scratches his back against her derriere. They run the gamut from hard hitting outrage through bitter satire to the pitiful evocation of children dying in the wake of atomic blasts and being maimed through 50 generations.

POETIC PARADE

A class in poetry parodies well-known works for the modern age; "The mushroom cloud comes on tiny cat's feet, touches the city and passes on . . . and on . . . and on." And Music Dean Josef Marais and his assistant, Miranda Marais, sing a haunting little refrain which begins with "One, two, three" and leads into the billions by which megatons are measured.

At the conclusion, when the question "What can be done?" is asked, Professor Dale Moffitt points out "Indifference is a costly luxury" and for those who say nothing can be done "Think small—you will come to mousehood."

The actors use their own names, with titles attached. In addition to the above mentioned, Mark Hannah, Jeanne T. Sermon and Miles Tilton stand out in a thoroughly competent cast of some 22 persons.

Marais and his wife, perhaps best known for their charming songs of the South African veldt, are guest performers and Marais has composed the music in the same general tone, adding bits of menace at appropriate points. They are assisted by the mandolin and pleasing voice of Carol Merrill.

SET EFFECTIVE

A. M. Tuggle's set, built around triangular pieces of canvas made like a huge collage, is quite effective, and the canvas serves also as a screen for projections. Conrad Knudsen's lighting is excellent.

A final sequence of projection and sound has effective moments, but leaves the impression that its disjointedness is uncontrolled, and therefore at times incomprehensible.

The show's most effective moments are concommitant with the opportunities to lift it from the professor's desk chairs and make it move. This Adler has done in the imaginative subway scene, Moffitt's call for the subways of the world to strike, and the entomology sequence. But in the main it is lack of physical action which lowers the pace—abetted I feel, by the overly pedantic slowness of Chancellor Kenneth McClellan.

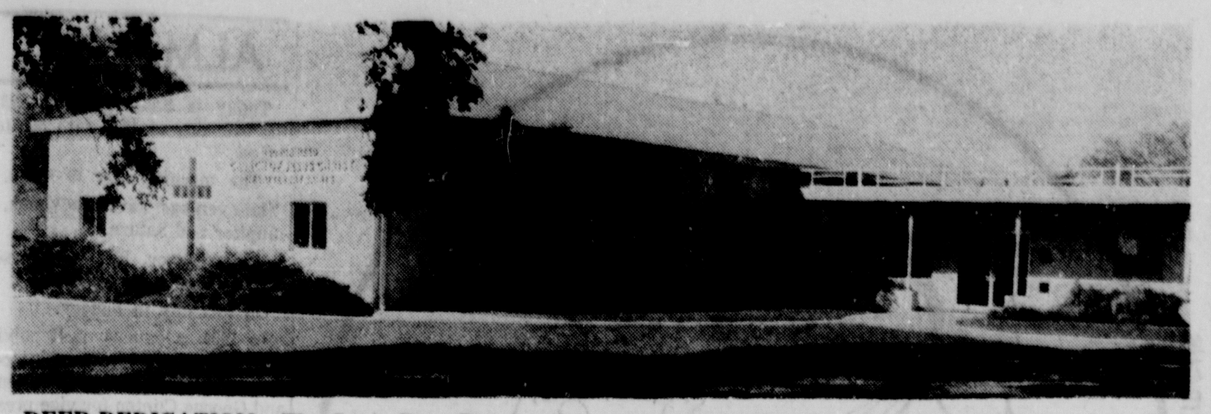
An Industrial Park Takes Shape

North of San Rafael and east of busy Highway 101, Unit One of Northgate Industrial Park awaits the industry that will fulfill its purpose and the landscaping that will make it a park. But don't be misled by the wide-open spaces between buildings; most of the land has been sold in anticipation of the growth and accompanying demand ahead in Marin. In the park's lower right is Fairchild Semiconductor, largest private employer in the county. To its left is the triple-pyramid roof of Margarita Plaza, which houses several offices, including Dohemann and Co., agents for the park. Mitchell Drive cuts through the center of the park to Gallinas Creek. That big triangle on Smith Ranch Road is One Hundred One Drive-in movie. Beyond is Northwestern Pacific Railroad's track. Santa Venetia in the upper right corner sits serenely on its side of the creek's south fork. That road in the lower foreground that seems to pass through nothing to nowhere is a service road that one day will extend into Terra Linda. (Photo by Aero Photographers)



DEED DEDICATION—The Santa Rosa Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, 1780 Yulupa Avenue, will be the scene tomorrow of a deed of trust dedication. Participating in the event will be members of the church's Marin congregations.

World Mission Advocate Will Present Talks

Dr. Alfred Swan, Madison, Wis., a minister of the United Church of Christ, who recently returned from a world tour of the denomination's overseas work, will speak tomorrow at the Community Church (United Church of Christ), Olive and Throckmorton streets, Mill Valley.

He will meet with the adult class at 9:30 a.m., and preach at the 11 a.m. worship service.

The United Church of Christ is a union of the Evangelical and Reformed Church and Congregational Christion Churches.

1965 RETIREMENT

Dr. Swan, who was born in China of missionary parents, retired in October, 1965, after 25 years as pastor of First Congregational United Church of Christ in Madison. He previously served Park Church, Greeley, Colo., 1927-30, and Forest Lawn Presbyterian Church, Marion, Ohio, 1922-27.

Long an advocate of the world mission of the church, especially in terms of its service to human need, Dr. Swan made five survey and study trips to Europe during his ministry.

On their recent four month tour, Dr. and Mrs. Swan visited 40 places in 20 countries and interviewed some 330 persons.

These included personnel serving in prohects and centers of the World Council of Churches and Friends Service Committee as well as members of the overseas staff of the United Church of Christ.

CHURCH DUTIES

Dr. Swan was the first chairman of the former Congregational Christian Service Committee, one of the predecessor agencies of the present United Church Board for World Ministries, overseas agency of the United Church of Christ.

Dr. Swan has served as a member of the executive council of the United Church of Christ and of the executive committee of the International Congregational Council. He was charter member and sometime chairman of his denomination's Council for Christian Social Action.

He has been a director of Chicago Theological Seminary since 1932, has been active in the Wisconsin Council of Churches and in numerous community programs and is at present a member of the Mayor's Advisory Committee, Madison. He has been a frequent contributor to national church magazines.

Born in Canton, South China, in 1897, Dr. Swan received his BA from the College of Wooster, Ohio, 1917, with Phi Beta Kappa honors. He received his BD from Union Theological Seminary, New York, in 1921.

Mill Valley Parish To Hear Report On Lay Participation

A comprehensive program designed to stimulate lay participation in affairs of the church has been undertaken at Mt. Carmel Catholic Church in Mill Valley and more than 400 members of the parish will gather Wednesday night for a special dinner meeting report on progress.

The plan, which is known as the stewardship program, has as its core the creation of a permanent 12 man elected parish council which will assist priests in the administrative areas of church matters, thereby freeing them for concentration on the spiritual aspects of parish life.

Essentially, the stewardship concept contemplates the utilization of the professional or special talents of the laity in such fields as finance, construction, legal affairs, and education.

A group of eight categories of lay participation has been established, and each family is asked to make a commitment to serve in some capacity in one of the groups.

As a second and equally important part of the program, each family will be asked to make a financial commitment on a continuing basis.

From this, the parish council will be able to establish and administer operational budgets for the continuing work of the parish as well as for completion of the building program now in progress.

As a direct result of this approach to financing the parish, it will be possible to eliminate any special fund-raising projects in the future.

Dr. Sean Maloney, one of the leaders of the interim steering committee which has been developing the program for the Mill Valley parish, points out that it is a plan which has been successful in more than 40 other parishes in the Northern California area. It has the support of the Archdioscese, as well as the local pastor, Rev. John J. O'Brien.

The Wednesday meeting will be a free dinner for members of the parish 18 and over, and will be held at Dominic's Restaurant, in San Rafael.

The Santa Rosa church is used by members of the stake as a location for special events.

Also on Bishop Cackler's schedule tomorrow is the 11 a.m. worship service at the Novato church, 357 Calle Arboledo.

On March 5, Bishop Cackler will deliver the key message at the ninth annual confernece of the Bay Area stake at a meeting in the Alemeda County Veterans Memorial Building, 200 Grand Avenue in Oakland.

Marriage To Be Topic Of Retreat

Rev. Ronan Morrisroe, retreat master at St. Clare's Retreat in Santa Cruz, will offer a twilight retreat at St. Raphael's Church Auditorium on March 8.

His topic at the 7:30 p.m. service will be "Christian Marriage Today."

All Marin couples are invited by St. Raphael's Mothers' Guild and the Holy Family Retreat Association, Marin Chapter, to hear Father Ronan open opportunities for greater happiness as methods for greater spiritual perfection are developed.

There will be two conferences —The sacramental sign of matrimony and the responsible parenthood.

Following will be a question box, benediction and a renewal of marriage vows. A weekend at a retreat house of their choice will be given to some couple in attendance.

Southern Baptist Convention Still Biggest In U.S.

MEMPHIS (UPI) — The Southern Baptist Convention released a statistical report this week showing that it is still the nation's largest Protestant denomination, with a membership nudging 11 million.

But the report also contained some bleak news for Baptists, who attach great importance to their Sunday Schools. Sunday School enrollment declined during 1966 by nearly 1 per cent—not a big drop numerically, but significant in a denomination which is accustomed to large annual increases.

Southern Baptists spent $169 million during the year on new construction, bringing the total value of their church property to about $3.3 billion.

Unusual Approach To Lenten Season

By JAY BOWLES

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) —Rev. Albert Huntington Hatch leaned back in his chair, opened his jacket to expose a bright red sweater over his clerical shirt, threw his feet up on the desk and explained his conclusion that "God is against Lent."

"I delivered a sermon on it several weeks ago," mused the blond, boyish-looking rector of St. Timothy's Episcopal Church in the township of Signal Mountain, near Chattanooga.

IN FAVOR?

"I asked, 'Is God in favor of Lent?' I concluded He was not, because the inactive people just stay that way and the active ones, who have been saved many times before, are the ones who come out for all of these extra kinds of services."

As a result, he says, he scheduled "not so much as one extra service" for his congregation during Lent.

Bert Hatch, 35, who lives with his wife and four children at the adjacent rectory, designated the "Hatchery," said his regular services are not as well attended as they might be.

"So why should I create more services for our people to feel guilty about?" he asked. "I'm just not in the business of creating new sins for people."

His approach to Lent was to bring five popular films, considered controversial even in the nation's movie houses, to his sanctuary during Lent for discussions of their religious implications.

THE FILMS

The lineup:

"The Fountainhead," a story of a young architect who blows up his own creation, a building, because he feels it has been ruined by "mercantile minds."

"The Night of the Iguana," the story of the relationships among a defrocked priest, an earthy widow and a delicate spinster.

"Blue Denim," the story of two teen-agers whose passions have led to an unwanted child but whose consciences direct that their parents not be told.

"A Place in the Sun," a tale of a triangle love affair involving three young people, one at a time confused, glamorous and wealthy.

After each showing, the congregation breaks into small groups to take a look at the religious implications.

"This is good stuff with a lot of religion in it," Rev. Hatch said. "These are stories of the forces men and women are up against and how they meet them. Something doesn't have to be in King James English to make it religious."

The Rev. Mr. Hatch was graduated from the University of the South School of Theology in 1956 and four years later, at age 29, was elected to a three-year term on the university's board of trustees.

A native of Augusta, Ga., he served churches in St. Marys, Woodbine, Savannah and Marietta, Ga., and in Menomonee Falls, Wis., before coming here.

Adult Class Will Hear CHP Officer

Lt. William Porter, executive officer of the Marin California Highway Patrol, will be the guest speaker at the Novato Community Church's adult inquirers Class tomorrow at 9:40 a.m.

Porter will speak and answer questions on the subject "Christian Principles and Law Enforcement."

He has served as a law enforcement officer for the past 18 years, and has been active in community and church activities in Marin County.

Porter has served as Sunday School teacher, music director and lay minister in two churches. He has served as P-TA president of Rancho School and has taken an active interest in youth affairs. He is currently teaching the College age class and sings in the choir of the Novato Community Methodist Church.

The class is coordinated by Donald A. Jackson, who each week invites guests to discuss various problems and issues of interest to the adult members of Novato's Christian community.

Borderline Church

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — When a Baptist congregation on the city's edge sought a building permit for its new Broadleigh Baptist chapel, it discovered that the structure was situated on a boundary line, partly in Columbus and partly in adjoining Bexley. It had to obtain permits and meet inspection requirements of both cities.

Lesson Topic

The early story of Jesus' life will be tomorrow's topic of the weekly Christian Science lesson with key to the scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy.

Church School President Will Retire June 30

LOMA LINDA (AP) — Loma Linda University President Godfrey T. Anderson says he will end his 13 years in the position June 30.

Anderson, 57, told university staff members and trustees last week that he felt a change would benefit both himself and the university.

He came to Loma Linda in 1954 after holding the presidency of La Sierra College in Riverside.

Trustees of this Seventh-day Adventists-supported institution are soon to discuss obtaining a successor to Anderson.

Outrun By Time

BERLIN, West Germany (AP) — At the World Conference on Evangelism here, a large ticking-clock showed that the world's population had increased nearly a million in the 10 days of the meeting — a gain 10 times faster than converts are being won to Christianity.

Church Paper Features Airmen

An article about two Canadian officers at Hamilton Air Force Base by Paul Brindel, Novato Catholic writer, appeared in the Feb 11 issue of the Canadian Register, a Catholic weekly paper printed in Kingston, Ont.

The story concerns Air Commodore Hugh C. Ledoux, vice commander of the Western North American Air Defense Region headquarters, and Wing Commander Anthony C. Golab.

Special Concert Slated At Church

The Consortium Antiquum of Marin County will present a concert at the Unitarian-Universalist Church of Marin, 240 Channing Way, at 8 p.m., Saturday, March 4.

The group is under direction of Ron Morgan.

Assistant Pastor To Mission Field

The congregation of Faith Lutheran Church in Terra Linda paid farewell recently to Rev. William Harman and his family who will become missionaries to Tanzania, Africa in September.

Beginning this week, the minister and his wife will be doing preparatory work in African studies, Islamics and tutorial Swahili at Hartford Seminary Foundation in Hartford, Conn.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

The Modern Player May Not Take After Trumps

In the days when women wore skirts down to their ankles, a lady or a gentleman would draw trumps at the first opportunity.

TOO GENTEEL

Declarer, a gentleman of the old school, won the first trick with dummy's ace of diamonds and drew two rounds of trumps with the ace and king. It was terribly genteel, but not very effective.

Declarer next led the ace of hearts and continued with the queen of hearts, intending to discard a club if East produced a low heart. When East actually played the king of hearts, South ruffed.

South ruffed a diamond in dummy and led a high heart. East ruffed with the jack of spades and promptly switched to the queen of clubs. The defenders took three club tricks, and South was down one.

MODERN PLAY

The modern way to play this kind of hand is to leave the trumps alone.

At the second trick declarer cashes the ace of hearts and then ruffs out the king of hearts.

South ruffs a diamond in dummy and leads a high heart. East ruffs, and South over-ruffs.

South ruffs another diamond in dummy and leads another high heart. East ruffs, and South again over-ruffs.

HIGH HEART

By this time South has taken seven tricks and has the king of spades in his own hand and the A-9 of spades in dummy. South leads his last diamond, and West cannot prevent declarer from getting three more tricks.

Office Of Ombudsman—Another Big Tax-Eater?

Mounting interest in the Office of Ombudsman (a grievance bureau) has culminated in the introduction of a bill in the State Senate, calling for creation of such an office for the State of California.

SB 370 (Mervn Dymally, D-Los Angeles) asks that $265,000 be appropriated to meet the cost of the Office of Ombudsman for the first year of operation.

The Ombudsman would receive and act on complaints by citizens who claim they were aggrieved by any action or decision of any state agencies or their employees.

The Ombudsman would conduct investigations on these complaints and either put them aside as unfounded or hold hearings and take further action. Further action would include a recommendation that the offending state agency or employee rectify the matter on which the complaint was based. If the state agency or employee fails to follow the Ombudsman's recommendation, "he (the Ombudsman) may make such comments on the matter as he deems advisable."

Conceivably, the Ombudsman's comments would get wide public dissemination and thus persuade the erring state agency to comply quickly with the recommendations.

In theory, this idea of a watchdog is fine. Sweden, which has had the Office of Ombudsman in operation for 150 years, reports favorable results.

Sweden's present Ombudsman, Alfred Bexelius, says his office receives about 1,200 cases per year. In addition he reviews several hundred cases on his own initiative, some of which are triggered by newspaper stories disclosing signs of injustice.

Bexelius has a deputy, a staff of eight lawyers and five clerks to handle the letters that come into his office each day. Most of the complaints are petty, but every one of them must be investigated.

If Sweden, with a population less than half of California, needs a staff of 15 to handle some 1,500 complaints each year, a California counterpart would certainly need a staff of 30 or 40, including not only lawyers but experts in other fields such as taxes, education, government, and human relations.

We also suspect that the number of complaints flooding the office of Ombudsman in California would be proportionately greater than in other countries like Sweden.

Citizens in Marin County, for example, are highly articulate and ready to express their indignation at the drop of a hat on any subject from rude behavior of public officials to statewide tax reform.

If Marin is typical of the Californians' interest in public affairs and their willingness to crusade for causes in which they believe, we can foresee the California Ombudsman swamped with a flood of complaints.

Our Ombudsman would be selected by a joint legislative committee and would be subject to removal from office at any time by concurrent resolution of the Legislature. As such, there is no assurance that he would not come under the sway of political power blocs in the Legislature and cease to function as a completely independent and impartial "watchdog."

State government is already loaded down with tax-eating agencies and boards and commissions to oversee various functions from crime to fine arts. We have our grand juries and courts of appeals.

Creating another million-dollar "watchdog" agency to the existing bureaucracy is not justified, especially at a time when existing agencies are being asked for overall belt tightening.

We fear that the $265,000 appropriation sought for the operation of a California Ombudsman will double or triple in a few years.

Such an untried experiment with no assurance of its workability should be postponed, at least until the state is in better financial condition.

Birds Begin A New Cycle

This is the time of year when Marin birds begin their seasonal mating game. We imagine we see a little glint in the eyes of the sparrows and quail, as the increasing length of the spring days trips their hormonal mechanism and starts the boy birds' interest in the girl birds, and vice versa.

It's the increased hours of light that does it, not any change in temperature.

TELEPHONING TO GOD

A prankish Londoner picked up his telephone and dialed the letter combination G-O-D. To his surprise a voice replied, "Can I help you?"

Seeking an explanation from the telephone company, he was told that the letters he had dialed were the same numerical combination as Information: I-N-F.

It isn't often that "a call on God" has such an audible answer. Dr. John Haynes Holmes wrote in an article on prayer:

"We go hopelessly astray if we think of prayer as a selfish endeavor to persuade or inveigle, or browbeat God to do us a favor, or win us a victory, or even help us in some dire distress. He is not some kind of divine bellhop, to be summoned by the pressing of a button to the service of our passing whims. God does not come to us, but we to Him—and prayer is the high road to His presence."

Turn frequently to the Lord as a loving Father Who has your best interests at heart, both for time and for eternity.

"Every one who asks receives, and he who seeks finds, and to him who knocks it will be opened." (Luke 11:10)

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

The Bombing Is Insane!

Editor, Independent-Journal:

In response to William Penn Patrick's lugubrious full page ad, I sent the following to my elected politicians:

"I wish to register my protest over the resumption of the bombing of North Vietnam. Not only does it alienate our meaningful friends in the world, but it is evidently not producing any military results. Infiltration increases. North Vietnam determination hardens and we slaughter more civilians than military; thus debasing and brutalizing our war effort.

"And, finally, the bombing perpetuates the self defeating fiction that the war is with the North. Every reliable source informs that the war in the South would go on even if the North were atomized. We are actually fighting the people of South Vietnam.

"It is insane!"

Idea On Trash Is Strong One

Editor, Independent-Journal:

E. L. Dagget's letter of Feb. 7 deserves strong support. This county's policies for trash disposal are utterly absurd. A ride through the hills surrounding San Rafael will do as a starter. Then try any vacant brushy area around a developed area.

I live along Corte Madera creek, where the system is to "pile it along the creek, so it washes away at the next flood." You should see how effectively "it" has devastated my property — battering down bulkheads, clogging and pushing down fences, lying behind now, smothering all semblance of a yard.

Now I have a choice — to collect and haul load after load of it to where I pay someone to use it for future profit, or to commit it back to the water from which it sprang. It's some comfort to imagine all the effort it's going to be for my upstream neighbors to lift all that trash over a chain-link fence to drop it into that concrete ditch of the future. "Naturally contoured banks" would make it so much easier and less conspicuous.

Would conveniently located, realistically priced (i.e. free) disposal sites stop this? Not entirely, surely. But enough responsible people will do their share by collecting and hauling their trash to them to make it justified to penalize those who won't. The present alternatives deserve a well-thumbed nose.

Police Have Lesson For Academic Faction

Editor, Independent-Journal:

The student-faculty demonstrations on California campuses the past few years illustrate the contempt in which the "Academic Community" holds the public. . . . These illuminati hold themselves above society and plead (some threaten) that our State's higher education system must not suffer interference by the "unenlightened" public.

. . . Let us be grateful that the restrictive and demoralizing actions of civilian review boards and Supreme Court rulings have not driven the police forces of American communitites to absolute despair or rebellion. They have apparently remembered that their sole justiication is public protection. . . .

The "Academic Community" will hopefully learn this much from the long-suffering policeman . . . that the public, which established both state schools and police forces for the benefit of society, has a right to question the merits of these institutions and the justification of taxpayers' funds expended on their behalf.

Hub Councilman Criticizes Reporting

Editor, Independetn-Journal:

. . . It is most unfortunate that your reporter has been guilty of inaccuracies and omissions in her report (on San Anselmo City Council salaries) . . .

It is almost tragic when someone from the audience makes a statement and finds themselves completely misquoted in the I-J on the following day. It may come to the point where citizens will be loath to speak at Council meetings for fear of being misquoted. . . .

According to the news article in question I stated that "I don't think it's right to ask people to give up their time for the city without compensation." This entire statement is incorrect. Had (your reporter) been listening closely she would have remembered that my statement was "I feel that the governing body of any town should receive some compensation." She also failed to report that I publicly stated to Anne West that these have been my sentiments long before I ever decided to run for public office.

. . . (Your reporter) . . . has never mentioned something which I have emphasized, namely, that before the matter of pay can be submitted to the electorate it must first become an ordinance. . . .

. . . (Your reporter) states that "The council did not get to the item . . . until 11:25 p.m. Two previous discussions of the salaries also came after 11 p.m." I feel that the inference here is that our Council is trying to slip something through late at night when there are few spectators. . . .

Your reporter has committed the sin of omission in failing to point out that it is common practice for the discussion of any and all proposed ordinances to be the last items on our council agendas.

. . . Accurate reporting is an obligation you owe your readers — once a public meeting has been inaccurately reported in print untold damage can be the result.

JONATHAN KING, an English stationer who specializes in valentines, "get well" messages, and cards commemorating special occasions, tells of one young lady who received a particularly attractive card proposing marriage. It was unsigned, but the young lady, after casing the list of all possible senders, decided on the one from whom it simply had to come, and dispatched her message of acceptance. In due course the two were married and were ecstatically happy. It was not until 14 years later that she discovered it was not her husband who had sent her the card of proposal.

Kennedy Plot So Far Seemingly Mostly Talk, But Little Proof

WASHINGTON (AP) — Talk without evidence is all so far from the efforts of New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison to prove a plot in the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

But there are some bizarre twists.

The Warren Commission concluded Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone in the killing in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963. There have been doubts about this ever since. Up until now Garrison has simply added to them.

HE SAYS he has no reason to believe Oswald killed anybody in Dallas that day. Last Saturday, giving no details, he promised five arrests and convictions, though the arrests were "most certainly months away."

Then Wednesday, after David Ferrie, a plane pilot of about 45, had been found dead in his bed in New Orleans, Garrison said he had planned to arrest Ferrie next week.

"Apparently we waited too long," Garrison said, although he called Ferrie "one of history's most important individuals." Ferrie's death was one of the bizarre twists. The other, in Florida, was the start of an investigation into the two-year-old death of another man.

GARRISON REFERRED to Ferrie's death as an "apparent suicide." Coroner Nicholas Chetta said Ferrie died of a ruptured blood vessel in the brain but added that further tests were being made.

A note, found in Ferrie's dining room, said: "To leave this life is, for me, a sweet prospect. I find nothing in it that is desirable and on the other hand everything that is loathsome."

But — and this is written after consultation here in Washington with a physician who is an internist — it would have seemed impossible for Ferrie to write the note at all and then walk back to his bedroom after the blood vessel burst.

YET, IF FERRIE wrote the note, intending it as a farewell, how could he have possibly known that as soon as he got back to the bed the blood vessel in his brain would burst Blood vessels are not that obliging.

Ferrie, no stranger to the Kennedy case, was questioned in 1963 shortly after the President's death by both the FBI and Garrison's office and was questioned again in Garrison's office last November.

Each time he was released. He said the FBI first became interested in him when a New Orleans man reported he had served with Oswald in a Civil Air Patrol unit under Ferrie. Oswald lived in New Orleans in the summer of 1963. Ferrie had lived there 15 years.

He repeatedly denied he ever knew Oswald and complained that Garrison had him "pegged as the get-away pilot in an elaborate plot to kill Kennedy." He called this a "big joke."

PENSACOLA authorities Wednesday began investigating the 1964 death of Thomas Henry Killam, a sometime house painter, who died beside a broken store window with a slashed throat. The police at the time called it an accidental death; the coroner called it suicide.

But now his brother, Earl Killam, asking that the body be exhumed for further examination, says the dead man feared he was being pursued by "agents" connected with the Kennedy assassination and fled Dallas in December, 1963, saying he knew he would be killed by "agents" he didn't name.

The dead man's wife, Wanda Killam, had been employed several years in a nightclub run by Jack Ruby, who killed Oswald and died last Jan. 3. She said her husband had been employed as a painter by a man who once roomed in a Dallas boarding house with Oswald.

UNLESS GARRISON has a lot more that he hasn't revealed, none of this so far shows any conspiracy.

True Negro History Too Seldom Taught

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG JR.

Several recent studies of school textbooks show a shocking neglect of the contributions of minority groups to America's past as well as brutal misinterpretations of Negro history.

A STUDY MADE by the American Federation of Teachers found that in most of the texts used "the Negro is considered only as a slave before the Civil War and as a problem" since then. It found subjects like the rise of the Ku Klux Klan and even slavery were discussed without making any moral judgments.

Another study made by Tufts University examined 24 social studies books and found that many are "tinged with racism." A B'nai Brith study of high school social studies texts found that half of them don't even mention the 1954 Supreme Court decision outlawing school segregation, and half made no mention of Negroes in the period following Reconstruction.

When these texts and others like them are finally dropped from our schools and replaced by more realistic ones, white children will begin to learn about the vital role minorities have played in making America great, and Negro children will get a more accurate picture of their rich heritage.

FOR EXAMPLE, some history texts picture slavery as a system in which ignorant and irresponsible Negro slaves were lovingly cared for by their paternalistic masters. They don't mention the brutalities of a system of forced labor and the barter of human beings. They don't mention the hundreds of slave uprisings, the strivings for freedom, or the underground railways. Nor do they mention the valiant efforts of Negroes themselves to win their freedom and to create a new life in Reconstruction times. Instead, they perpetuate myths and lies in the name of history.

Most Negro children, through the influence of movies and distorted textbooks, are not aware of the full tapestry of Negro history. Only now are they beginning to find out that Africa was not a land peopled by savages straight out of Tarzan films, but a continent which developed nation-states at a time when Europe was wallowing in feudalism; a continent which contained civilizations far advanced for their time; a continent which contained a variety of people who have contributed greatly to the world's arts and knowledge.

NEGRO CHILDREN living in ghetto slums are often faced with textbooks which picture happy blond children romping with the family pets on a freshly manicured suburban lawn. These silly books, so damaging to the child's self-image and self-esteem are finally beginning to be replaced with realistic texts with picture groups of children of all races exploring the city together.

While some of these books are in use, many areas, particularly in the South, are slow in adopting them. Since this is not a subject which concerns only Negroes, but all citizens, parents interested in preparing their children for success in today's society should get their local school boards and libraries to include books which give a realistic picture of American life and history.

Caribbean Hiding Wealth Of Kings

By BEN FUNK

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Between the 16th and 18th centuries, when Spain looted the rich Aztec and Inca empires of the New World, a cascade of gold, silver and jewels poured into ports on the Caribbean.

Once a year, Spanish galleons made the rounds of these ports. Then, laden with riches, they rendezvoued at Havana and sailed for Spain in two fleets under armed escort against the buccaneers roaming the tropic seas.

But many of the vessels did not make it home. Whole fleets, driven onto reefs by hurricanes, spilled their precious cargoes into the sea. Historians estimate that more than $1 billion in treasure went to the bottom of the Spanish Main.

Salvage crews sent out from Spain recovered much of the wealth. Pirates diving over the wrecks when they lay exposed in the clear waters got more of it.

But uncounted millions in Spanish loot still lie along the route through the Florida Strait, up the Florida coast to Cape Kennedy, and across to the Bahama Banks.

As rot, rust and sea disposed of the hulls, the treasure sank into the ocean floor, until finally much of it was though lost forever to the world.

But in recent years a new breed of treasure hunters has begun to dredge out of the sand riches beyound a man's wildest dreams.

These are men who did not rely on Lady Luck. They studied enormous numbers of old Spanish documents—naval histories, ships' logs, captains' letters, published accounts of witnesses —spelling out the locations of the lost galleons.

Then they went after their wrecks with sensitive metal detectors and expensive diving equipment. And when they found them they explored them with modern machinery and capable crews.

History's greatest recovery of treasure beneath the sea was made in 1964 by the Real Eight Co., now headed by a 59-year-old plasterer, Kip Wagner.

This group has taken millions in gold doubloons, silver pieces of eight, jewels and precious artifacts from ships of a treasure fleet under Adm. Jean Estaban Ubilla that met disaster in a hurricane in 1715.

Only one of 11 ships escaped the storm. The others were shattered on reefs between Melbourne and Fort Pierce on the Florida coast, dumping from $14 million to $20 million in treasure iards into the turbulent waters. and the bodies of 1,000 Span-

One ship went down so close to shore it could almost be reached by wading at low tide. Many swimmers had frolicked directly over the treasure trove.

Wagner's group has obtained exclusive rights from the state to explore eight of the galleons and it will be years before the full extent of the fabulous find is known. The state takes 25 per cent of all treasure recovered.

Another big strike was made by four young skin-divers just 1,000 yards off the resort city of Freeport on Grand Bahama island. They have taken out more than $1 million in silver coins.

Art McKee, a veteran Florida Keys treasure hunter, has located the bones of several galleons of a fleet of 19 sunk by a hurricane in the Florida Keys in 1733.

This fleet reportedly carried $65 million in treasure, including the entire 1732 output of the Spanish mint at Mexico City, but McKee has not struck it rich. The reason is that waters off the Keys are crystal clear and the Spaniards probably were able to recover the bulk of the treasure.

"They salvaged $12 million in 1734," McKee says, "and they returned for 27 years. Obviously, they made good recoveries every year, or they wouldn't have kept coming back."

Several other wreck sites have been staked out in the Florida Keys and in the Bahamas, where the government also takes one-fourth of all finds.

Here and there along the main treasure vein, smaller fleets and single galleons vanished without a trace. But much of the treasure will lie forever on the bottom.

"One fleet of 28 ships vanished in 1622 between Florida and the Bahamas," McKee says, "and these may never be found. Coral grows so rapidly in these waters that ships lost that long ago would lie buried under reefs, with nothing showing."

But the lure of treasure is strong. As long as men think it is there, they will continue to search for it. The Florida coast will be the treasure coast for many a year to come.

America's Voice Tells Good—And Bad

Free World Propagandist Battles Credibility Gap

WASHINGTON (UPI) —What speaks 824 hours a week in 38 languages to tens of millions of people?

The Voice of America.

In its first broadcast on Feb. 24, 1942, the Voice said in German: "We shall speak to you about America and the war — the news may be good or bad — we shall tell you the truth."

Interviewed on the eve of the VOA's 25th anniversary, Director John Chancellor was asked if the Voice had really been telling the truth all of these years.

"Emphatically yes...if by that you mean telling good news and bad news," said Chancellor, a veteran reporter and newscaster who maintainst here is no value in being heard if you are not believed.

For example, he said, the Voice recently has reported on President Johnson's "credibility gap," disclosures of CIA financing of foreign student activities and criticism of U.S. Vietnam policy by both hawks and doves.

"The credibility gap in the United States is not unknown to listeners of the Voice of America because part of our job is to report on what Americans are saying about themselves," Chancellor said. "And it seems to me, speaking as a propagandist — and I don't mind the word — that this is very, very effective propaganda.

JOHN CHANCELLOR
His VOA tells truth

"If we live in a society where people get up in the open and argue about things...and we broadcast this to millions who don't have that privilege...this is really the singley most persuasive thing we might do for the government."

Chancellor said the VOA was giving the CIA controversy "adequate play," but added:

"We always try to remember to explain what these are—the American student movement, the CIA and everything else. So our concern isn't keeping it out of the newscast. It is maknig it understandable."

How does the VOA explain CIA involvement in student activities?

"We don't try to offer rationals on the CIA or government. But as a news organization we carry what other people are saying about it pro and con, and they do the explaining. We're a channel for that kind of explaining."

The Voice broadcasts 824 hours via shortwave a week, including 196 hours of broadcasts to the Far East and 178 hours to Europe.

This, Chancellor said, is "more hours each week than all of the American radio and television networks combined."

But the VOA ranks only fourth as an international propaganda voice. Russia's international shortwave broadcasts average 1,555 hours weekly; Communist China, 1,109, the United Arab Republic, 910; Britain, 731; and West Germany, 721.

"But I can be prideful and say ours are more valuable to the listener," Chancellor said. "They've got more in them."

What they have is described by a VOA announcement of a "new sound" inaugurated recently on Worldwide English broadcasts: "It offers listeners a wide variety of material moving in lively sequence. They hear news, music, ancedotes, discussions and comedy in a format reflecting the vitality, vigor and dynamism of our country. With the new sound, the Voice of America 'swings' a little."

Russia no longer jams VOA broadcasts, and Chancellor said there is "striking evidence" that the VOA is getting its story across to "the young, educated, intelligent, and I hope influential Russian."

A comment heard frequently in Africa and elsewhere is that the VOA signal is not as strong as those of Russia and Communist China, which reportedly spends more than $30 million-year by the VOA.

Chancellor conceded the VOA is only third in broadcast strength.

But he said new transmitters under construction in Greece and Southeast Asia "will give us a competitive signal anywhere in the world in this decade."

Behind The News

THIS WEEK In The World

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

This week Sukarno, first president of the politically troubled island-nation of Indonesia, formally handed over all executive power to military strongman Suharto, who has actually held those powers for a year.

The golden-tongued son of a Balinese temple maiden, Sukarno had parlayed his version of nationalism, Marxism and traditional Indonesian concepts from early struggles against Dutch colonialism to the Presidential Palace in 1949.

He inaugurated his guided democracy plan in the late fifties, calling for the discarding of political differences under the strong leadership of one man — Sukarno himself. Although he became stronger by overcoming a challenge by the military in 1958, Sukarno turned to the Communist Party for support—and alliance which led to his gradual downfall.

In October of 1965, encouraged by Sukarno's permissiveness, the pro-Peking Reds launched a coup, ostensibly to save Sukarno from a right-wing plot.

However, loyal Indonesian troops, commanded by Generals Nasution and Suharto, crushed the bloody coup and by March 1966 the army leaders had control of the government, leaving Sukarno as a figurehead.

Around The World, Around The Nation

Saigon: Some 35,000 American troops pushed through Viet Cong territory in the war's biggest offensive. Little opposition was reported. U.S. artillery for the first time shelled targets in North Vietnam.

Bridgewater, Mass.: Albert DeSalvo, who claims to be the "Boston strangler" escaped with two other inmates from the Bridgewater State Mental Hospital.

Hong Kong: Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai revealed that a veteran government leader had died under Red Guard interrogation. Chou ordered the youth group to end their attacks against Peking officials but reports persisted that bloody clashes were still taking place between the Red Guards and opponents of Mao Tse-tung.

Washington: A House select committee investigating the qualifications of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell to sit in Congress recommended that the New York Democrat be seated but censured and fined $40,000.

Washington: President Johnson endorsed a report which indicated that Central Intelligence Agency aid to private groups was in accord with national policy.

Munich, Germany: Three former Nazis were sentenced to terms ranging from 5 to 15 years for their roles in sending some 83,000 Dutch Jews to their deaths during World War II.

Whirlwind Drug Czar Slowing A Bit

By SCIENCE SERVICE

Commissioner James L. Goddard came to the Food and Drug Administration a year ago like a missionary to a pagan land, prophesying the coming of new blood, new talent, and new protection for the American consumer. Dr. Goddard hasn't lowered his sights, but there are signs the revolution may take more time than he planned to allot — and perhaps more sweat as well.

For years FDA had been plodding along with a staff of scientists who were not geared to the fast moving pace of scientific developments and a commissioner, geared to the decades-old problem of quack medicine but, who did little to make the agency grow up to its responsibilities in the modern world.

Dr. Goddard found a tremendous backlog of drug applications to clear out, a longer backlog of pressing decisions waiting to be made and a desperate need for better studies on drug efficacy, as demanded by the Kefauver-Harris Drug Amendments of 1962. Good people were hard to attract; the reputation of FDA was not much of a lure.

Reform, at first, came fast and furiously as one by one the errors of the past were uncovered, confessed where necessary, and righted. Clinical testing of DSMO, the widely publicized, highly dangerous "wonder drug" that was being blatantly misused by eager researchers, was curtailed; antibodic throat lozenges were pulled off the market because they were ineffective; a major drug company got a public spanking for advertising a contraceptive pill before it was approved, and the biggest and most respected firms in the pharmaceutical industry were taken to task for sloppy practices, if not for outright deception.

FDA should be run, Dr. Goddard declared, according to the letter of the law, and that law is written in the 1962 amendments; drugs must be not only safe, but must do what they are supposed to do — no more, and certainly no less. And not only new drugs, but old and established drugs as well.

He took action in a still-burning controversy over whether or not those efficacy requirements could be applied retroactively to drugs approved for sale before the 1962 legislation was passed. Dr. Goddard said they could, and over a court challenge enlisted the resources of the National Academy of Sciences to review the efficacy of those early drugs.

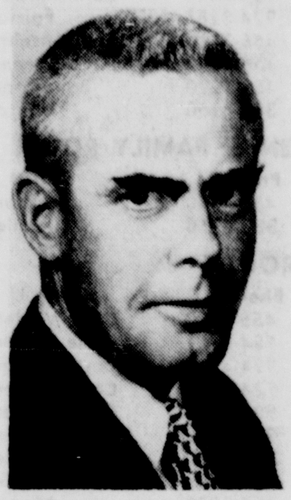
In lieu of his predecessors' casual and trusting relationship with the drug industry, Dr. Goddard has rewritten the rule book. "I'm the boss," he has said in just so many words — not entirely to the industry's pleasure.

Some drug makers think the letter of his law stands in the way of sound medical research, and clinical testers fear enforced demands that they obtain written and informed consent from any patient before administering an experimental drug.

And industry's wait-and-see attitude was soon followed by action. Objecting to pressures from the boss that it revise its drug ads, the Upjohn Co. answered by pulling all of its $300,000 worth of advertising from December issues of medical journals, in a move to force the powerful physicians who edit and publish them to bring pressure on Dr. Goddard.

Dr. Goddard denies, however, that being pro-consumer means being anti-industry. He wants cooperation between FDA and industry and insists it is more than just a platitude that both sides share a common goal in preserving and improving the health of the nation.

Along with all of Dr. Goddard's revolutionary actions, revolutionary in part simply because they were actions, came an aggressive campaign to remake FDA's public image.



JAMES L. GODDARD, M.D.
Drug czar cleaning house

Before assuming command at FDA, Dr. Goddard, who holds the rank of rear admiral in the Public Health Service, was chief of PHS's Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, Ga. Looking ahead, some people speculate the cool, confident officer-doctor-administrator may be the new Secretary of Health when the proposed reorganization of the parent Department of Health, Education and Welfare comes about.

"He certainly has the paper qualifications for the job. It's ultimately a matter of personality," said one Washington observer.

"He's much too abrasive to rise much higher than he has," according to another. "Like all revolutionaries, he's going to make one mistake too many, and that will be the end."

As do most ambitious potential candidates, Dr. Goddard assures questioners he plans to stay at FDA "at least five years." The first is up this month.

He hasn't managed to do in a year all the things he promised but four are left to make good his word.

Most of the revolutionizing, observers say, has been shooting fish in a barrel; from here on in he will have to find his own targets. And he's already finding the food and drug industries, with powerful friends in Congress, are an elusive target at best.

But Dr. Goddard is zeroing in on many areas. Drug efficacy, food additives and daily vitamins have all come under his eagle eye, and his watchfulness is not likely to let up. The President's Consumer Advisory Council has praised FDA's behavior on behalf of the consumer and urged Dr. Goddard to continue to expand his efforts in this direction.

What FDA needs in the long run, and what Dr. Goddard is trying to find, is quite simply smarter people.

In order to keep up with industry, FDA needs better scientific expertise and to this end, the commissioner is working on a program of continuing education to allow scientific personnel to take occasional leaves to spend a year in the academic world, and has plans to install a computer system that will eventually make reams of information instantly available to every man in his lab.

In the meantime, while these long-range plans are taking shape, Dr. Goddard has come up with another solution to the manpower shortage — the draft. This year 65 medicinal doctors from the Public Health Service, many of whom are meeting military obligations, will be assigned to help FDA clear out its backlog of applications.

"Go-Go Goddard" is what they call him back at the office, and he doesn't seem to mind. It's just that he may be "go-going" with a little less speed and more deliberation than he and everyone else expected.

Lawmakers Wait For Reagan's Bills

By CAPITOL NEWS SERVICE

SACRAMENTO — Those who thought the 1967 legislature — under its new full-time status — would be off and running with a bang may be a bit disappointed this far.

Activity up to this point has been confined pretty much to introduction of bills — with about 800 in the hopper in the Assembly and something more than half that many in the Senate.

The seemingly slow pace of action this year is not new and much of it comes as the result of the system — a system provided in the constitution. One major feature is that bills cannot be heard in committee until 30 days after their introduction. Thus only a small part of the 1200 or so bills now introduced are eligible for hearing.

The program of Gov. Ronald Reagan has been very slow in being introduced — not a surprising thing due to the newness of his administration. However, committees which now have a few bills in on certain subjects are reluctant to begin full-scale hearings until the governor's program has been introduced.

Reagan's administration is showing that the prophets of last November were correct — everybody must go. Only one department director, James V. Lowry, director of mental hygiene, has been retained. And the announcement last week that Tom Bright, who served under two GOP and one Democratic governors, would be replaced as director of motor vehicles by Verne Orr, a Pasadena investment official, gave weight to the argument that the change-over would be nearly 100 per cent.

Appointments announced during the week, in addition to Orr, included James W. Chapman, Jr., 56, Sacramento, and Russell Walton, former executive director of United Republicans of California, as deputy directors of motor vehicles; Carl C. McElvy, state architect, and Paul I. Hoyenga, local assistance officer in the department of general services, were renamed to their positions; Dr. Herbert C. Sanderson and Waldow H. Jackson, both of Sacramento, and Dr. Conrad J. Ferreira, Redding veterinarian, were appointed to the California State Fair board of directors; Robert Setrakian, veteran fair board member from Kentfield, was designated by Reagan as president of the board; and, in the department of water resources, Alfred R. Golze and John R. Teerink were named deputy directors and Roberg G. Eiland was appointed assistant director.

One appointment of Reagan's has been withdrawn, that of Dr. William J. McCandless, a conservative school board member from El Cajon, to the state board of education.

After heavy mail on the subject, it soon became apparent there might be a problem with gaining senate confirmation of the appointment and Reagan announced he had withdrawn it. In place, Reagan nominated Warren H. Day, of the Los Angeles County Board of Education.

The first partisan rollcall of the year was held in the Senate and the Democrats had no problem in holding their slim majority together. The vote came on a resolution by Sen. George Miller, Jr., D-Martinez, asking for the legislative analyst and state auditor general to give a report on just what the financail situation of the state is.

The resolution infers that Governor Reagan has not been correct in his statements on the dire financial straits of California. It was similar to one which finally staggered through the Assembly after having most of the "whereas" clauses removed.

Governor Reagan said he is leaning strongly toward becoming a "favorite son" candidate for President in 1968, a move under which he would head a slate of delegates to the Republican national convention.

Reagan admitted this might discourage such potential candidates as Gov. George Romney of Michigan from entering a primary election in California and said that is one of the advantages of the favored son approach. Reagan was asked if Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., would have a prominent position on such a delegation but pointedly brushed off such questions.

The first vacancy in the new legislature occurred Monday when death claimed Assemblyman Charles E. Chapel, R-Palos Verdes Estates, a colorful member since 1950. Chapel, who bordered on the genius, was a professional writer and had written thousands of magazine articles, plus several dozen books, on such technical subjects as nuclear power, jet propulsion and firearms. He was one of the world's leading authorities on fingerprinting.

The vacancy will be filled by a special election in the 46th district, which includes parts of Torrance and Gardena, as well as Redondo Beach.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Younger Alcoholics Sometimes Victims Of Sudden Fatal Illness

VAN DELLEN

A 34-year-old alcoholic house painter who had never been ill died while watching TV. There were no marks of violence or injury. The man drank considerably but no more than usual on the day of his sudden, unexpected death. The coroner was called and an autopsy performed.

After the age of 50 heart trouble is blamed for most sudden deaths when there is no evidence of injury. But this is not true among younger adults. In a recent report, the highest percentage (27 per cent) was attributed to alcoholism, fatty liver and cirrhosis. This was the cause of death of the house painter mentioned previously. His heart appeared to be normal even though alcohol is known to weaken the heart muscle and quicken the pulse.

A GROUP OF Baltimore physicians reported their findings on sudden death in the Journal of the American Medical Association. They limited their investigation to deaths among 101 persons in the 20- to 39-year age group. None of the victims had been incapacitated for more than 24 hours prior to death.

The second largest group (22 per cent) died of premature arteriosclerosis involving the heart. The majority of these attacks came on suddenly and most of the victims died quickly.

This is understandable because hardening of the coronary arteries usually is extensive when it develops early in life. Eleven per cent of the young adults died from heart disease secondary to high blood pressure. Stroke was responsible for nine unexpected deaths. Other causes included tuberculosis, pneumonia, asthma, and epileptic convulsions. Alcohol played a contributing role in many of these deaths.

THE YOUNG alcoholic also has more accidents and is prone to suicide. It is little wonder that his death rate is eight times higher than in the general population.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

PREDIABETIC

J. W. writes: Does a person remain a prediabetic indefinitely?

REPLY

Some do, especially if they remain thin and avoid anything that creates stress upon the pancreas. These stressful situations include operations, serious infections, and emotional crises.

GULLET SPASM

I. A. writes: What causes spasm of the esophagus?

REPLY

Nervousness, regurgitation of acid from the stomach, and esophageal lesions such as ulcer, hernia, or inflammation. Occasionally the gullet rebels because food or drink is irritating, too cold, or too hot.

DISINFECTING MATTRESS

F. K. writes: Is it possible to get tuberculosis from sleeping on a mattress that has been used by a person who had the disease?

REPLY

I doubt if this has ever happened, because the mattress is usually covered by a sheet and most individuals sleep on a pillow. Airing or disinfecting the mattress or dry cleaning the outside with a solution can be done as a precautionary measure, however.

REFLEX EFFECT

H. A. writes: What is wrong with individuals who pass out at the sight of blood or while receiving an injection?

REPLY

Nothing, except the sight of blood or the thought of having an injection has a reflex effect upon the nervous system leading to a faint.

PULSE RATE

K. P. writes: If the heart does not beat 72 times per minute, does this mean it is abnormal?

REPLY

No. The normal range extends from 50 to 100. During rest it may drop below this level, and during exercise or excitement the rate may exceed 100.

SPEECH DEFECT

J. N. writes: I am a university student and want to know if there is any way I can overcome a lisp which proves embarrassing.

REPLY

Speech training will be required and undoubtedly your university has a department that offers such treatment.

PAIN, STIFFNESS

H. F. writes: What is the usual treatment of fibrosis?

REPLY

Fibrosis occurs in various parts of the body and when it is responsible for stiff neck, lumbago, or muscular rheumatism the most effective remedies are heat, massage and the salicylates.

Today's Health Hint—A persistent cough should be investigated.

FRANKFURT TO MARIN—The Peter Meissner family glanced through a book about their hometown of Frankfurt, Germany, after arriving to settle in San Anselmo. Shown gathered at the home of their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel A. Landon, 250 Redwood Road, are (from left) Peter Meissner Jr., 9, Mrs. Meissner, Meissner, and Andre Meissner, 3. Restaurant Asks Expansion Nod From Planners

Application for permission to expand the Peacock Restaurant at 1628 Grant Avenue, Novato, into an adjoining vacant building will be before the Novato Planning Commission meeting at 8 p.m. today in the Novato Community House.

The Novato Chamber of Commerce board of directors at a special meeting last Monday voted unanimously to back owner Walter J. Del Rose in his attempt to expand his business.

The proposed sign ordinance is on the agenda, but will probably be postponed another two weeks at request of the chamber board.

German Girlhood Pals Reunited In Hub City

Two German girls who were childhood friends are now both San Anselmo housewives.

One is Mrs. Daniel A. Landon of 250 Redwood Road, who arrived in Marin 18 months ago; the other is Mrs. Peter Meissner, who arrived Wednesday.

When the Peter Meissner family from Frankfurt arrived to settle in San Anselmo, the surrounding hills reminded them of their homeland.

This wasn't the case when they landed in Wichita Falls, Tex., after an airplane flight from Germany to visit Meissner's sister.

Then the Meissners and their two sons, Peter Jr., 9, and Andre, 3, got a longer look at the western terrain as they drove to Marin.

What motivated this German family of four to leave their homeland to live in Marin?

In their case, there were several strong influences including letters from Mrs. Landon about life in California. There also were conversations with an American neighbor in Germany about life in the United States, and word from Meissner's sister in Texas.

Meissner, who has worked 12 years as a long haul truck driver and mechanic, hopes to find a job in Marin in either field. The Meissners, who speak "a little English" will be living at 91 Elm Avenue.

Mrs. Meissner and Mrs. Landon "grew up together," Landon said. Then Landon, who had served with Army intelligence in Heidelberg for six years, came back to the United States with his German wife.

The Landons, formerly of Bremerton, Wash., moved to Marin 18 months ago.

Sports Injury Parley On Committee Agenda

The educational services committee of the Marin County Board of Education on Monday will consider co-sponsorship with the Marin Medical Society of the fourth annual sports injury conference on May 6 in San Rafael.

At the meeting at 7 p.m. at the Marin County Superintendent of Schools Office, the board committee will also hear reports on coming events, including the county junior high basketball tournament in March; a book and equipment fair for teachers March 30 and April 1 at Terra Linda High School and a science textbook seminar May 4 at Civic Center.

Lawrence A. Lindberg, county director of instruction, said today the visitor schedule for the Audubon Society wildlife sanctuary on the Tiburon peninsula is filled to the end of the school year and means must be found to permit school children to continue making field trips to the sanctuary.

Reports will be heard on plans for a Marin County science fair, a smoking eductaion course, economics education, and occupational education in the county; outdoor education plans for 1967-68, county participation in bay region instruction for television education, humane education, and Northbay PACE (Projects In Creative Education) Center needs.

Two new publications of the county schools office will be presented to the board, "Supplemental Aids for Modern Mathematics" and "Linguistics — the New English."

County Committee Defers Retarded Program Topics

The special education committee of the Marin County Board of Education will not meet Monday night as planned. Instead, it will submit five items to be put on the board's agenda for its March 6 meeting, according to Dirk West, county coordinator of programs for the mentally retarded.

Report will be submitted on the state-supported development center for handicapped minors, which opens March 6; outdoor education for older children in the educable retarded program, recently approved by the county school administrators association; vocational rehabilitation at Magnolia Park School in Lucas Valley for retarded children of 16 years and older; a proposal to use portable housing on Tomales School grounds in place of a private home found not up to safety standards, and a plan to use portables for Magnolia Park School, instead of the county farm buildings, until new permanent structures can be erected.

Muldoon Files For School Race

James E. Muldoon of 100 Central Avenue, Sausalito, filed yesterday in the Marin County Superintendent of Schools office for election to the Sausalito School District board. He gave his occupation as administrator of a children's home.

Although the deadline for filing for the April 18 trustee election is next Friday, no one has yet filed for openings on the Lagunitas, Nicasio, Point Reyes, San Anselmo, Tomales High, Union, West Marin or Fairfax district boards.

Dixie School District with two openings still has one vacancy no one has filed for. Marin Junior College District has had three filings with four seats available.

Merit Scholarship Finalists Selected

Two seniors at San Domenico High School have been named finalists in the National Merit Scholarship competition. They are Sarah Malarkey of Nashua, N. H., and Katherine McCall of Fullerton, Orange County.

The girls were among eight semifinalists in the contest from San Domenico. From the 17,500 schools who entered the nation-wide event, 14,2000 finalists were chosen. Merit scholarships for 2,300 winners will be announced in May.

Salary Items On Kentfield Agenda

The Kentfield School District board will review salary proposals made by teachers and classified employees, and bus. classified employes, and business manager Elizabeth L. Beatty will present alternate proposals Monday at 8 p.m. at Wolfe Grade school.

The teachers asked for a 9 per cent raise and classified employees asked for an 8 per cent raise.

Ross Parkerson, Darrell Conybeare and Mogens Ring of the county planning and public works departments will report on the Corte Madera Creek flood control project.

Roy L. Smith, principal of Greenbrae School, seeks permission to teach at Sonoma State College this summer, and Mrs. Elna Farr, a kindergarten teacher at Greenbrae School, seeks permission for sabbatical leave for next school year.

Trophy winners will be screened and chosen to take part in the local zone competition scheduled for April 13 in San Rafael.

Winners of zone events will go on to the area finals with cash prizes of from $150 to $1,000 as the goal.

Fairfax Design Board Will Hold Debut Meeting

The Fairfax Design Review Board will hold its first meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Fairfax Women's Club, 46 Park Road.

Two applications are on the agenda. Donald K. Sherwood of San Rafael is seeking design approval of a proposed self-service car wash at 1577 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, and W. A. DeCook of Mill Valley is seeking design approval of a proposed one-family house at 40 Woodland Road.

The board will choose a chairman from its three members, architect Norman T. Gilroy of Mill Valley, landscape architect Paul Steinmetz of San Rafael and Fairfax planning commissioner John J. Hourihan.

The board, voted into existence in November, will review the design of all proposed construction and major alterations in the city except for most one-family houses. Some hillside houses will be subject to design review.

Four Terra Linda Seniors Named For Bank Contest

Four Terra Linda High School seniors have been named by the faculty to represent the school in the 1967 Bank of America Achievement Awards program.

No Format Set For First Common Pro Grid Draft

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

HONOLULU (AP) — The first common draft of professional football will be held Tuesday, March 14 in New York unless there are unexpected objections from the American Football League.

The National Football League ended its annual meeting yesterday without announcing any format for the common draft with the AFL.

Instead of making any public statement about their proposals, Commissioner Pete Rozelle said the NFL owners were in touch with AFL people.

"We can be very close to agreement," Rozelle said. "There are some facets still to be worked out. I am hopeful we can resolve the situation by telephone in a week's time."

There is a strong possibility that, instead of separate drafts for regular seniors and redshirts, there may be no redshirt draft at all. A redshirt is a player with college eligibility remaining although his original college class has graduated.

The college stars regarded by pro scouts as the top redshirt possibilities are tackle Kevin Hardy of Notre Dame, tackle Maurice Moosman of Texas A&M and fullback Mike Hull of Southern California.

The AFL has conducted separate senior and redshirt drafts for years. At least in recent years, the NFL has had one draft in which all eligible collegians are included.

The AFL wanted two drafts but several NFL clubs feared such action would have retroactive effect on trades of draft choices that were made before the two leagues got together in a merger.

Vince Lombardi, coach-general manager of the Green Bay Packers, already has 10 choices in the first five rounds. Because the Packers normally are loaded with talent, they often draft a redshirt for advance use rather than a senior for immediate delivery.

When Dominic Olejniczak, Green Bay president, said he thought "the meetings went fine" it was taken as a strong hint that Lombardi was satisfied.

Business matters between the two leagues, including the merger, are handled by a joint committee made up of Tex Schramm of Dallas, Carroll Rosenbloom of Baltimore and Dan Reeves of Los Angeles for the NFL and Lamar Hunt of Kansas City, Ralph Wilson of Buffalo and Billy Sullivan of Boston for the AFL.

Hunt is in Africa but Rozelle said he and the NFL committee members had talked by telephone with Wilson and Sullivan during yesterday's final session.

"They said they would think about it and talk to the other clubs," said Rozelle. "Then we will talk to our other clubs again. When there is an announcement it will be made jointly by the two leagues in New York."

Tars Sink Siskiyous In Loop Tourney, 102-94

JIM MURRAY

Red's Rule Would Keep Koufax Out Of 'Hall'

I don't know what it is about pitchers but the minute they make the Hall of Fame they start looking around to fill it with their cronies, meanwhile trying to throw salt in the eyes of other guys who might beat them out of a turn on the mound.

YOU WILL RECALL, WHEN the great Bobby Feller made it (on the first go-round), he promptly suggested they make room for George Blaeholder and, at the same time, he strongly implied that if a, say, "Whitey" Ford made it, he should bring a relief pitcher along with him to finish out the last two of every 9 innings, since that was the way "Whitey" had won his way in—pitching 7/9ths of every game.

WELL, BASEBALL rapped itself along the side of the head to be sure it was hearing that one correctly, because George Blaeholder's lifetime stats included a won-loss record of 104-125. "Never mind," said Feller, "he invented the slider, didn't he?"

Now, along comes Charles Rufus (Red) Ruffing, a considerable pitcher, indeed. Red's lifetime record is pretty impressive: won 273; lost 225.

BUT, NOW, RED wants to salt the lineup, too. Red doesn't want to see anybody be in Cooperstown who didn't win 200 games on the mound, or bat a lifetime .300 in the batter's box. Anyone who stayed up there 20 years automatically makes it even if he only picked up howls for the last 19 of them.

Well, I can understand Red's anxiety to have plenty of .300 hitters along. That is how he made the Hall of Fame in the first place. Red, you see, pitched for the New York Yankees—when they WERE the New York Yankees. I mean that lineup had Ruth, Gehrig, Dickey, DiMaggio, Lazzeri, Rolfe, Crosetti and Combs. You could have ptiched blindfolded. Those guys won World Series games, 18-4. Look it up.

I DON'T BLAME RED. He doesn't want to be surrounded with Maury Wills, John Kennedy, Ducky Schofield—more banjoes than the Christy Minstrels. Red doesn't want to be in a lineup where, like Don Drysdale, he's the best hitter in it (and Red was the second best hitting pitcher that lived—next to Babe Ruth).

Red wants those home runs—nay, NEEDS those home runs. You see, when Red pitched on a team of ordinary mortals—the Boston Red Sox of 1924-1930—his stats were decidely sub-Cooperstown, to say the least. He won 10 and lost 25 in 1928. He won 9 and lost 22 in 1929. He NEVER had a winning year with the Sox. His lifetime was 39 won, 96 lost.

YOU CAN SEE WHERE the Yankees were semi-retirement for him. The manager just handed Red the ball and said, "Keep it under 10 runs." Ruffing once won a World Series game, 12-6. Went all the way.

Now, Ruffing's Law, if pursued by baseball, would ban a guy who wouldn't have lost 25 games a season if he had been pitching for a Sally League team in the American League. Sandy Koufax only won 165 games, 108 fewer than Ruffing. However, he lost 138 fewer.

RUFFING'S LIFETIME earned-run-average was just under four per game. In 1925 it was a robust 5.02 runs per game. That can hardly be attributed to a weak team behind him. Even in his great years with the Yankees, he posted marks like 3.94 and 3.85. But that can be excused on the plea that you don't have to bear down with a 10-run lead.

Koufax's 1966 ERA was 1.73. He had figures of 1.88 and 1.74 in other years. He struck out more in a month than Ruffing did in a year.

RUFFING ONCE OBSERVED of his career with the Yankees: "I feel like a kid with his eight big brothers out there." His team went from August 2, 1931 to August 3, 1933 without getting shut out. Koufax's team got shut out in batting practice.

I do not quarrel with Red's right to be in the Hall of Fame. I quarrel with his right to put banana peels in the path of a guy who allowed 1,754 hits in 2,325 innings—vs. Ruffing's 4,342 hits in 4,294 innings, and a guy who leads him 4-0 in no-hit games. So, back in that glass case, Red! You already got Ruth, Gehrig, Dickey, DiMag with you. Make way for a guy who did it with Don Zimmer, Dick Gray, Nate Oliver, Joe Pignatano and Norm Sherry.

Coaches Backed By Directors

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — The Board of Directors of the Illinois Athletic Association last night completed the cycle of those backing three Illini coaches against a Big Ten decree ordering their dismissal.

The board, made up of four faculty members and three alumni, met with the coaches before spokesman Charles Dadant announced the group was considering all means of aiding the trio.

Head Football Coach Pete Elliott, Basketball Coac hHarry Combes and Assistant Basketball Coach Howie Braun were the targets of an ultimatum Wednesday by Big Ten athletic directors, demanding dismissal because of athletic irregularities arising from an athletic slush fund.

Illinois President David D. Henry came to the aid of the coaches immediately after conference athletic directors ordered the three be fired or Illinois face possible expulsion from the conference.

Dr. Henry, who originally reported the irregularities to the Big Ten, called the action of the athletic directors "too harsh" and announced he would appeal the matter before a meeting of confgerence faculty representatives in Chicago next Wednesday.

Actually, all the athletic directors did was place the case in the hands of the faculty representatives who have the final word.

Joining Dr. Henry's support of the coaches were the entire football team, alumni, students, fans, Champaign-Urbana civic leaders and merchants.

Taking an opposite stand was the Daily Illini, the school's campus newspaper. The Daily Illini said "a violation is a violation regardless of what anyone else is doing and regardless of what we think of those who have broken the rules."

Billie Jean Wins Pacific Indoor Match

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — Billie Jean Moffitt King, No. 1 ranked U. S. woman player, moved into the women's finals of the Pacific Coast Indoor Tennis Championships last night by defeating San Francisco's young Cecilia Martinez 6-4, 6-2.

Mrs. King will meet Patti Hogan of San Diego who defeated Mimi Arnold Wheeler of Santa Barbara in a semifinal round 6-3, 6-3.

In other semifinal rounds: Thomas Koch of Brazil and Luis Arilla of Spain defeated Jack Darrah, San Mateo, and Don Jacobus, Berkeley, 6-2, 7-5 in men's doubles.

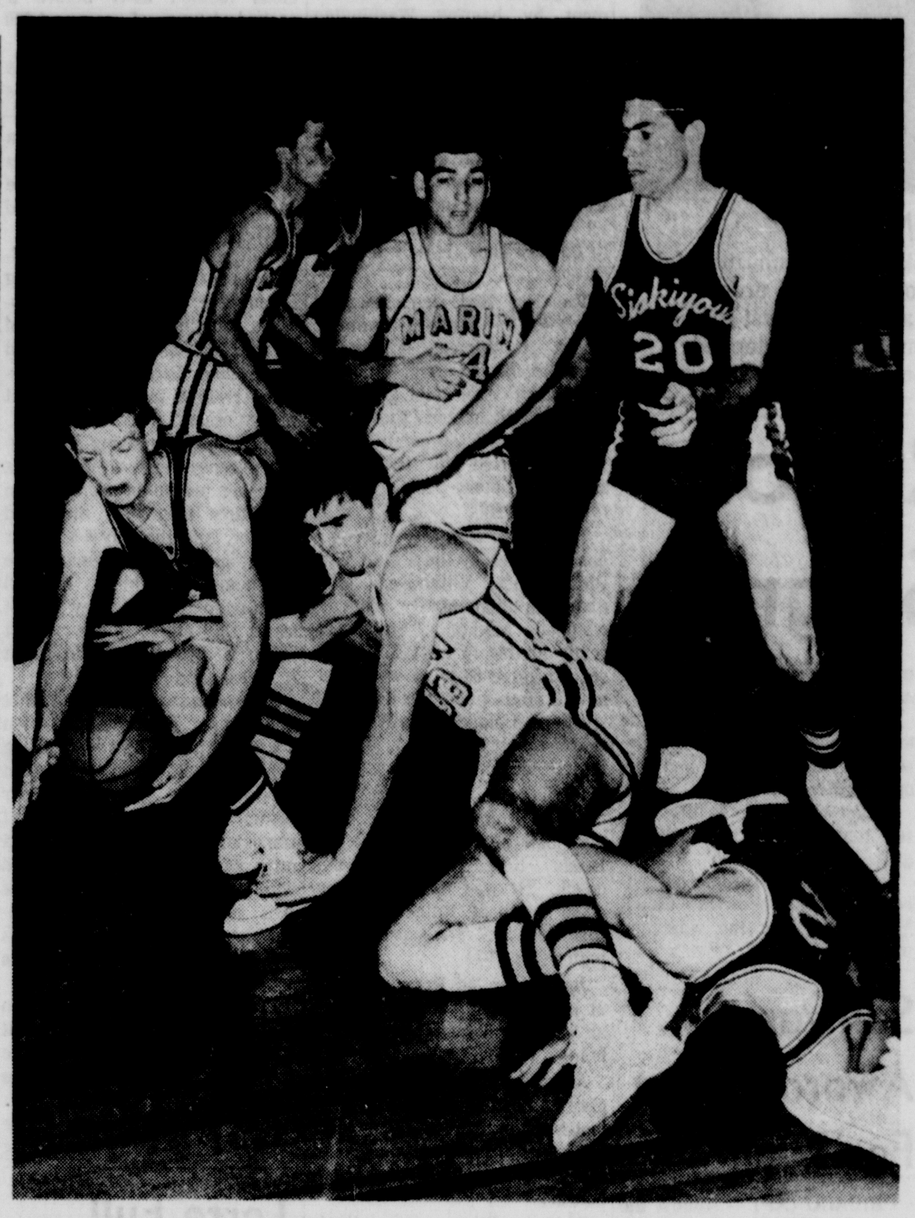
In quarterfinal rounds: Arilla defeated Gill Howard, San Bruno, 7-5, 6-2; and Koch defeated Norman Brooks, San Mateo, 6-4, 7-5, in men's singles matches.

In an early round, Koch defeated John Zweig of Ross, Marin County, Calif., 6-2, 6-1.

Today pairings: Arilla versus William Crosby, Berkeley; and Koch versus Charles Darley, Berkeley, in men's single semifinals. Whitney Reed, Alameda and Crosby versus Cliff Mayne, Berkeley, and Rupe Ricksen, Piedmont, in the men's double semifinals. Mrs. King versus Miss Hogan, in women's finals.

Some Start—0-111

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Agoura High School got a running, jumping, throwing start on the track season Friday night, losing to Channel Island High, 111-0.



THE ALAMO — It looks like it as College of Marin and Siskiyous Junior College cagers engage in some heated action during the first round of the Golden Valley Conference Playoffs at College of Marin yesterday. Melvin Solette (12) of Siskiyous is getting the worst of it while Terry Overlid (33) struggles with Ted Morgan for a loose ball. Bob Phillips (14) and Jim Griffin (20) prepare to enter the fray. Smith, Pandiani Spark Uprising

By GARY TISCHLER

The College of Marin Tars and Sierra Junior College were to fight for their season lives and a bid to challenge for a spot in the State Junior College Basketball Tournament at 2 this afternoon at College of Marin in the finals of the Golden Valley Conference Playoffs.

Both teams may find the nets a bit shabby from too much use. And they may be stumbling over the wispy leftover pipe dreams of an accident-prone but game Siskiyous squad which saw its lofty 19th place state rankings take a glass jaw punch and its season go down the drain in the wake of mistakealitis and a buzzsaw College of Marin press, last night.

The Tars outshot and outran Siskiyous, second-place team in the Eastern Division, 102-94, as two substitutes and a seasoned little big man sparked them to a spot in today's playoffs.

SIERRA WINS

Eastern Division champ Sierra brushed aside lackluster Santa Rosa, runnerup in the West, 70-53, in the opening game last night.

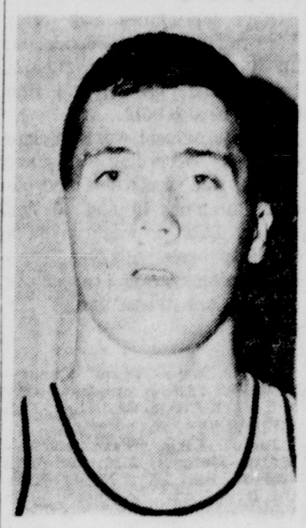
Freshman guard Russ Smith, a former Redwood High School deadeye, came off the bench in the second half to throw in eight straight points and blow open a pressure-tight game that had seen a 59-59 half-time deadlock after College of Marin had squandered a 21-point lead in the first half.

Smith came in after Siskiyous had hopefully taken its only lead of the game at 67-66 with 13 minutes left to play. He potted a driving jumper to get the Tars back into the lead, and after Siskiyous had gained a tie on a free throw, reeled off six of the Tars' next 12 points on a pair of jumpers and two free throws as Marin swept back into the driver's seat, this time for good at 80-70.

FOUL TROUBLE

Siskiyous, with 6-8 center Roland Holcomb in foul trouble, could not muster another gigantice comeback and dropped only its fifth game in 26 outings this season.

Smith finished with 23 points,



RUSS SMITH

18 in the second half, but he had to take a back seat to 5-9 Bill Pandiani, Marin's pint-sized bundle of dynamite sticks, who checked in with 26 points for game scoring honors.

Nineteen of his points came in the first half which turned out to be a circus of perfection and horror for the Tars.

The Tars almost immediately went into a full court press and there never was such a torrent of errors since the office blonde had to get off the boss's lap to type a memo.

College of Marin grabbed and stole their way into a quick 11-2 lead as Siskiyous had trouble getting the ball into their own backcourt.

Siskiyous never did get used to the press. It handed over the ball on miscues, mistakes and nervous breakdowns 18 times in the first half, 40 for the whole game.

GAVE IT BACK

For the Tars, it was Christmas in February but they gave it all back like a spoiled brat in the first half.

The Tars, with unbelieveable shooting which saw them hit nine out of their first 11 shots, eventually padded their lead to an astounding 50-29 with 6:33 left. And then the bottom fell out of the rout market.

Siskiyous, realizing that something was amiss here, reeled off 15 straight points on fast breaks and lofty passes to Holcomb before the Tars got back on the board on a free throw with three minutes left. That made it 51-44 and the worst was yet to come.

With the score 59-50 and less than two minutes left, guard Lester Chase scored on two fast break buckets and Holcomb dumped in two more. But the unsung hero was Bill Padula who whipped in a layup at the buzzer to leave the score at an astronomical 59-59 at the half.

SLOWER

Not surprisingly, things slowed down in the second half. It looked like both teams were still trying to catch their breath. But eventually, Siskiyous got its first, last and only lead of the game before Smith and company shattered their sweet dream.

Ken Blasingame came off the bench for the Tars and immediately got Holcomb into foul trouble while giving much needed help on the boards.

Pandiani and Smith got scoring help from three other Tars in double figures. Bob Phillips squirmed and ballhawked his way to 14 points and Tom Stetson and Terry Overlid had 12 each.

Holcomb topped Siskiyous with 23 points while Chase had 17 and Melvin Solette had 15. Jerry Champbell pushed in 13 points and Ted Morgan had 10 points.

The win avenged an earlier defeat at the hands of Siskiyous. The Tars have now beaten every team in both division of the Golden Valley Conference.

Sharman Ejected In Warrior Loss

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Round two of the current battle between San Francisco and Cincinnati gets under way tonight at Civic Auditorium.

The two National Basketball Association teams tangled last night in the same arena with Cincinnati on the long end of a 137-122 count.

Almost more interesting than the game was a fourth quarter confrontation between San Francisco coach Bill Sharman and referee Norm Drucker.

It came six minutes from the end when Warrior guard Jim King was flattened while going for a lay-up in a collision with the Royals' Flynn Robinson and Connie Dierking.

Sharman jumped up to protest and Drucker called a technical foul. When Sharman continued to protest, Drucker called a second technical on the first-year coach, meaning automatic ejection.

Guard Al Attles restrained Sharman from going after Drucker. The referee, taking objection to something Sharman said, then had to be restrained himself with Warrior forward Tom Meschery holding him back.

Cincinnati got off to a quick start as Oscar Robertson scored 13 of his 35 points in the first quarter and Jerry Lucas grabbed 12 of his 27 rebounds.

The Warriors, despite 46 points by NBA leading scorer Rick Barry, could never quite make up that deficit, although they once got to within four points at 101-97 two minutes into the fourth quarter.

But Royal rookie Bob Love then hit three straight field goals as Cincinnati moved back in front to stay.

Seals Have 3-3 Score To Settle

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—The California Seals and Seattle Totems have a score to settle tonight in the Oakland Arena.

They battled to a 3-3 tie last night on the same ice as the Seals moved into a share of fourth place in the Western Hockey League with the idle Los Angeles Blades.

The Seals took a gamble and made it pay off. Coach Charley Burns removed goalie Jack McCartan in the last 61 seconds and Ed Hoekstra scored the tying goal on an ensuing power play with only 19 seconds to go.

The team then couldn't put a pick in the nets during the 10-minute sudden-death overtime.

Lorenzo In Daytona On 174 M.P.H.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) —Freddy Lorenzen won a fuel economy run yesterday at an average speed of better than 174 Miles per hour, hardly a pace that would encourage thrift in the average commuter.

He averaged 4.77 miles per gallon.

With a light foot on the throttle — and some help from a roaring rival — Lorenzen drove his 1967 Ford to a nonstop victory in a 100-mile qualifying run for tomorrow's $200,000 NASCAR Grand National.

He coasted across the finish line with a dead engine after running out of fuel on the last lap. Nevertheless, his average speed of 174.853 m.p.h. was a record for 40 laps over the 2.5-mile high-banks Daytona International Speedway course.

Lee Roy Yarbrough of Columbia, S.C., won the first of the two qualifiers in a 1967 Dodge Charger, beating out former Indianapolis champion A. J. Foyt in the final four laps.

In a calculated gamble, Lorenzen drifted at half-throttle off the rear bumper of Don White's 1967 Dodge Charger most of the way and came home first after all his rivals put into the pits for fuel.

In the opener, Yarbrough zoomed into the lead on the 36th lap and hung on, barely edging Foyt, of Houston, Tex., after officials lifted a yellow caution flag which slowed the pace for three laps.

Their victories gave Yarbrough and Lorenzen third and fourth positions, respectively, for the start of Sunday's 500-miler. The two fastest qualifiers of Feb. 13, Curtis Turner of Charlotte, N.C., and Richard Petty of Randleman, N.C., will start one-two.

Turner will drive a 1966 Chevelle, and Petty a 1967 Plymouth.

An Almost Record By A Tired Segren

TORONTO (AP) — After a night on the "red-eye special," four quick hours of sleep and five hours of track meet, Bob Seagren came within one laggard arm of again breaking his indoor pole vault record.

Seagren, the 20-year-old university of Southern California sophomore, nearly gave the remains of what was once a crowd of 13,482 persons at the Maple Leaf Games last night in a 17-foot, 4-inch which would have improved on his current standard set last week, by an inch.

But by the time the bar was raised to that height, it was past having been considerably tired. having been ocnsiderably tired.

"The meet was entirely way too long," he said afterwards, a frown on his sleepy face.

But Seagren almost got his record at that. His body cleared the bar at 17-4, but one arm knocked off the stick.

On his second try, he wasn't close, but on a final attempt, he nearly did it again.

As it was, he was grateful to have so much as gotten a shot at the record. It took him three tries before he cleared the relatively puny height of 16-0 and three more before he got over 16-8.

Seagren spent 4½ hours on a plane from Los Angeles to Toronto that didn't land until 6 in the morning.

"You tend to get a little grouchy," Seagren said of his nocturnal journeys, "but it really doesn't hit you until the next night."

If Seagren's victory was expected, Eddy Ottoz' triumph in the 50-yard hurdles was something of a surprise, and Kipchoge Keino's disastrous showing in the three-mile run was a major puzzlement.

Ottoz, the European hurdles champ from Italy, had met Willie Davenport of southern university twice in the United States, and had been beaten twice.

In that, he was in good company. Davenport, co-holder of two indoor records, was unbeaten in his last 23 races and is NCAA indoor and outdoor champ.

But Ottoz dashed out to a good lead and held off Davenport, in 6.0. Willie said merely "I wasn't up for the race. It was a bad night for me."

Ottoz said the victory was due to his having worked on the steps between the first and second hurdles.

"I got over them a little better tonight," he said with a grin.

Dave Ellis of Toronto outlasted Van Nelson of St. Cloud, Minn., State, to the wire and won in 13:35.2.

Tar Swimmers Win First Meet Of '67 Season

College of Marin's swimming team won its first dual meet of the season after two straight losses, dunking Solano Junior College Thursday at College of Marin, 58-40.

The Tars won and lost the freestyle 200-medley relay, winning by 24 seconds but losing after it was found that two Tar swimmers had jumped the gun.

Bill Cannedy won a pair of events for the Tars, taking the 200 freestyle in 1:59.9, getting under two minutes for the first time, and the 100 freestyle in 53.7.

Phil Minter took the diving event, John Musser won the 200 butterfly and Dennis Good broke his own school record set a week ago in the 200 backstroke, churning in at 2:17.2 to erase his old mark of 2:17.7.

No Problem For Bruins, Princeton

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

There was nothing to it as the UCLA Bruins and the Princeton Tigers, the Country's No. 1 and No. 6 college basketball teams, warmed up for their showdown games tonight against Washington State and Cornell.

The unbeaten Uclans, led by Lew Alcindor's 37 points, crushed Washington 71-43 for their 22nd straight last night. Princeton, also playing at home, routed Columbia 97-45.

UCLA can wrap up the Pacific-8 Conference title and an automatic bid to the NCAA tournament by beating Washington State tonight. Princeton can virtually cinch the Ivy League crown and an NCAA berth by defeating Cornell.

UCLA, 10-0 in league play to Washington State's second place 7-3, is a heavy favorite. In contrast Princeton, now 21-2 overall and tied with Cornell at 11-1 in the Ivy race, is only a slight favorite.

The Big Red, who snapped Princeton's 12-game winning streak at Ithaca, N.Y., last weekend, routed Penn 101-81 on the road in their last game before the Princeton showdown. Gregg Morris' 23 points paced the Big Red to their 11th straight victory and a 19-3 record over-all.

The game was the first of a doubleheader at the Palestra in Philadelphia. Villanova's tournament-hopeful Wildcats whipped Memphis State, already invited to the NIT, in the second game 66-48. It was Villanova's ninth victory in its last 10 starts and upped the Wildcats' season record to 16-8. Johnny Jones led Villanova with 27 points.

"It was nice to see the team play ball again," said Bill van Breda Kolff, the Princeton coach. "It was our best game since we beat Rutgers on the road Jan. 30." The score of that game was 97-74.

Joe Heiser led Princeton with 21 points as the Tigers piled up an early 18-2 lead and waltzed home.

Alcindor dominated UCLA's play against Washington. The 7-foot-1 super-soph scored most of his points from close range and swept the rebounds from both boards.

Southern Illinois, the nation's No. 1 team in The Associated Press small college poll, became the eighth team invited to the NIT post-season tourney opening in New York March 9.

Sullivan Award Honor For Ryun

CHICAGO (AP) — Amidst the start of the United States Olympic Committee's biennial meeting, fantastic trackster Jim Ryun received the Sullivan Award today as the nation's top amateur athlete in 1966.

Ryun, 19-year-old sophomore at the University of Kansas, was honored at a luncheon attended by athletic leaders including the president of the Sullivan Award-sponsoring Amateur Athletic Union, David A. Matlin, and A. S. Roby, president of the USOC.

Ryun, whose 1966 exploits included world record clockings of 3:51.3 for the mile and 1:44.9 for the half-mile outdoors, streaked to an indoor half-mile record of 1:48.3 Thursday night at Lawrence, Kan.

Also, during 1966, Ryun set five American all-comers records at 800 meters, 880 yards, 1,500 meters, and two miles as well as his incredible mile at Berkeley last July 17.

The USOC sessions today included meetings of its board of directors and its games planning committee and chairmen of individual sports committees.

Tomorrow, at a full Olympic Committee meeting, a possible clash may develop between the long-feuding AAU and National Collegiate Athletic Association.

A rhubarb may develop over request by the NCAA-backed federations in track and field, basketball and gymnastics to gain membership in the USOC's Group E division.

It is expected the AAU will oppose the applications on the basis that the NCAA-backed groups are trying to get a foot in the Olympic door.

USOC President Roby said most of the weekend's session will be devoted to pinning down sites and dates for the 1968 Olympics at Mexico City and high altitude training sites in preparation for the comeptition in that city's more than 7,000-foot altitude.

Roby said it appeared most of the Olympic trials would be assigned to the west coast, centering around Los Angeles, but that Olympic leaders were divided over whether to conduct high altitude training in this country or in Mexico City prior to the start of the 1968 Games in October.

"The Mexican Olympic Committee has reported its Olympic village will be open to all nations for training purposes four weeks in advance of the games," Roby said.

Key Tilt For Litchfield '9' Tomorrow

Something's got to give in the tight San Francisco Triple A Winter Baseball League. Tomorrow's the day, barring a tie game.

Litchfield's of San Rafael semi-pro baseballers, defending winter league champs, will try to break their deadlock with co-leaders New Pisa of San Francisco, while going after its third consecutive loop win, at Golden Gate Park's Nealon diamond.

New Pisa, bombed 9-2 by the Marin team in the first round, will send ace southpaw Ken Dyer to the mound to oppose fireballing righthander Ron Cole, the king of the Litchfield staff with a fine 6-0 record and 2.14 ERA.

If the past two weeks are any indication, Litchfield's is definitely on the warpath with its hitting sticks, as it combined a two-week total of 29 safeties to boost its team average to an 11-game .331 mark.

Seven of the regulars are over the charmed .300 mark:

Dave Barni and Ron Gasper fight for the title at .467 and .460 respectively; followed by Rich Jeffries at .375 and Ron Law, .360; while Barry Krohn and Lou Millhllin are both hitting at a .314 clip, and Doug Wilson, recently reactivated, has a .600 average.

He's One Game Away From Tourney Win

Davis' total was 9,273 after 40 games including 575 bonus pins he received for winning 11 and tying one in yesterdays match-game semifinals. He was to sit out the first three games of today's nationally televised finals and take on the runner-up for the title.

Champs Enjoy Frosting

Pirates Tip Giants By 52-47 Count

By ROBBIE HARVEY

Defending Marin County Athletic League champs Drake High School added more icing to its already frosty cake last night.

The Pirates, after sweeping to the crown for the second consecutive season by trimming Marin Catholic 48-47 Tuesday, whipped past Redwood in tenacious fashion 52-47 before a packed house of some 1,500 fans, at Drake.

The Tournament of Champions is next on the agenda, and that's the chant the Drake rooters bellowed when after three and a half quarters it became obvious that the Giants of Redwood were no match for the well disciplined Bucs.

Redwood employed a full-court press from the opening minutes of play in the scrambling, hustling first half, and it paid off as the green and white clad Pirates clung desperately to a two-point edge at intermission.

Then Drake, playing its tenacious zone defense, made its first big bid to break away in the early stages of the third quarter. And the way 6-6 center Jerry Sprout was clearing the backboards in addition to Karl Stein popping in one key basket after the other, there wasn't much Redwood could do about it, press and all.

Stein canned a rebound shot and jumper in succession, then 6-5 Giant junior Ted Seidenberg answered with a rebound bucket to keep the spread at four points. But senior forward Chet Carlisle, 6-2, drilled home a nifty set shot, Sprout followed with a two-pointer and Carlisle and junior forward Don Alvarado combined back-to-back free throws to give the victors a 38-28 bulge.

But the Giant cagers, who contributed to their own defeat with a 9-2 showing from the gift stripe, wanted this one as much as the Pirates did.

They again rallied as Andre Horn, held scoreless in the first stanza, drove for a basket and came right back with a swisher from the corner to bring Redwood back within five points at the buzzer, 34-39.

Both squads substituted freely from the second quarter on, and Redwood actually muffed a chance to build up a halftime cushion when Don Stone, a 6-3 junior subbing for Carlisle, parlayed a beautiful reverse layup, drive and jumper, for his only points of the night, the final basket dropping about 10 seconds before the second-quarter action came to a halt.

Carlisle and Stein finished with 24 points divided evenly between them, while 6-2 senior forward Jack Fitzhenry won high-game honors with 15 points, followed by Horn with 13.

The champs had a cold night from the floor (17-58) at 29 per cent but Redwood was equally wild (19-62) for 30 per cent, and already had given up too much at the charity line.

Torre Full Of Optimism After Raise

ATLANTA (AP) — Joe Torre goes into his seventh big league season bursting with optimism and backed by a big pay hike from the Atlanta Braves.

"We've got a real good chance to come in 1-2-3 in the National League race, where the top teams won't be but three or four games apart," the 26-year-old Atlanta catcher said after signing his 1967 contract Friday.

"If we get the breaks and don't lose any key players because of injuries, I think we'll make a real run for the pennant," he added.

Torre, who had his finest season in 1966, signed with the Braves for an estimated $65,000, about $25,000 more than he was making last year when he hit 36 homers, drove in 101 runs and batted .315.

The Braves didn't announce salary terms, but they said Torre is now the highest-paid catcher in the National League.

Casper Slips In Philippine Golf Tourney

MANILA (AP) — Chen Ching-po of Nationalist China played a steady par 72 round today and grabbed the lead from Celestino Tugot of the Philippines in the third round of the $37,000 1967 Philippine Open Golf Tournament.

Chen, who shared the lead with Tugot going into the third round, turned in a 37-35 card for a three-round total fo 212. Tugot had a three-over-par 37-38—75, which dropped him into second place with 215.

U.S. Open champion Billy Casper, the pretournament favorite who was in second place going into Saturday's round, shot a 38-38—76 to wind up in fourth place with 217, along with Japan's Tomoo Ishii.

Award To Spaniards

MADRID (AP) — Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, presented the 1965 Bonacossa Trophy Friday to the Spanish Olympic Committee for its good organization of IOC's 63rd assembly held in Madrid in 1965.

Streaking Trojans Win Again

Had they made their bid earlier, Terra Linda might have been the Marin County Athletic League's Cinderella basketball team.

Fresh off a 70-51 rout over mighty Tamalpais, the Trojan cagers climaxed their season in banner fashion last night with a 58-47 triumph over Marin Catholic to even its record at 6-6, and hand the Wildcats a final 3-9 mark.

League-leading scorer Fred Smith poured in 25 points to pad his edge in that department and provide the offensive punch as coach Bob Corley's cagers rallied from a one-point deficit in the opening minutes of the second quarter and take a slim three-point edge at the half, 25-22.

The Cats still were in striking distance and fought back behind 6-2 center Ches Bornia and little Harry Matsinger, who totaled 11 points each. But the Trojans, employing their fast-break brand of ball effectively, stymied any serious damage and slowly pulled away to put it out of reach with a 16-11 third-period surge.

Five-eleven senior guard Steve Congdon and Paul Lee, the same size and grade, but a forward, were runners-up in the Terra Linda scoring derby with 12 and 10 digits respectively, while Smith, a 6-2 senior forward, capped his high school basketball career by tallying all but five of his total from the floor as he flashed for 10 field goals.

Cole Porter Recalled As Guy With Class

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Some friends of Cole Porter gathered at the University of Southern California one recent evening to reminisce about the late songwriter and sing his imperishable tunes.

The result could be expressed in one of his lyrics: "Just one of those nights . . . Just one of those fabulous nights."

THE FRIENDS were Frank Sinatra, Fred Astaire, Ethel Merman, Gene Kelly, Alan Jay Lerner and Garson Kanin. All had known Porter intimately; he had scored "High Society" for Sinatra, "The Pirate" for Kelly, "The Gay Divorcee" with "Night and Day" as its hit for Astaire, and "Panama Hattie" and four other shows for Merman.

Mrs. William Goertz, wife of the film producer and daughter of Louis B. Mayer, had invited the stars to the program for the USC Friends of the Library.

The evening began with the announcement by James O. Cole of Peru, Ind., Porter's cousin and heir, that the Porter estate was establishing a $5,000 annual fellowship in the arts at USC. Then the friends took over.

Said playwright-director-author Kanin: "Cole Porter stood for the apex of achievement in his field; there was never anyone who was better."

LYRICIST Lerner added: "The thing that was unique about him was that he seemed to spring from nowhere." Other songwriters had their roots in operetta or jazz, but "Cole was something special, something unaccountable and unexplainable."

COLE PORTER
Never anyone better.

Sinatra: "He made it fun to sing a song. I'll never forget my surprise at his couplets and inner rhymes."

Merman sang in her galvanic style the title tune from the first show Porter wrote for her, "Anything Goes." Also, "I Get a Kick Out of You."

Lerner recalled receiving a summons to visit Porter at New York's Harkness Pavilion, where he had undergone one of 29 operations on his legs, broken in a horseback fall.

"I ARRIVED at five o'clock and found Cole prepared to serve martinis and hot hors d'oeuvres," said Lerner. "He had engaged an extra room in the hospital to set up a little stove so he could have hot hors d'oeuvres."

"Now that's real class!" said Sinatra admiringly.

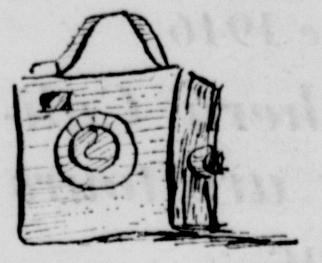
Europe Pampers Its Rail Passengers

Every Comfort Is Offered Those Traveling By Train

The services on the trains of the 13 western European countries participating in Eurailpass are constantly being broadened to provide passengers with an unusual variety of comforts from phone calls to anywhere in the world to special compartments for baby care.

On the Rheinpfeil, film producer Alfred Hitchcock placed a business call directly to Hollywood. During the conversation, Hitchcock described to his amazed listener the beautiful German countryside between Munich and Dortmund.



BY USING Telstar Satellite, the German Federal Railroad makes it possible for passengers to call any place on the globe from compartments for business men who want to use their traveling time productively.

The seating arrangements in the Settebello of the Italian State Railways, which goes from Milan to Rome, is distinctly different and exceedingly comfortable. The four compartments in each coach are arranged like a plush lounge. Each can seat 10; six on two divans, and four are on oversized individual armchairs which can be moved like those in any living room.

In addition to its special sightseeing car, the Settebello has a loudspeaker system which is used to describe the passing scenery, for suggestions on how to enjoy the trip better, news bulletins and musical programs. Of course, superb Italian cuisine can be had in its restaurant; and passengers can spend their leisure moments in the bar car.

DURING THE peak season, it also has an unusual section devoted to shopping which is equipped with sales counters and show windows, and there, passengers can buy papers, books, souvenirs, articles handcrafted by Italian tradesmen and other items of this nature.

Throughout Scandinavia, most trains have coaches which have special facilities for children, such as a bottle heater, nursery room and small bathrooms A totally genial atmosphere prevails on the main lines in Norway, where the conductor tells stories, and describes the scenery. On the Myrdal-Flam, the train stops for photographers who are eager to take pictures.

Several times a year, on the main line between Stockholm and Gothenburg and Malmo, fashion shows are held with models strolling through the train showing the latest Paris styles.

PASSENGERS ON Swedish railway line between Stockholm and Malmo are sometimes distracted from menus and food by fashion shows in which lovely Scandanavian models display the latest in Paris styles.

PLEASURE GROUPS of from four to 40 people can have a special coach of their own in Denmark which is equipped with dancing facilities, built-in bar and stereo hi-fi equipment.

Still the fastest train in Europe is the Mistral of the French National Railways which, like the wind it is named after, races briskly each day from Paris to Nice.

This famous crack train has traditionally been a favorite choice of travelers in France. Its popularity is maintained, as it characterizes the consistent quality offered by western European trains, the best food and the most versatile facilities.

2 ways to buy a Mercedes-Benz overseas

1. Buy it yourself when you reach Europe. You arrange for your own registration. Obtain licenses. Get car insurance in Europe and marine insurance for the trip back. Find a ship to ship it home in. Clear it through customs. Arrange duty payments. Not much fun on a trip.

2. Order it from us before you leave. As your authorized dealer, we handle all this red tape for you. And we make sure you get exactly what you want—model, color, accessories—the works.

Take Proper Health Precautions When You Prepare For A Trip

Don't Overlook The Little Things That Can Spoil Pleasure Of Travel

A vacation should be free of worry. Yet many Americans overlook little things that can spoil the pleasure of traveling.

Take your eyeglasses, for instance. You're thousands of miles away from home and you lose or break them. If you have planned properly, you would have an extra pair and a prescription with you. Then you would have a pair to wear while the prescription is being filled.

MEDICAL AND dental checkups should be one of the firsts on the things-to-do when planning your trip. They should be scheduled, if possible, about two months before departure — since dental work could involve several visits.

If your journey is to a foreign destination, immunization shots may be necessary. You'll need a smallpox vaccination to visit most countries and to return to the United States.

Some shots, such as anti-tetanus and anti-typhoid, are given in series and require several weeks. And getting smallpox, yellow fever and cholera inoculations validated by the local public health officer can also take some time.

In addition to a first-aid kit, take essential prescription medicines in sufficient amounts to last the entire trip. Take along an extra prescription as a safeguard against breakage or loss.

Pack medicines separately from cosmetics and other toiletries to avoid confusion when in a hurry.

Carry liquid medicines in plastic bottles to guard against breakage. Make certain each is clearly and accurately labeled.

Seal tops of bottles and lids of boxes with tape to prevent leakage or moisture from getting in. Be careful the tapes don't adhere to the labels and tear them off when removed.

If necessary to buy medicine in a foreign country, read labels carefully before leaving the pharmacy or dispensary. If instructions are not written in English, ask for a translation and write it down. Make sure you understand instructions, particularly the dosage, since measures vary from country to country.

All-night pharmacies are few and far between overesas but most large cities have dispensary centers open all night for emergencies. For locations, a call the U.S. embassy or consulate or check with the hotel desk clerk.

These sources also can recommend a qualified doctor, if one is needed in a hurry. In smaller towns, the local police department can help in an emergency.

In the United States, phone the local medical society or the nearest hospital to find an accredited physician in the area.

And last but not least, the council urges epileptics, diabetics and heart patients to carry their medical identification tags or cards on their persons at all times.

Planning Will Pay Off

By MURRAY J. BROWN
UPI Travel Editor

A spur-of-the-moment vacation trip abroad can be fun and adventure. But it also can have complications.

For one thing, with more Americans and others on the move, transportation and accommodations may be hard to find, particularly during the peak tourist seasons.

And then there is the matter of customs, health and other regulations in countries on the itinerary as well as the United States.

IGNORANCE IS no defense and could not only ruin your vacation but cost you time and money. Planning and some commonsense precautions, on the other hand, could help make that once-in-a-lifetime holiday even more memorable.

Decide well in advance where you want to go, what you want to see and do, and how much you can afford to spend.

It it is your first trip overseas, a visit to a reliable travel agency or airline office will pay off all the more. Many offer all-inclusive package deals — transportation, accommodations, meals, sightseeing, etc. — at special rates. They also can provide up-to-date information and helpful tips on clothing, tipping, food and other local customs.

GET PASSPORTS, visas or travel permits, if necessary, and required inoculations as soon as possible. Inoculations must be entered by the physician and certified by local health authorities in the yellow International Certificate of Vaccination.

The certificate may be obtained at the same time as the passport and other documents or through travel offices or official health services. Besides immunization against smallpox — required for entry into the United States and most countries —the U.S. Public Health Service issues lists of recommended inoculations for Americans traveling to specific areas abroad.

In one bulletin, the USPHS recommended vaccination against cholera for all Americans traveling to Asia and the Western Pacific. It noted that such immunization is required by most countries, including the United States, if the traveler has crossed or been in an infected area within five days of his arrival.

CHECK ON customs regulations in foreign countries to be visited. There are restrictions on what may be brought in. But in addition to personal belongings, most permit tourists to bring in specific amounts of cigarettes, cigars, liquor and film without duty. American-made cigarettes and film, especially color, are often expensive and hard to find.

Outbound, Americans can buy virtually tax-free cigarettes and liquors at most international airports before boarding flights.

Generally, Americans returning from a trip overseas of at least 48 hours or less from Mexico and Canada may bring in articles purchased abroad up to a value of $100 retail without paying duties. Only one quart of liquor and fixed amounts of cigars (Cuban-made are prohibited) and cigarettes may be included.

THERE'S AN extra $100 duty exemption for Americans coming home from or via the U.S. Virgin Islands, Guam or American Samoa. In addition, adults can bring in up to a gallon of liquor.

Articles must accompany the purchaser to be included in the exemption — the former "to come" provision under which they could be mailed home later has been eliminated. However, while overseas Americans still may mail gifts valued at less than $10 to persons at home without payment of duty. The only limitation is that the total value of such gifts sent to any one person in one day cannot exceed $10.

There are restrictions on some goods protected by trademarks and the amount of French perfumes, certain cameras, watches, binoculars and other specific items which may be brought in, duty-free or not.

ARTICLES MADE in Communist China may not be imported into the United States. Chinese-type goods purchased in Hong Kong must have an official government Certificate of Origin stating they were not made in Red China, or face confiscation.

Keep all sales slips handy to help speed your way through customs. And remember members of one family traveling together may combine their exemptions.

TOURISTS CANNOT fail to take home lasting impressions of such Far East wonders as the Temple of the Emerald Buddha in Bangkok, Thailand.

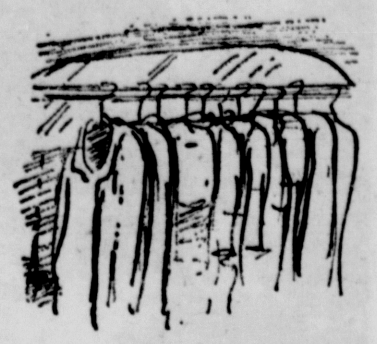
Enjoy Your Trip, But Don't Litter

Discover the scenic and other wonders of the United States but don't use its roads, parks and waters as a garbage dump.

That's the urgent appeal of Keep America Beautiful, the national non-profit litter prevention organization, to millions of Americans who will vacation across the 50 states this year.



KAB noted that the litterbug not only spoils the scenery, but costs taxpayers millions of dollars each year.

The main culprit is the motorist. KAB estimates 18 million cubic yards of empty cigarette packs, tissues, beer cans and other litter are dumped on the nation's roads in one year.

Desert Scenery, A Warm Sun And Baseball, Too, In Arizona

It's cold enough up north to freeze the scowl off a steel-hearted umpire but in Phoenix, Ariz., the sky is blue, the sun is bright and baseball's the name of the game.

It's also a long time from March to baseball's mid-season when competition gets downright grim. So, ingenious fans throughout the West have figured a way to beat the system every spring. Toothbrush and sunglasses in hand, they hop aboard a fanjet to Phoenix for a look at the action others won't see for months to come.

FLYING INTO the Valley of the Sun is itself a spectacular sight, inviting outdoor sports lovers to stretch their muscles in the winter warmth and look around for the action. They soon learn that except for a few chilly days, Phoenix is shirt-sleeve country all winter.

Nothing quite matches the thrill of watching a professional team develop into a winning machine and Phoenix-Scottsdale's major league baseball training camps fill the bill. The sizzling exhibition games are spectator bonuses found in few resorts.

Teams supplying the local action include San Francisco's Giants, who make Phoenix their training home. Just a horseshoe's throw east, the Chicago Cubs are bedded down in Scottsdale, dubbed "the West's most Western town" by its chamber of commerce.

DOWN THE PIKE in Tucson, the Cleveland Indians pitch their winter "hogans". (No, son, hogans are not famous golfers, they are Arizona Indian houses.)

The fourth team to fight it out in the Valley this spring are the California Angels. Based in Anaheim, near Disneyland, they fly in from training at Holtville and Palm Springs.

The exhibition games are a special treat for winter visitors from cities where there are no major league sports.

You can bet your Stetson, however, that rooters down in cactus country aren't limited to them only. San Francisco Giants manager Herman Franks told Western Air Lines that while his team works out in Arizona, hundreds of Bay Area fans combine some pre-season team support with a weekend sunbreak or winter vacation in Phoenix or Scottsdale.

PHOENIX AND the Maricopa County countryside have a lot to offer visitors—Sonora desert sightseeing, horseback riding, golf, swimming, excellent restaurants and sunshine! sunshine! sunshine! A hot dog, a cold drink and an exciting afternoon of major league baseball fits right into the program.

The Giants' March schedule against the Angels, the Cubs and the Indians is a good example of the line-driving competitive fare offered.

SPLENDID desert scenery is only one attraction of Arizona. And right now, there is a very special one for Bay Area sports enthusiasts, with the San Francisco Giants beginning spring training in Phoenix. Above you are on Route 2 near Sedonia.

The team arrives in town Wednesday, March 8, to meet the Chicago Cubs in a special opener in Scottsdale Stadium, Friday, March 10.

In spring training home games at Phoenix Municipal Stadium, the Giants will face the Indians, Sunday, March 12; Cubs, Monday, March 13; Indians, Wednesday, March 15; Angels, Friday and Saturday, March 17 and 18; Cubs, Sunday, March 19 and Tuesday, March 21; Indians, Wednesday, March 22; Cubs, Tuesday, March 28; and the Angels, Thursday and Friday, March 30 and 31.

THE GIANTS also play the Cubs at Scottsdale on Tuesday, March 15; Monday, March 20; and Wednesday, March 29.

Phoenix home games begin at 1 p.m. and tickets for the action range from $1.50 to $3.

For summer travelers flying to Phoenix, San Francisco's Giants are gone but not forgotten. Their local farm team of future stars, the Phoenix Giants, have a heavy schedule in the Eastern Division of the Pacific Coast League from April 14 until Sept. 4.

How To Travel With Children— And Still Relax

Prepare In Advance For Their Comfort, Safety And Pleasure

Traveling with kids by car can be a trying experience, particularly on a trip of any length.

But if preparations are made to keep the youngsters from getting bored and precautions taken for their comfort and safety, it can be fun.

IN COMPILING the following tips on traveling with children Hertz Rent-A-Car has drawn on the experience of managers at nearly 2,000 rental locations throughout the country.

There is a strong connection, the Hertz survey said, between a happy child and a safe driver, since restless children may distract the driver's attention from the road or even interfere with his control of the car.

Hertz has these suggestions to help keep parents and children contented on trips:

Keep children in the back where they are least likely to interfere with the driver and there is plenty of room for games or a nap. Suitcases can be stacked on the floor up to the level of the seat to provide additional napping space if needed. Smaller children may require blankets and possibly pillows.

Take a supply of books, games and toys. Select games that can be played in a confined area and do not have small pieces that may fall off a board when the car stops or swerves.

Sharp-edged, pointed or heavy toys should be left at home. Stuffed animals are fine for the very young while coloring sets, slates, puzzles and books are best for the older children.

Parents and children can take part in a variety of guessing games. Some combine with viewing the scenery, such as "Guess what I saw?" Others could include "20 Questions," or for very small tots, "I'm thinking of a word."

Games which depend on observation can be devised to keep the children alert to the passing scene. These include counting out-of-state licenses, convertibles, station wagons, sports cars, or women drivers or reading highway and mileage markers.

POINTS OF interest along the way should be highlighted for children. Towns, factories, bridges, oil wells, farms or unfamiliar structure should be explained — many interesting details can be found in a tour map or guidebook. Mobil Travel Guide Books contain considerable information.

If they are old enough, children can be asked to serve as "navigators." Before starting out, go over the maps with them and pencil in the route. On the way, the children can call off the towns up ahead and with a colored crayon mark the section of the trip already completed.

Frequent stops should be made. These not only help reduce driver fatigue but prevent boredom in children. Look for a particularly scenic spot, such as a meadow with cows or sheep or a brook or creek where the youngsters can go exploring.

A supply of snacks should be kept on hand, because the least manageable child is a hungry or thirsty one. If drinks are carried along, use paper cups, not glasses or bottles. Avoid anything which contains a stick like a lollipop or ice cream bars.

Keep a first aid kit handy. Despite precautions, kids do suffer cuts, scrapes and bruises, to say nothing of insect bites and even poison ivy or oak bolsters.

Don't allow children to lean out of windows or put their arms or hands outside. And forbid any shouting or sudden noises which might disturb the driver.

Make reservations for overnight stops well in advance. Don't push. Stop early enough for the children to take a dip in the pool, if available, and unwind before dinner and bedtime.

You Can Help Avoid Loss Of Luggage

The United States airlines alone carried more than 125 million pieces of luggage in 1965. With such volume, it is inevitable that someone's luggage went astray.

One of the most common causes, according to the Air Transport Association of America, is look-alike bags. Hardly anyone looks at his baggage checks and in the confusion of the racks some simply grab somebody else's bags because they look like his.

The traveler can help protect himself against such mistakes by affixing legible personal identification tags or easily-spotted decals or other stickers and markings on the outside of his bags.

Travelers also are urged to remove old destination tags as a precaution against possibility that a hurried baggage handler will read the wrong one and leave luggage aboard the plane when it should be unloaded or transfer it to another plane which takes off while the passenger searches frantically through the racks.

As added insurance, ATA suggests a business card or other means of identification should be taped inside the bag. Lost luggage experts for the airlines will open baggage to seek some clue to the owner's identity when none is found on the outside.

The airlines have set up through ATA an inter-lines electronic system to help track down missing baggage speedily. Known as ARCH (Airline Baggage Recovery Clearing House), ATA claims the system cuts at least three days off the time previously needed to trace misdirected luggage.

Honolulu Lures Mainlanders With Fantastic Bargains

Honolulu, capital of Hawaii, the Aloha State, offers the visitor a fantastic bargain in entertainment and activities.

Located on the island of Oahu, it has dozens of activities guaranteed to be easy on the budget—many of them free of charge—including pageants, walks, museums, hikes, swimming, tennis, displays, festivals and concerts.

Foremost among low cost island entertainment is swimming and sunning on island beaches. Leader in the budget-priced events are the shows throughout the year at Waikiki Shell, the beautiful outdoor theatre in Kapiolani Park in Waikkii.

The Honolulu Academy of Arts is open to the public almost daily, and a wandering tour around its courtyards and exhibiting galleries will find you with enough free sightseeing to remember the rest of your life.

And the museums of Hawaii will give every budget watcher a gift of entertainment and information that will change his mind about "must and dust" in connection with museums.

A VISIT TO the Bishop Museum in Honolulu is a trip into ancient Polynesia with its people and customs on lifes-ize display before your eyes. The "crown jewels" of Hawiian royalty—namely, the feather cape and helmet collection—is stored here and has no equal anywhere in the world.

The Queen Emma Summer Palace in beautiful Nuuanu Valley was the summer home of King Kamanameha IV and his consort, Queen Emma, and is filled with mementos of this period. The Historical Museum on Maui island, Hale Hoikeike, is another fascinating old island home turned into a treasure chest of old Hawaiiana. The Hulihee Palace, former home of royalty, is at Kona on the Big Island, and has furniture and possessions in its rooms that were once used by the Kamehamehas, King Kalakaua and Queen Liliuokalani.

Two bonus shows given to Hawaiian visitors are the Polynesian shows given the the International Market Place in Waikiki Natatorium especially for photo fans—the dancers will even pose for you or with you so you can get tha particular picture to "show the folks back home."

Aboard The Cruise Ship

There's More To Do Than Sitting In A Deck Chair

Well, it can be done. But it isn't easy.

EVERY MORNING about dawn a steward slips under the door of your cabin a sheet of paper listing the schedule of activities for the day. On a typical day at sea it goes something like this:

Breakfast. Shuffleboard. Free dance lessons. Lifeboat drill. Bingo. Register for ping pong tournament. Swimming pools open. Fun and games on deck. Bouillon served. Lecture on shopping in next port of call. Greek language lesson.

Lunch. Passengers' bridge tournament. First run movie. Select props and costume trimmings for masquerade ball. Hebrew lesson. Calisthenics. Deck horse races. Ship's shops open. Tea concert. Captain's cocktail party.

Dinner. Movie horse races. Night club show. Dancing aft under the stars. First run movie. Midnight buffet. Dancing until 4 a.m., in the Taverna. Remainder of day free for passengers.

THE BIG SHIPPING lines vying for the multi-million dollar cruise trade furnish a fantastic program of entertainment aboard their sleek vessels.

During a recent two-week voyage of the Caribbean for guests of the Greek Lines on the Olympia, there were three orchestras American, Greek and Italian; three swimming pools; at least 10 bars and cocktail lounges; library; gymnasium; children's indoor play area; night club; card room; writing room; movie theater; bank; shops; photographic studio; hairdressers; barber shop; three elevators.

In the night club act were a former leading man on Broadway as singer and master of ceremonies; two professional dancers; a comedian; a torch singer; a magician, and plenty of amateur performers from among the passengers.

THE FOOD WAS fabulous and endless. In the main dining room one could eat from the top of a foot long menu to the bottom at no extra charge. And if, around 2 a.m., you feel the need for a sandwich and glass of milk, the steward brings it to the room.

That is what happens aboard. Figure sight-seeing in a half dozen ports of call Haiti, Columbia, Panama, Jamaica, Nassau, New York and you get the full matathon.

Of course, you can just sit in that deck chair in the sun. But you won't.

Ships Cater To Small Passengers

During the past few years travel by ship "family style" has become increasingly popular. Shipping companies have invested heavily to assure mom and dad that "taking the kids" along presents little if any problem.

Today, virtually every transatlantic liner provides a wide variety of shipboard recreations to keep active children still active, and to give parents the peace of mind of knowing that their children are well-supervised by qualified pesonnel in modern facilities.

Most vessels provide gaily decorated playrooms furnished with a wide selection of diversions to keep childen busily amused. Standard equipment includes hopscotch games, drawing boards, play tables, merry-go-rounds and sliding boards, and — one of a child's usual favorites — rocking horses.

A myriad selection of toys is also on board including stuffed animals, building blocks and dolls.

Depending on the ship, other special features are often added. The Holland-America Line's Statendam, for example, has, in addition to the usual attractions, a puppet theater. Modern in design, the ceiling is decorated in large planes and a dropped section has been finished in an abstract design. Benches with removable cushions surround the wall. Block-style chairs have been constructed in such a manner that they may be used by small children as well as large.

During play sessions, the chairs are used as building blocks, railroad coaches, or whatever else a child's vivid imagination transforms them into.

Greeks Challenge Monte Carlo

A smart Greek syndicate is out to "break the bank at Monte Carlo" a new way—by luring the international "roulette set" away from its former Riviera haunt into the ultra-posh new casinos on the Greek islands of Rhodes and Corfu.

And the Greeks have a lot going for them.

At the Corfu casino, for instance, guests while away the hours in an imposing palace which was once called home by both the Empress Elizabeth of Austria and Kaiser Wilhelm II, the last monarch of Germany.

At Rhodes, the gambling halls are housed equally impressively in the sumptuous Grand Hotel-Summer Palace, the Class Double-A hotel which ranks with the world's most luxurious.

Furthermore, the two casinos offer as much in the way of sport and comfort to "Everyman" as they do to dukes and duchesses. For the cost of a 20-drachma chip (60 cents American), anyone can rub shoulders with nobility, and thanks to Greece's carefully regulated rental laws, guests accommodations can be had at surprisingly modest rates.

For inveterate tourists who like to mix their betting with a bit of historical sightseeing, and there are some, the Corfu casino even houses a small museum containing beolngings of its illustrious former occupants.

Nowadays, in addition to the casino, the Achillion houses a swank restaurant and a night club. In the spacious park in which it stands there is also a comfortable guest house with all modern conveniences.

Why So Many Tourists Select Germany

THE MERMAID bathing in the sun at Denmark's Copenhagen Harbor is a familiar sight and a photographic challenge for all visiting tourists.

Why do so many foreign tourists decide on a trip to Germany?

To answer this question the German Headquarters for Tourism has conducted a study and come up with the answers.

The results show that Americans are attracted, above all, by a longing to experience the romantic past. The Rhine River and the many castles along its path, quaint towns which have survived from the Middle Ages, famous royal residences, those special castles built by the Bavarian kings and a visit to Munich are smong the attractions on their lists.

Italians and Spaniards, on the other hand, say Germany's cooler, healthier air has a major appeal for them. Many like to take long hines in the Black take long hikes in the Black trips down the Rine—There is no such thing as a river boat trip in Italy, for example.

MOST FRENCHMEN consider a visit to Germany as an educational extension course. They are eager to become acquainted with Germany's cities and its art treasures.

Germany's world renowned spas and mineral baths attract thousands of foreign tourists each year and famous resorts in southern Germany for winter sports draw many more.

Based on the study, German advertising for tourists will concentrate on the above named specialties more and more to increase the number of foreign visitors, which is already high.

The Caribbean Is A Paradise For The Bargain-Hunter

Today the booty is in the form of some of the most remarkable shopping in the world.

St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, is the shopping center of the northern Caribbean, and here Americans can take advantage of a double custom's allowance of $200 as well as a gallon (alcohol) duty-free.

THE HARBOR of Charlotte Amalie is a miniature Rio, and near the warves is Dronningens Gade where old terra cotta warehouses have been subdivided into the shopping district of Beretta Center. At Maison Danoise one will find Wedgewood and Spode china, and Orrefors Swedish crystal at half the New York price.

Rawson Square is a huge straw market where unusual woven goods and handicrafts are available. The best imports come from England and Scandanavia, and in Solomon's Mines one can find English Tudor crystal, Limoges and Royal Stafford china at half the New York price.

PORT AU PRINCE another center of Caribbean shopping.

Local handicrafts are outstanding. Among the best are mahogany sculptures, hand-loomed cottons, and copper jewelry. Carlos on Avenue Pie XII has an excellent selection.

Martinique is the center of French imports, and on Rue St. Louis or Rue Victor Hugo perfumes, crystal, and lingerie sell at duty free prices. Roger Ablert's is the Caribbean's most famous perfume shop.

THAT'S Mount Fuji that makes up the scenic backdrop for this golf course scene in central Japan. If mountain-hiking seems too strenuous a sport for the vacationer, he can always settle for exercise on the golf course. Many resort hotels have their own championship courses. Golfing, introduced into Japan at the turn of the century, has zoomed in popularity in Japan the past 10 years. (Japan Air Lines photo)

Climbing Mount Fuji Safe, If Tackled At Right Time

The mountain, affectionately called "Fuji-san" by the Japanese, is one of the world's most familiar landmarks. Its near-perfect cone can be seen for miles and is often clearly visible from the Tokyo Tower 75 miles away.

Legend says that Fuji-no-Yama, a once-active volcano, rose in the night some 2,000 years ago. The name "Fuji" is said to be of Ainu origin—the Ainus being the aboriginal people of Hokkaido, Japan's northermost island, where every active volcano is worshipped as "Fujikamui" (divine fire).

The climbing season is short, from July 1 to Aug. 25 each year, according to British Overseas Airways Corporation, which flies to Japan from the West Coast and Hawaii. The authorities grimly warn that they will take no responsibility for climbers attempting an out-of-season ascent.

During the season, however, it is perfectly safe—and thousands of climbers, including scores of aged pilgrims, crowd the well-marked trails to the summit.

Many of them start at night so they can reach the vast crater on the top of the peak in time to see the rising sun at dawn.

Round-The-World Jets Are Cheaper By Mile Than Taxi

Would you believe it costs less per mile to fly around the world in a jetliner than it does to take a taxi in major American cities?

It's true. In fact, round-the-world fares are probably the biggest bargain ever offered the air traveler. In some instances, they are even cheaper than round-trip fares to overseas destinations.

THE ECONOMY jet fare for global flights as set by the International Air Transport Association (IATA) is $1,262.30 from New York, $1,265.60 from Chicago, and $1,285.40 from Los Angeles and San Francisco, whether the ticket calls for one or 100 stopovers along the way.

One log showed roughly 22,300 miles on a recent round-the-world flight from New York. It figures out to less than six cents per mile, including meals, and no tipping.

In New York, a 22,300-mile trip by taxi would cost about $5,575; in Chicago, it would amount to $6,690; in Los Angeles, it would total $8,920; and in San Francisco, the meter would read a whopping $11,150. And that would not include the 10 to 15 per cent tip cabbies expect.

THE FIRST globe-girdling flight by two U.S. Army planes in 1924 took 175 days. In 1931, Wiley Post and Harold Gatty excited the world by doing it in 8 days, 16 hours. Pan American inaugurated the first commercial service in 1947 with a four-engine Lockheed Constellation prop plane in four days, 5½ hours.

Today, the air traveler in a hurry can circumnavigate the world on scheduled jetliners over the weekend. Flying time on the international air carriers, barring bad weather and other difficulties, averages about 48 hours.

Those with more time can take up to one year to make the trip. There are numerous travel agencies offering scores of escorted all-inclusive tours ranging from 30 days in a dozen countries to 80 days in 25, or more. Or the traveler can make his own arrangements before leaving or as he goes along.

THERE IS A variety of round-the-world routings available from the East and West coasts. One global flight via Pan Am is New York-London-Beirut-Bangkok-Hong Kong-Tokyo-Honolulu-Los Angeles-New York.

But stopovers also can be made in Paris, Frankfurt, Vienna, Rome, Belgrade, Istanbul, Baghdad, Tehran, Karachi, New Delhi, Calcutta, Rangoon, Saigon and elsewhere along the regular flight routes.

In addition, side excursions can be made to numerous other cities at no or little extra charge. The round-the-world traveler does not have to fly all the way with the original carrier.

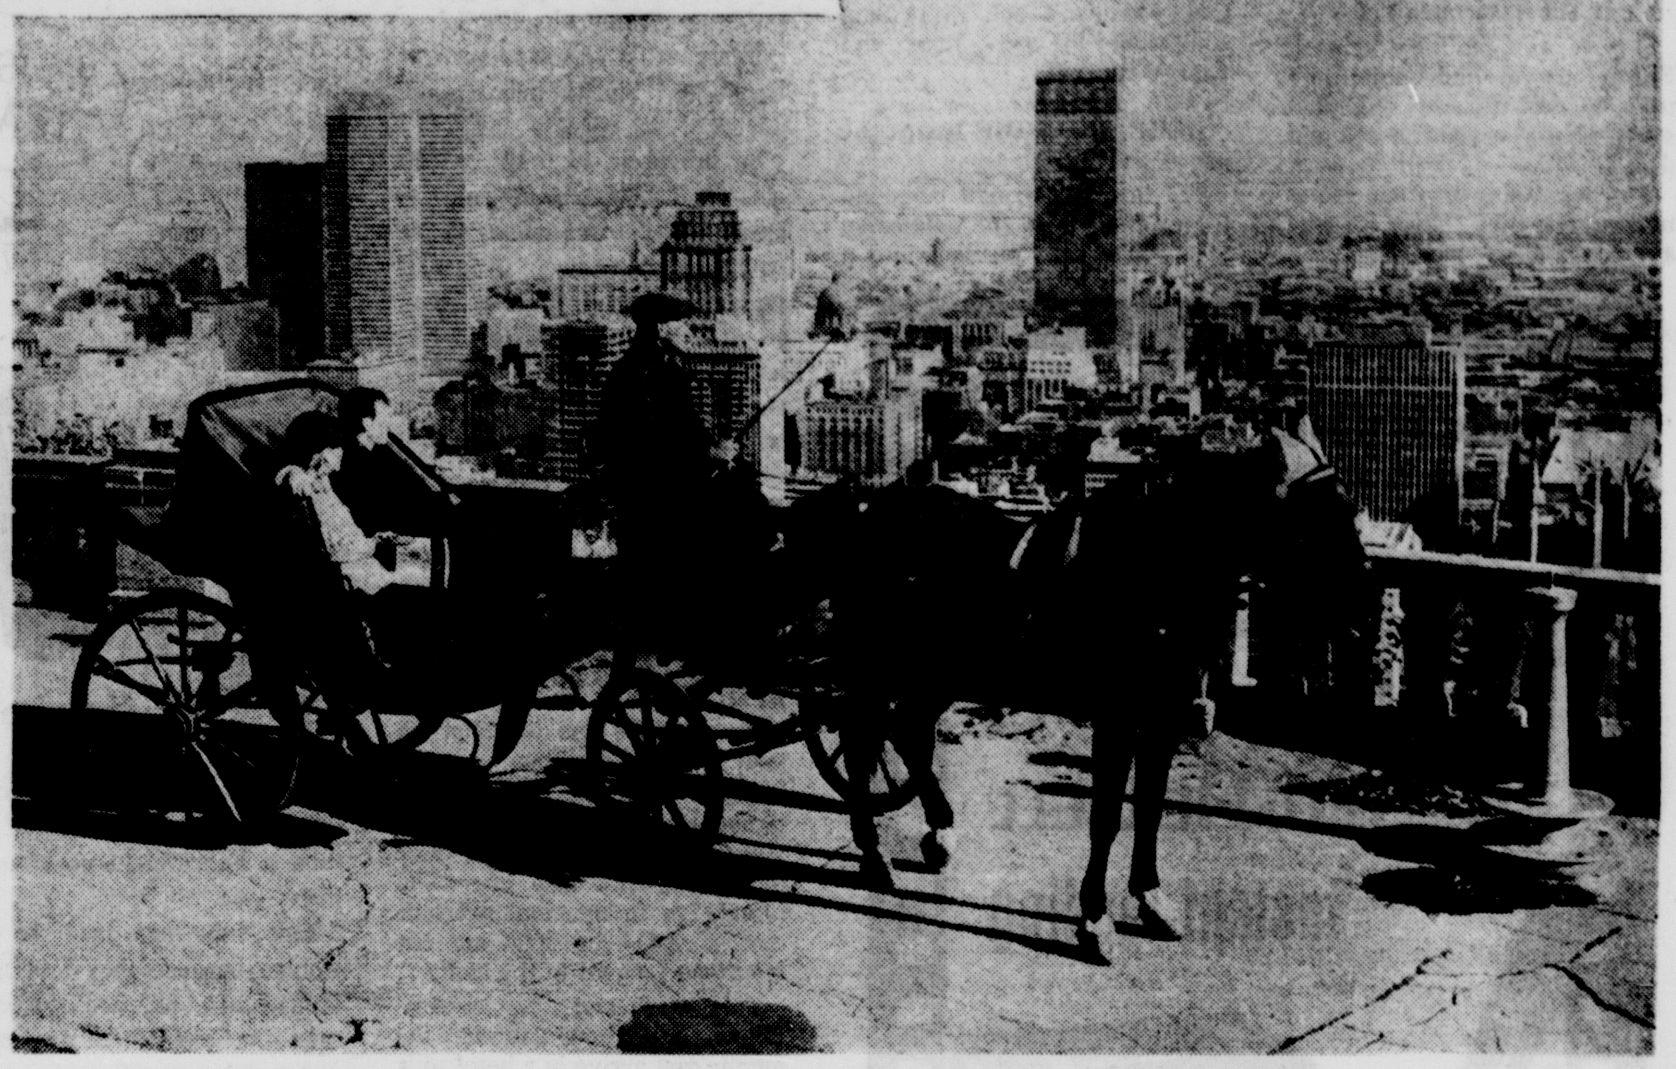
Paris In The New World

You'll Like Foreign Air Of Montreal



NO HOLIDAY IN French Canada is complete without a drive in a horse-drawn caleche. In Montreal, you can ride up the mountain in the center of the city for a panorama of the city and the St. Lawrence River. World's Fair visitors in 1967 will want to find time for this unique experience. (Canadian Government Travel Bureau photo)

Montreal site of Expo 67, Canada's 1967 World's Fair, offers the lively 'foreign' atmosphere of Paris—but with all the conveniences of home.

The Canadian metropolis is the second largest French-speaking city in the world, yet English is understood everywhere. There you can enjoy the best in wines, first rate French theater or authentic, vivacious can can, and drink in that delightful French joie de vivre with a distinctive Canadian flavor!

WHATEVER your specialty—shopping, dining, entertainment, history, architecture, sight-seeing . . . Montreal has it in spades!

Skyscrapers dominate downtown Montreal.

One of these, a shining new complex on Place Ville Marie is almost a town in itself. Above ground there are 40 floors of office space, topped by an ultra smart dining room and bar called Altitude 737, which commands a superb view of the city and the St. Lawrence River beyond. Below ground is a completely different world of smart shops, theaters, restaurant. You can even indulge in "instant" theater, a half-hour production during the lunch hour.

JUST A FEW blocks away is "old Montreal." There many French homes, built of enduring stone over a century ago, house business firms. Some have now been restored for gracious living.

For a relaxing change of pace, take a horse-drawn caleche up Mount Royal, enjoy the lovely natural park, and clip-clop leisurely around luxurious homes in Outremont and Westmount. (If you go in winter, you can make the same trip in a sleigh).

A NEW SHAPE in downtown Montreal—the Dow Planetarium—projects the spectacle of the universe within its giant dome.

Sixty more theaters offer a wide choice of films and several live theaters present plays in French or English. One French group even provides instantaneous English translation with rented transistor units. Place des Arts is the leading center for ballet, opera and symphonic music, and the acoustics in this ultra modern complex have been compared to LaScala in Milan.

Dining in Montreal can be a gourmet's dream, for French chefs are artists in food. One of the best places to savor typical French Canadian food is the oldest restaurant in North America: L'Auberge le Vieux Saint-Gabriel.

TRY THE tourtiere Canadienne, a meat pie made from pork shoulder, or delight your palate with sugar pie, made with molasses and maple sugar, and swimming in thick farm cream.

The famous "A la Crepe Bretonne," on the other hand, specializes in paper-thin Brittany pancakes, with a choice of 81 different fillings.

St. Catherine Street, with five big department stores, is the center of the shopping area. Two blocks up, on Sherbrooke, is Montreal's "Fifth Avenue" with small elegant shops scattered among art galleries. On side streets you find specialty shops in old French houses.

FOR CRAFT work and souvenire, continue down to St. Louis Street in old Montreal. Here at the Quebec Handicrafts Center you can buy authentic Canadian wood carvings, colorful hooked rugs and wool pictures.

Montreal has over 300 churches, 80 per cent of them Roman Catholic. Notre Dame is one of the most beautiful churches in North America with its great twin towers, monumental altar and exquisite wood carvings.

FRENCH CANADIANS enjoy their sports, so whatever the season, there are activities to watch or to share . . . ice-hockey with the famous Canadiens or skiing, swimming, tennis and golf, all within the city limits.

A multitude of big-city attractions, French flair, and Expo 67 — make Montreal a tourist "must" in Canada's Centennial Year.

Some Basic Advice For Planning That Trip Abroad

By WENDELL PHILLIPPI
For The Associated Press

If you want to take trip to Europe try to find some time prior to departure to read and study what you want to see and do.

For our 21-day trip our roommates did this, much to the advantage of the men folk.

It is important to remember that you can't see everything you want to see — time and energy run out.

HERE ARE SOME basics one learns early:

Try to learn enough language to get along with the natives so you won't walk yourself into a state of collapse hunting for someone who speaks English.

Carry a list of words such as breakfast, lunch, beer, soup, cheese, ham, eggs.

Be prepared to hail a cab when you "dogs" are burning to spend a little extra money to see what you want to see. In fact, if you can afford it, the best thing to do is to hire a car for a few hours and see the major sights. Or take a cab for a trip so you will be able to find your own way later.

IF POSSIBLE, get a hotel near the train station — most hotels in Europe are so located. This way you may be able to talk the women into carrying their bags from the train to the hotel. You save money, you get some exercise and you sharpen your sense of direction.

When leaving the hotel be sure to notice where you are going so you can always find your way back. This isn't easy where the streets go in uncompleted half circles and keep stringing out from one tangent to the next.

Take wash and wear clothes. Learn to do your laundry the minute you arrive in a hotel so it will have plenty of drying time and you're not too tired to do it after an evening of fun and sight-seeing.

WHILE MOST European men wear ties and shirts and the women are usually dressed to the hilt, don't let this bother your comfort. Two washable short sleeve sport shirts are adequate. (You can get by with one, but your companions may get tired looking at it.)

Men almost have to wear a coat to carry passports, train schedules, maps and many other items in order to survive. So take a light-weight coat and a heavy one.

Knit suits are best for the women because they lose their creases at night. Don't forget to take a couple of light dresses in event of hot weather.

At an early point, learn to travel on trains like the natives do. Carry your water, wine, cheese and rolls. A corkscrew then becomes a necessity and, of course, a knife to cut the cheese is needed. Under these conditions you can go for hours without worry of starvation — and it does seem possible on a train if there is no diner.

Your luggage should be small. Take two small bags instead of one large one. They balance each other and fit into luggage racks much better.

PLAN YOUR schedule so each hotel can make a reservation at your next destination, particularly if you are traveling between early spring and late fall. While it is true that Americans disappear in Europe after Sept. 1, the Europeans then take over.

Stay in one place for at least two days each week to get rested. Also, you may accumulate some dirty cloths along the way.

Necessary personal items to take include a clothes line, soap, powder, toilet paper (it isn't as rough as you are led to believe), inflatable hangers, paragoric and bizmuth. Facial tissues are available at local drug stores.

BEFORE LEAVING, get a few coins for each country so you can tip the attendants in the water closets at the train stations. Otherwise you may be in trouble.

Men who use an eiectric razor should have no fear. Get a converter and you may shave all over Europe, including on the trains. The converter's range is from 120 to 250 voltage. Be sure to check the hotel desk — for the voltage.

Take along a few Kennedy half dollars, if you can get them, and you'll find they are the best American souvenirs and tips. While they once sold for $3.50 each on the black market you can't get more than a few cents above 50 cents in exchange now.

LIKEWISE, TAKE American dollar bills — you need a few but not many. Be sure to carry a currency converter or a list of coin values. When a clerk sees you checking, you won't get an exhorbitant price quoted.

Carry your raincoat with you all the time. It may not rain, but there are a lot of pigeons around every cathedral in Europe. You may need it to protect yourself on the way in and out.

The Golfer Has It Made In Ireland

The golf enthusiast, making his first visit to Ireland, would be wise to allow a few extra days for the trip.

No doubt he will yield to the urge to try his skill on the challenging courses he will find practically everywhere. The beautiful green island, about one-third the size of Kansas, has 206 courses, many of them of championship caliber, according to the Irish Tourist Board.

Dublin City and County have 27 courses. Belfast and County Antrim have 22. Cork City and County have 17 courses, while the five counties of Connacht have 27.

On a complete round-the-coast tour of Ireland, covering a distance of approximately 1,000 miles from Dublin to Dublin, the golfer has a choice of over 20 first-class 18 hole championship courses, an average of one course every 50 miles.

The courses are open throughout the year, with green fees about 80 cents per day, and excellent club-houses and catering facilities are available.

The average golfer will find a warm, friendly welcome at the clubs he visits. The secretary will be expecting him, and the local professional will lend him clubs, arrange for partners or take care of his other needs. And if he comes between March and October, he will be able to attend major competitions.

A TREASURY OF SUCCESS UNLIMITED edited by Og Mandino, Hawthorn Books, 255 pages, $5.95.

LANGUAGES, TERRITORIES AND NAMES OF CALIFORNIA INDIAN TRIBES by Robert F. Heizer, University of California Press, 62 pages plus maps, $4.

As a reminder of an earlier era in America and a far different way of life, the barn ranks high.

Those sturdy structures still standing serve as no-nonsense memorials to our forefathers' sense of practicality and dedication to excellence. They encompass, too, a quality of architectural integrity. And they reflect the unfailing ingenuity and optimism of the pioneer farmer.

That they are also relics of a harder time cannot be denied. So that while we often feel a hankering — almost a hunger — for a return to that simpler age, especially when modern-day complexity reaches the shrill intensity of an insanity, the less sentimental truth is that most of us would back away quickly from any opportunity to retrogress to that period.

Still, there is a nostalgic pleasure that is satisfying to the soul in daydreaming of those bygone decades when America was basically a rural and self-dependent country. Even those of us who were city or town born and reared usually have childhood memories of one or more barns that held for us a special meaning and affection.

"An Age of Barns" by Eric Sloane thus has a subject of unfailing appeal. It deals with something that is part of our heritage — our very roots.

Sloane already has acquired a reputation for exceptionally effective treatment of topics Americana. His newest book can only enhance his prestige.

He tells you just about everything anyone could want to know about barns. The only limitation is geographical. He has restricted himself to east of the Mississippi where the earliest American barns were born. We confess ourselves disappointed that we turned the pages hopefully, but without success, in search of some of those gaunt, yet impressive, sentinels we knew as a boy on the Kansas prairies.

Sloane tell you why barns were built, and how. By whom, with what tools, and for what purposes. He goes into the various architectural modes and the varying construction techniques. He describes accessories and adornments. He tells you how to "date" a barn. He deals specifically with some of the better-known barns.

There is also a great deal of utterly fascinating material about other farm outbuildings — springhouses, silos, cellars, smokehouses, corn cribs, sugarhouses, etc.

All of this, Sloane has illustrated superbly with some 80 pen and ink drawings by himself. At the back of the book is a portfolio of 10 full-color plates of distinctive barns that are so picturesque as to beg for framing.

As you turn the pages, you find yourself remembering the sweet smell of hay, the more acrid aroma of manure, the sound of milk squirting from the cow into the pail.

At first thought, the $12.50 price tag seems a lot. But when one gives sober thought to the tremendous amount of research Sloane has invested in the subject, to the clarity with which he has transmitted his information, and to the exacting work that went into those splendid drawings. one realizes that the book can only be regarded as something of a bargain.

Many gift books of the last Christmas season offered far less in the way of substance for far greater money. Few dealt with a more engrossing subject, or handled it so well.

SUCCESS Unlimited Magazine is the "trade journal" of the positive thinkers.

It offers a steady diet of advice on how to attain wealth, prestige, influence, contentment and good health through mental discipline, and cites examples among the industrialists, entertainment stars, professional leaders, etc.

Its executive editor, Og Mandino, has prepared an anthology from its pages that he has entitled "A Treasury of Success Unlimited."

There are 60 articles in all, covering a decade of issues of the magazine. A good deal of it reads like junk. But among the pap is to be found some real nuggets.

For instance, "Kelley's Christmas Gift" by Mandino himself, is a really tender and touching piece. Dr. William G. Menninger tells you how to test your emotional maturity. Jack Meyer offers sound advice on combating insomnia. Ed Sainsbury outlines the program of the University of Illinois' Dr. Thomas Kirk Cureton, one of the most respected of the fitness advocates, on the maintenance of a strong body.

Some of the inspirational careers presented briefly are interesting and meaningful. And more of the little pep talks strike home than one might expect.

On the whole, the book will come as a pleasant surprise to those generally skeptical of this kind of thing. The articles are short and crisp. You can skip the stuff like Eddie Rickenbacker's rightwing philosophy and some of the more esoteric essays on the achievement of material or spiritual riches and still derive a great deal of value from "A Treasury of Success Unlimited."

GENERALLY speaking, California's Indian tribes were an unglamorous lot, when compared with the colorful warrior peoples of the plains and prairies to the east. Consequently, they have received relatively little attention outside of a select group of historians and scholars, and even the information available to them has been limited and not always reliable.

Robert F. Heizer, professor of anthropology and curator of North American archaeology at Lowrie Museum of Anthropology, University of California at Berkeley, has collected the best available material on the subject under the title "Languages, Territories and Names of California Indian Tribes."

A key feature of the book is the inclusion of four tribal maps, prepared over a period from 1877 to 1955. It demonstrates that there have, indeed, been some advances in our knowledge of California's aboriginal culture, even though the general public has remained unaware of or indifferent to those developments.

Two of the maps that depict the territories occupied by California tribes are described as "the most detailed ever published" and superior in accuracy to any of their predecessors.

In his brief text, Heizer points out that tribal identities were based largely upon language differences. He reviews past attempts to plot the distribution of those tribes, and discusses tribal organizations and property practices.

THREE Bay Area poets—Leon Spiro, Robert L. Peters and George Hitchcock — have been included along with French and Vietnamese poets in Reactions No. 4, the international journal published in Bienne, Switzerland, and distributed here through the S-B Gazette of Post Office Box 711, Sausalito.

JOHN GUNTHER'S already published "Inside South America" is the Book-of-the-Month Club selection for March.

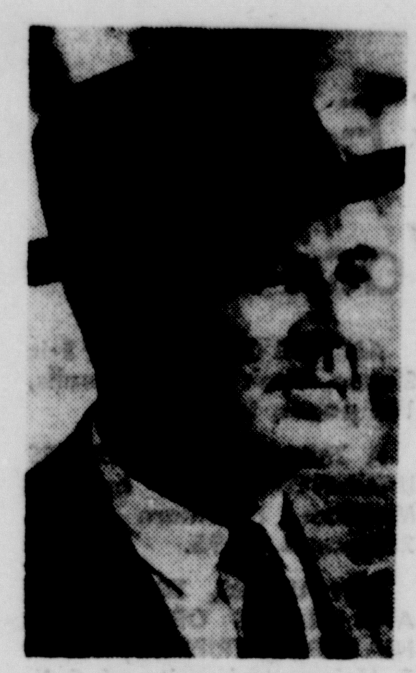
The Recollections Of An Ex-Reporter

IN SEARCH OF SOMETHING by Herbert Cerwin, Sherbourne Press, 318 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Harry Craft.

A newspaperman turned publicist would be bound to have an interesting collection of memoirs and Herbert Cerwin has set forth a lively account of his experiences from the time he was a cub reporter in San Jose through his service for the U. S. embassy in Brazil and the state department in Europe.



HERBERT CERWIN
Publicist and diplomat

Between these early and later events he takes the reader into his promotional escapades for Del Monte Lodge, events in and around Carmel, the start of the invasion of China by Japan, acting as Nelson Rockefeller's leg man in Mexico for the Office of Inter-American Affairs, to Guatemala, France, Norway, Denmark—and the Valley of the Moon in Sonoma County.

Cerwin is a prolific name-dropper, but the people in his book are actually those with whom or for whom he worked, who befriended him, or whose paths he crossed dramatically. Some of these were Lincoln Steffens, Salvador Dali, Harry Leon Wilson, Gertrude Stein, Leopold Stowkowski and men high in governmental circles.

He is not a humorist, but the book is filled with humorous situations that developed around the participant characters.

Particularly revealing are his experiences in Latin America, for he has the advantage of being fluent in Spanish, having a reporter's inquiring mind and a genuine facility for enjoying people in all stations of life.

A Practical Guide For The Gardener

SUNSET WESTERN GARDEN BOOK by editors of Sunset Magazine and Sunset Books, Lane, 448 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

This is an all-new version of a splendid gardening book that sold more than a million copies in its original edition since it first appeared in 1954.

Contents have been updated and expanded (by 40 per cent).

The coverage of all aspects of gardening is cogent and comprehensive, as one would expect from Sunset. But there are other good books in that field. What distinguishes this from the other volumes is that it has been prepared especially for westerners. Its every page is applicable to our climatic and soil conditions, and to our interests and tastes.

The bulk of the big volume provides encyclopedic treatment to more than 5,000 western plants, listed both as to common and botanical names, and providing complete information as to their habits and needs.

Another 64 pages are devoted to proper plant selection for particular garden or growing purposes. This is expertly done.

The fundamentals of planting and of culture are there, as one would expect. There are extras such as climate zone maps, a glossary of gardening terms, an insect control chart, etc.

The book is a handsome one, attractively and sturdily bound. Illustrations are numerous and informative. Although there is no color, that seems only to emphasize the point that this is a working gardener's text — not a glossy, gaudy picture book. Finally, the very reasonable price, considering the size and quality of the book, is a last big plus.

War Story That's A Real Gem

It's always nice to find a medium-rare steak under a hamburger bun.

Mudskipper, with a subtitle of "The Submarine That Wrecked a Train," sounds very much like one book in a long line of thriller-diller action books out of which they can make a special-effects Cinemascope movie at MGM.

It would make a good movie in small screen black and white. It is a taut, rather grimy, portrait of men who have been at war too long.

The submarine is anchored off a northern Japanese island in the waning days of the war. Its skipper is an action-hungry, neurotic hero who is marked for a misfit as soon as the war ends. The train is a Japanese food train running back and forth between two minor, inconsequential cities. The captain wants to wreck it with a landing party.

That in effect is the plot. It plays itself out economically, logically, almost inevitably. The characterizations are sound and human. The cutbacks between train and submarine, like a Hitchcock thriller, heighten the suspense.

It's a war story but a gem of a war story.

Two Views Of Europe

EUROPEAN UNIFICATION IN THE SIXTIES by Miriam Camps, McGraw-Hill, 257 pages, $7.50. Reviewed by Pat Perry.

At a time when Prime Minister Harold Wilson is wooing Gen. Charles de Gaulle for Britain's entry into the Common Market, this account of the European community's progress in the '60s is particularly relevant.

Mrs. Camps, an economics and foreign relations expert with the Royal Institute of International Affairs in London, traces the Common Market's development after the crisis when De Gaulle vetoed British membership in January 1963, and through the 1965 crisis, again precipitated by De Gaulle's concept of French leadership.

Throughout the book she uses the terms "Europeans" and "Gaullists" and it's interesting to read her interpretation of these titles. Gaullists, she says, accept De Gaulle's thesis that the European countries should become a "third force" deliberately rejecting any very close tie with the United States. "Europeans" accept the need for a close relationship with the United States

Frankly, I found the first section of the book ponderous and extremely dull, tracing step by step, rather like the minutes of a meeting, the actions of the Euroean Economic Community Commission's negotiations.

It's only at the end, when she analyzes her subject that her book comes to life.

And her forecast for the Common Market? "Provided General de Gaulle relinquishes power in the next few years it seems reasonably safe to predict that the Community will survive the backwash of the NATO crisis, that the British interest in Europe will continue to grow and that the United Kingdom will become a member of the Community soon after a change of government in France."

THE ATLANTIC IDEA AND ITS EUROPEAN RIVALS by Harold Van B. Cleveland, McGraw Hill, 170 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Pat Perry.

As an adjunct to Mrs. Camp's definitive treatise on recent European unification, Van Cleveland, director of Atlantic Policy Studies of the Council on Foreign Relations, evaluates the military and economic aspects of an Atlantic Alliance.

While she speaks of the Gaullists versus the Europeans, he uses the terms "Europeans" and "Atlantics." The European idea would replace American leadership by European autonomy, and the Atlantic idea calls for a continuation of that leadership.

The Atlantic Alliance was formed after World War II to protect a devastated Europe from the immediate threat of Communist subversion. Now the value of the alliance is questioned by Europeans, particularly with the current detente.

Cleveland contends that Europe's dependence on America for military support gives Europeans "the feeling that they do not control their own political destiny."

He concludes that "if European nuclear collaboration proves to be the only way to get Britain into Europe and do something effective about Germany's nuclear role, the United States could well afford to take the risk that such collaboration might one day lead to the military and political separation of Europe and America."

Such separation might come, he theorizes, "if we seek to lay down the load, trusting in the good will of other nations to look after vital interest which we have become too weary or too confused to look after ourselves."

Hearty Nordic Dishes Now Available To U.S. Cooks

THE GREAT SCANDINAVIAN COOK BOOK by Karen Fredrikson, Crown, 733 pages, $15. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

This just has to be one of the two or three major cook books that will be published in the United States this year.

It is a mammoth volume, superbly organized and illustrated.

Behind the book is a history that gives further proof of its extraordinary quality.

The work of a board of 23 specialists, it was first published in Swedish, Danish, Norwegian and Finnish editions 25 years ago, and in those languages has sold more than 750,000 copies. It has become the unchallenged standard cook book for those countries.

Now J. Audrey Ellison, aided by Charlotte Turgeon, has translated and edited this English version, adapted to our measurements, ingredients and terms.

The distinctive appeal of Scandinavian cookery — the zesty heartiness, the unsurpassed goodness—is apparent in these pages. The contents are not restricted to recipes. There is a wealth of other information — on kitchen equipment, food selection, storage, preparation, the various cooking processes, ingredients, table laying, serving, entertaining, etc.

This is one of those big books that the housewife takes special care to place on the handiest available shelf, for she knows she will be reaching for it often.

The Sleuths And Suspense—

RUNAWAY HOME! By Kage Booton, Doubleday, 184 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

In "Runaway Home!" Kage Booton has written for Doubleday's Crime Club a suspense novel that is unusually successful for a first book.

It would be noteworthy in its genre for the fact alone that it contains neither murder in its plot nor spies among its cast.

But the author succeeds in making his more everyday characters nonetheless interesting, and in building suspense without resorting to violence.

A well-to-do New Jersey automobile dealer, his ex-singer wife and their teen-age daughter are enjoying a pleasant, middle-class way of life. Then that smooth existence is interrupted by the arrival in town of a curiously menacing guitar-playing, black-jacketed singer and his combo. Jim and Myra Richardson strive desperately to keep their 16-year-old from falling victim to his charms, and the struggle is one that parents, especially, will appreciate and enjoy.

Artist Paul Hedley, hero of Ben Healey's "Waiting For A Tiger," returns to the French Riviera in another suspense novel.

While waiting for his fiancee to join him for a month on the sun-splashed shores, Hedley reads of the death of Christophe Pigotte. The latter believed himself an artist but he was more of a character who cadged francs from women tourists, slept where he would find a place to sleep and never did anyone any harm.

The obituary said Pigotte was dead, not murdered; but Hedley, to mark time waiting for his lady love, thinks there's foul play, and he begins to nose around a bit. The terrible pictures are those of Pigotte.

And then . . . Hedley is threatened by the police, sent to find a dead woman, slugged and drugged in his villa, beaten again and driven to a high narrow road where he is to be dumped with whisky spilled over his clothes.

STEREO, HI-FI

By C. J. Catania

KEYBOARD IMMORTALS PLAY AGAIN IN STEREO! San Francisco has been selected as one of seventeen cities in which a series of FM stereo concerts will be presented.

Mr. Joseph Tushinsky, President of Superscope, the United States distributors for Sony tape recorders, owns a "Welte Vorsetzer," an almost miraculous piano-playing device. It has 18 fingers and was invented in 1902. For reproduction through the Vorsetzer, nearly every pianist of the early 1900's recorded paper piano-rolls for Herr Edwin Welte. Mr. Tushinsky has recorded stereo tapes of these giants—who really sound as if they were alive and vitally present. The piano he used was his own, imported for the purpose, a nine-and-a-half-foot Bosendorfer Imperial Concert Grand.

From 8 to 9 p.m. every Sunday evening you can hear these stereo concerts over FM Radio Station KKHI at 95.7 on the dial. The series will last for thirteen weeks.

Just think, music preserved by the first high fidelity recording and reproducing device ever invented is now being brought to you, two generations later, through the wonders of today's most up-to-date FM stereo radio and stereo tape recording.

You too can tape record these immortal concerts. If you do not already have a tape recorder, feel free to visit our stereo tape room and let us show you how a Sony tape recorder can be incorporated into your system for as low as $135.00.

THE MASTER'S PLAN

Sunset in the mountains,
Sunset on the plains,
Sunset o'er the waters
God's plan for close of day.

He caused the sun to rise and shine
To give us warmth and light.
He placed the moon high in the sky,
To light our path at night.

He made the lovely flowers to bloom,
To cheer our troubled hearts.
He put the rain clouds in the sky
To cool our dry parched earth.

He gave to us his blessings.
He gave to us his love.
He gave to us forgiveness,
And life with him above.

He gave to us so generously—
Of all things great and small.
He gave to us his own dear son
To die upon the cross.

Sparkling eyes, velvet of skin,
One day mother of strong sons
And fair daughters,
Champagne, ambrosia and hot chocolate.

The dew is on the rose
Softly walks thee on my heart,
Beauty is thy gift.
Sweet mystery thou bringest
Trembling on life's brink.

Restless sea crashing against
A serene shore
"Whither goest thou?"
The heart cries "Careful—
Lest you fall!"

Epilogue
The clay is molded and smoothed
Each to his niche,
With joyful awe
We observe God's handiwork
—And ours!

On The Stereo Scene

By JOHN SUNIER

RAVEL: The Complete Piano Music — Werner Haas, piano — Philips World Series Mono/Stereo PHC 2-001:

Philips' new bargain-priced classical label has one unique thing about it — a compatible stereo disc technique.

Through a process called "phase control," the stereo disc may be played without damage to the grooves on any modern mono phonograph, yet it has the full stereo effects when heard on a stereo system.

This new complete Ravel piano music set will be strong competition to the previously-definitive Gieseking set. Haas was one of the late Gieseking's star pupils and he learned his lessons extremely well. If anything, a certain dynamism has been added to his teacher's style of playing.

The sound is excellent, and this was a big drawback on the old Gieseking set — very noisy surfaces.

GLUCK: Orphee Ballet Suite; RAMEAU: Castor et Pollux Ballet Suite — London Symphony Orchestra / Charles Mackerras — Philips World Series Mono/Stereo PHC 9002:

The ballet music of the 18th Century is some of the most immediately attractive for initiates to become acquainted with.

While the Gluck music is surpassed in both performance and sound by a new Victor release, the Rameau music is represented on disc only by one other performance on a minor label with atrocious sound quality. Rameau believed in the supremacy of harmony, and made many innovations in this area. His music is delicate and polite, yet solid and oftimes rather involved in its development for these times. Actually, a suite from Rameau's "Orphee" could have been the coupling instead of "Castor," for he also was attracted to the Orpheus story.

How about following various composers' treatments of the Orpheus legend for an album idea — from Monteverdi through William Schuman?

HANDEL: Messiah (complete — Harper/Watts/Wakefield/Shirley-Quirk/London Symphony Orchestra and London Symphony Choir/Colin Davis, conditioning — Philips Stereo PHS 3-992:

Anyway, if you don't have a complete Messiah or wish to replace a mono version, this Philips release can be recommended with reservation. Along with a somewhat less successful release on Victor by the Robert Shaw Chorale, this work differs from previous efforts in a return to the original instrumentation and smaller number of performers.

Over two centuries what is probably the world's most-performed choral work has undergone many changes, mostly in the direction of expanding the number of performers. Some 19th Century gala performances used nearly the entire populations of large towns in massive choruses.

Here, Davis has followed exactly Handel's instructions as to what instruments to use, and just where they should or shouldn't play along with the chorus. A chorus of only 40 voices was employed. The solo high trumpet man, William Lang, is terrific, and the tenor, John Wakefield, is also a standout performer. The organ and harpsichord come through clearly instead of being lost in a muffler of orchestral excess.

Best of all, there is absolutely no punch removed from the big choral climaxes due to the smaller performance size. In fact the dynamic range seems increased due to the better instrumentation and excellent stereo reproduction.

Interesting notes accompany the album, and the cover art is a reproduction of a gorgeous English Romanesque gold cross. This album will get many playings; not just at the Yuletide or Easter season.

Kathy Aims At Olympics

Hamilton WAF Is Promising Track Hopeful

AT HER JOB with Hamilton Air Force Base's personnel services office, WAF Kathy Draggaman performs a routine typing job. But off duty and on her own time, below, she clears the low hurdles as she prepares to compete in the grueling pentathlon event, with the 1968 Olympic Games as her major objective.

A3C Katherine L. Draggaman of Detroit, Mich., hopes to compete in the Pan-American Games in Winnipeg, Canada, in July of this year, and eventually in the Olympics of 1968.

She is benefiting from a stepped-up U.S. athletic program for women. However, according to Hamilton's WAF commander, Capt. Shirley L. Gilbert, "She must learn an Air Force job first and perform in her athletic events during her off-duty time."

Kathy, 18, is training for the pentathlon which consists of a series of events — the high jump, the running long jump, the 80-meter low hurdles, the 200-meter dash and the four-kilo shot put.

When she was at Taylor Center High School in Taylor, Mich., Kathy aspired to a place on the boys' track team. She felt that she could excel at track, but her competition was restricted to intramural events and gym classes.

THE SUMMER following her graduation from high school, in 1965, Kathy's gym teacher offered to pay her entrance fee to the state-wide Amateur Athletic Union meet at Pontiac, Mich.

Two days before the meet she agreed to enter. Wearing Levi's, sweatshirt and sneakers, the lithe WAF won a first in the high jump, a second in the hurdles and a fourth in the long jump.

This past summer Kathy competed in the Women's Junior Nationals in Poplar Bluff, Mo., where she placed second in the hurdles.

DURING THE same season the young track star set a Michigan state meet record in the high jump at five feet two inches.

Kathy would like to run in the morning before work, but in typically feminine fashion she is worried that she would not have time to fix her hair properly before reporting to her job. As the fashion-conscious WAF emphasizes, "After all, my job comes first."

Since she arrived at Hamilton in November, Kathy has been training with the Millbrae Lions Track and Field Club in San Mateo.

ON THE DAYS the busy WAF does not go to Millbrae, she works out on the base track.

An active and vivacious young lady, Kathy is also blessed with determination. And right now it is directed toward Mexico City and those all-important 1968 Olympic games.

"Does Drycleaning Kill Bacteria In Clothing?"

It has been assumed that drycleaning solvent will kill bacteria, including those found in clothing worn by someone with an illness. That is not true, according to a study completed recently by microbiologists of the United States Department of Agriculture. It is especially important to know this in view of coin-operated drycleaning.

While many bacteria are killed by washing in solvents, some manage to survive, the report showed. Drycleaning alone, does not disinfect fabrics. The steam finishing and pressing used by drycleaners does destroy bacteria, but garments are not steam-treated in coin operations. Even when garments are pressed at home, bacteria may survive in sleeves and pockets linings which are not subjected to as high a temperature as the rest of the garment.

While scientists say more research is needed to determine how many bacteria are spread or killed by present methods, Mrs. P.I.F., it is best not to use coin-operated drycleaning to clean or disinfect fabrics believed to be contaminated with harmful bacteria.

Plant Your Hedge As Garden Divider

To many a gardener hedges serve only one purpose — that of marking the boundary to his property. Yet there is many another use for hedging material.

For instance, the hedge can be used formally or informally as a garden screen or divider. A service area or a vegetable garden can be screened from sight with proper hedging. A flower bed or border can be defined and enhanced by use of a low evergreen hedge.

THE HEDGE need not be formal nor even evergreen. It can be informal and flowering, as with a floribunda rose hedge.

In part the type of hedge you plant will be determined by how much time you can give it. The clipped, formal hedge can be a thing of beauty, but an informal hedge takes less time to maintain and can have an attractive natural look.

Californians have more hedge plants to choose from than do gardeners in other states. We can choose from traditional material such as boxwood and privet or we can be really unconventional and try an informal flowering hedge — say gardenias or hibiscus. It all depends on whether we need a wall or merely a line of definition.

LET'S LOOK at some examples:

The boxwoods are formality themselves. From the true Dwarf Box, which is used to trim a border or a flower bed, to the taller English Box and Japanese Box, used for low hedges and foundations, primarily for their architectural effect, these have great appeal. Even when grown informally — that is, only loosely trimmed — they are neat and prim.

Next in line from the formality standpoint are the privets and two have come to increasing prominence in recent years. The Waxleaf Privet with deep green, almost succulent-looking leaves, is a standout. It can be grown as a moderately high hedge or as a screen. The Lodense Privet is more compact, deep green and deciduous.

THE YEW family offers several possibilities as hedges. So, too, do the Pittosporums. For tall screens, the Victorian Box is an excellent choice from this family, while informal hedges of the Tobiar Pittosporum are excellent. Both produce intensely fragrant blooms in spring and summer.

For heavy screens, nurserymen recommend trying one or another of the bamboos. These are informal and elegant, lacy in their appearance, always appealing to the eye. Some are too tender for general use, but the Golden Bamboo is widely grown in our state.

CHECKLIST FOR MARIN GARDENERS

- If you envy your neighbor's flowering fruit trees, plant your own now for next year.
- Tuberous begonia bulbs may be started in flats of sand and peat now for potting or planting late next month.
- Spray peach and nectarine trees to prevent leaf curl if you haven't done so already.
- Plant a row of floribunda roses in one variety for a colorful, informal hedge.
- The bareroot planting season is waning. Plant roses, fruit trees and other deciduous material now while they are still available in bareroot form.

A SUPERHERO by the name of Powermowerman has been created by the Outdoor Power Equipment Institute as the symbol of that industry's national safety drive. Distressed by a U. S. Public Health Service report that 100,000 Americans are injured annually in power mower mishaps, the institute is launching a vigorous campaign to point out the necessity for commonsense safety precautions in the use of the implements. Most common causes of injuries, says Powermowerman, or the institute for which he is spokesman, are objects hurled by the rotary blades, the pulling of the machine back over the operator's feet and the making of adjustments while the engine is running.

exciting concepts from Orinda pools

One reason more people are buying ORINDA pools this year is because ORINDA pools cost less to buy. Your ORINDA custom pool representative, in fact, can show you on paper that, not only is the base price lower in most cases, but when you add the options you want, the price advantage of an ORINDA pool becomes even greater.

And because it is an ORINDA pool, you get all the advantages of an ORINDA pool. The uncommon luxury of design and engineering by Orinda, and styling leadership that has made ORINDA Pools the best selling in northern California.

All of which is still just the beginning. *A giant Laars boiler is included with the 1967 Orinda Custom Royal Series providing low cost heating year long. You also have the traditionally conservative value of an ORINDA pool to enjoy. On top of all the other advantages.

Low monthly payments on ten year plan from northern California's oldest major pool builder.

Open-Plan Home Needs A Strong Ceiling

Open area home design — is it dead?

At first glance, you might answer yes, for there's little being built today that resembles the wide-open interiors of the 1950s.

Yet the principle of an open-plan homei s still here, reshaped and refined in the hands of leading residential architects. Instead of eliminating or lowering walls, these designers have implemented the plan by raising the roof — floating the ceiling well above wall tops.

THE OBJECT is to release the room from the restrictions of the cube, letting it expand upward and visually borrow space from adjoining areas.

But with the new approach, room privacy and individuality are retained Walls are head-height at the least, often eight feet high, while the ceiling may rise as much as an additional story above.

Though often dramatic, there's nothing cold about this type of design. Because the ceiling itself plays such an important role in the home's interior, its appearance generally is emphasized through use of warm, textured materials and satisfying shape.

FOR INSTANCE, in lieu of a pitched or cathedral ceiling, an architect might divide it into thirds lengthwise, letting the middle section rise high while the two outside sections sweep out in flat wings at standard ceiling height. This technique has the effect of creating cozy inglenooks within rooms which also have been released upwards at the inside wall.

At the same time, the architect might space a series of joists across the higher center section of the ceiling, setting them at a nine-foot height while the ridge rises high above. This again produces a sheltered feeling, but lets the rooms reach up and out for space.

CEILINGS ARE almost always paneled, with the wood finished clear to let its natural warmth reflect down into the room. Short lengths of western red cedar are considered good for this purpose, and are especially effective when resawn. Vertical grain western hemlock, Douglas fir, white fir and redwood are also good.

FOR THE open-plan home, architectural detailing is doubly important. Here vaulted ceiling lifts and connects the space between living and dining rooms. The rich ceiling is paneled with short lengths of resawn red cedar boards, and exposed rafters keep the cozy feeling.

BRIGHT IDEAS

Shades And Valences Make Windows Things Of Beauty

By JOE JONES

Here is one for window treatment. Stark white shades bear a Greek key motif created with black vinyl, self-adhesive tape. Topped off with plywood valences of brilliant color, the windows become things of beauty.

It's easily done.

Lay the shade, open, on the floor or large table. With a yardstick and hard pencil, lightly sketch your design on the shade. (It's best to sketch first on paper, say to a scale of one inch to one foot. This will minimize errors and assure geometricity.) Apply the black tape firmly to the shade, following the penciled lines.

Have the plywood valences made by your carpenter or neighbor (if he has the power tools.) Here again, design them first on paper to scale. Tack or glue the fabric to the valence before installing. Garnish with tassels.

Try making shades from fabric to match your upholstery. For this, buy the shade rollers and bottom sticks separately. Fabric must be specially treated to stiffen like a window shade. A liquid called Decor-Shade does the trick.

If you wish, scallop the bottoms of the shades. Tack the fabric to the rollers and up they go.
